

Letters To 'Class Struggle'

No Movement Without Theory

Dear Friends,

Enclosing payment for five (5) copies of the long awaited journal of the October League. Our young but devolping movement is woefully deficient in the areas of theory making our task of constructing a countrywide communist party all the more difficult. Here Lenin's often repeated phrase "Without revolutionary theory there can be no revolutionary movement" becomes even more apparent. The publication of Class Struggle represents a significant step in the attempts to rectify the existing weaknesses.

In addition I an enclosing a slip requesting that a sample copy of the The Call be forwarded to a friend. Thanks.

From Marion Prisoners

Dear Friends:

We write in behalf of the Chicano/Latino Cultural Group which recently came into existence here at Marion Penitentiary.

Your journal Class Struggle (Spring, 1975 no.1) has been of tremendous interest to Chicanos at Marion Penitentiary and we would certainly like to have a copy. We do not have the necessary funds to pay for books, periodicals, we are entirely dependent on donations of concerned people, complimentary copies or simply damaged books which individual authors, or publishers can provide.

If our request is granted the book may be sent directly to us in care of our sponsor as indicated below.

We thank you in advance for whatever courtesy you may be able to provide.

Very truly yours,

Need For Ideological Struggle

Dear Call,

Here's $1.00 for the first issue of Class Struggle. It's good to hear that the October League has come out with a theoretical journal. Building a new anti-revisionist multinational communist party is going to take a good bit of principled ideological struggle.

I hope you're going to be getting this out to the bookstores.

Published in Ta Kung Pao

The Editor,

I have the pleasure to inform you that one of the articles of the journal "CLASS STRUGGLE" which you sent me last month had been translated into Chinese and was published in our paper Ta Kung Pao. The article bears the name of "The Restoration of Capitalism and the Rise of Social Imperialism in the USSR." Enclosed herewith is the Chinese version of the whole article.

Hits at Chauvinists

Comrades,

The first issue of Class Struggle is very timely. Never has the need for such a journal been greater. I especially thought that the article on "Self-Determination" was an important contribution to the struggle against the various chauvinist trends such as the Revolutionary Union and the Guardian's Silber.

From Study Group

Sisters and Brothers, Comrades:

We saw the ad introducing the Class Struggle in the Guardian recently; we welcome its publication.

Our project's study collective would like to request three (3) copies of the spring, 1975 edition. Enclosed is a check for the material.

We look forward to reading and studying Class Struggle and you will, no doubt, be receiving our opinions and criticisms.
