

REFERENCES

- 1) This figure is extrapolated from the amount of $173.0 billion in 1973, taken from the Department of Commerce's Survey of Current Business, August, 1973, p. 21, quoted in the Report to the U.S. Senate, Committee on Foreign Relations, Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations, Direct Investment Abroad and the Multinationals: Effects on the United States Economy, 1973, p.11. This figure does not include government loans, nor does it include investment in U.S. "possessions" such as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, etc. It is also apparently understated due to several additional factors.
- 2) See Stalin's Economic Problems of Socialism in the U.S.S.R., FLP Peking, p.39 & pp.40-41 for a discussion of the basic economic laws of capitalism and socialism.
- 3) See Soviet Social-Imperialism in India, a pamphlet printed in 1976 by the faction of the Communist Party of India (M-L) with S.M. Singh as General Secretary and reproduced by the Indian People's Association in North America. Although this faction supports the theory of the three worlds, the pamphlet contains much good material.
- 4) New York Times, November 23, 1973, p.55.
- 5) Peking Review #30, July 25, 1975.
- 6) See "Eritrea in Struggle", Newsletter of Eritreans for Liberation in North America, particularly Vol. III, Nos.2&3.
- 7) This exact formulation is taken from The Theory and Practice of the Revolution, Tirana, p.6. Similar formulations can be found in Stalin's Foundations of Leninism, FLP Peking, pp.4-6, and A Proposal Concerning the General Line of the International Communist Movement, FLP Peking, 1963, p.6.
- 8) For a discussion of the general crisis of capitalism, see Stalin's Economic Problems..., pp.30-32 & p.58, as well as A. Leontiev's Political Economy, pp.239-250, reprinted by Proletarian Publishers.
- 9) For a discussion of the contradictions of capitalist reproduction and the crises of overproduction, see Leontiev's Political Economy, pp.177-189.
- 10) See Stalin's Foundations of Leninism, p.3.
- 11) These points are made by Mao in On New Democracy, FLP Peking, pp.11-12 & pp.15-16.
- 12) Ibid, p.16. Also, see Mao's The Chinese Revolution and the Chinese Communist Party, FLP Peking, pp.21-31. It is also worthwhile to look at two articles of Stalin quoted by Mao, namely "The October Revolution and the National Question", in Collected Works, FLPH Moscow, 1953, Vol. IV, pp.158-170, and "The National Question Once Again", in Collected Works, Vol. VII, pp.219-230, as well as Chapter VI on the national question in Stalin's Foundations of Leninism, pp.70-81.
- 13) Foreign Broadcast Information Service, December 19, 21, 26 & 28, 1978. This is a U.S. government transcription service of foreign radio broadcasts. We presume it is accurate since it is used mainly by government analysts and bourgeois scholars.
- 14) The material in the text is taken mainly from On Khrushchov's Phoney Communism and its Historical Lessons for the World, FLP Peking, pp.5-6 & 12-13. For a less recent Albanian position see the speech by Foto Çami at the National Conference of Social Studies, 1969, entitled "The Further Revolutionization of the Life of the Country and Some Questions of the Theory and Practice of Socialism" in Some Questions of Socialist Construction in Albania and of the Struggle Against Revisionism, Tirana.
- 15) See Lenin's Imperialism, the Highest Stage of Capitalism, FLP Peking, pp.129-130.
- 16) See also ibid, in particular pp.88-89, 90, 114-118, & 144-145.
- 17) See Stalin's Foundations of Leninism, Chapt. VII "Strategy and Tactics", in particular p.84 & 88.
- 18) See Mao's On Contradictions, in Four Essays on Philosophy, FLP Peking, p.51.
- 19) See Stalin's Foundations of Leninism, pp.86-88.
- 20) For further discussion of our line on propaganda, see Red Dawn #1, "The Abandonment of the Iskra Plan".
- 21) See Stalin's Concerning the Question of Strategy and Tactics of the Russian Communists, FLPH Moscow, 1955, pp.20-21, also in Collected Works, Vol. 5, pp.174-175.
- 22) See Lenin's "Socialism and War", in Lenin on War and Peace, FLP Peking, p.9.
- 23) Palmer, R.R., A History of the Modern World, Alfred A. Knopf, New York, 1965, p.664.
- 24) Lenin on War and Peace, p.9.
- 25) Ibid, p.13.
- 26) See Boyer, Richard and Morais, Herbert, Labor's Untold Story, UE, New York, 1971, Chapt. IX.
- 27) See Foster, William Z., History of the Communist Party of the United States, International Publishers, pp.410-411.
- 28) See Ford, James, "Negro People Unite for Victory", in The Communist, July, 1943.
- 29) See Ligne Rouge No. 2, Mar.-Apr., 1969, "Against the 'Theory' of the Two Stage Revolution: Long Live the Socialist Revolution"; translated in World Revolution, Vol. 2, No. 3, Jan., 1970, a publication (now defunct) of the Progressive Labor Party.
- 30) The Bolshevik Union of Canada has put out some good material on this group. See, for example, Lines of Demarcation, no. 7-8, "Hardial Bains and his so-called 'Communist Party' of Canada (Marxist-Leninist)".

Other references on World Wars I and II:

Lenin, V.I., The Nascent Trend of Imperialist Economism

Dutt, R. Palme, Fascism and Social Revolution

Dimitroff, Georgi, The United Front Against War and Fascism, Report to the Seventh World Congress of the Communist International, 1935

Stalin, Joseph, Economic Problems of Socialism in the U.S.S.R.

Stalin, Joseph, "Political Report of the Central Committee to the Fifteenth Congress of the C.P.S.U. (B.) - I. The Growing Crisis of World Capitalism and the External Situation of the U.S.S.R."

Ercoli, On the Danger of Imperialist War and the Tasks of Communists. Report to the VII Congress of the Communist International

Pieck, Wilhelm, Freedom, Peace and Bread, Report to the VII Congress of the Communist International

Manuilsky, D.Z., The Work of the Seventh Congress (This and the two previous reports have been reprinted by Serve the People Press, New York)

In the references and text, FLPH refers to Foreign Languages Publishing House (Moscow), and FLP refers to Foreign Languages Press (Peking)

We know that a few of our references are from sources that are not readily available in all parts of the country. Upon request we will try to send copies of materials from our references if people send us reasonable contributions for making the copies (5¢ a page) and mailing.

Red Dawn magazine is published by the Red Dawn Committee (M-L), a multinational communist group in the New York metropolitan area. All rights reserved. No part of this magazine may be reproduced for sale without the written permission of the Red Dawn Committee (M-L). Copyright 1979.

The Red Dawn Committee (M-L) sees active ideological struggle as essential to building a new communist party. To achieve this clarity and principled unity on line, we urge letters, comments, and criticisms from our comrades and friends. We plan to publish comments and polemics in appropriate cases in future issues.

We are also asking our readers to help us financially with whatever they can afford. We are forced to pay high costs for materials and mailing and to charge a high price for our magazine.

Send all orders and correspondence to:

Red Dawn
P.O. Box 1207
Cathedral Station
New York, N.Y. 10025

Published by the Red Dawn Committee (M-L) January, 1980