UPON COMPILING OUR 1966 INDEX

With our next issue, World Outlook begins Volume 5. The occasion is worth noting, we think, and even celebrating. In the rather extensive field of radical newspapers and magazines, World Outlook is unique. Our aim has been to provide material which could be freely utilized by others. From the beginning, insofar as the limited finances of a collective enterprise permitted, we wanted to assemble and make available facts and analyses of events from all quarters of the globe. We sought to meet a high standard as to accuracy and dependability. While presenting the statements and declarations of various tendencies, we thought it best to clearly indicate our own views, since in any case they were bound to affect the way we selected events and interpreted them.

We have registered some success in this, we believe, the best testimony being the extent to which certain publications that disagree with our views have come to rely on material provided by World Outlook and to utilize it.

As to the limitations of World Outlook, what we feel most keenly is lack of space. The entire world is in such upheaval that it is impossible to cover all we would like to. We can only select and hope that we have managed to stay on top of the main developments and the key issues.

Despite this, in compiling the index for 1966, we noted that the total number of pages in World Outlook was 1,400. (Of these 1,160 were in the old mimeographed format and 240 in the new photo-offset. Since we are able to get more type in the new format, we calculate that the total for the year is equivalent to about 1,500 mimeographed pages.) Likewise, the index itself, we thought, offers a good reflection of the relative international importance of the year's events.

When we first began putting out World Outlook in Paris in 1963, we were quite pleasantly surprised at the number of persons who sent in for subscriptions for themselves. The surprise was due to the cost of World Outlook. Evidently it was considered well worth the investment -- even a "best buy." This trend has continued, we are gratified to note; and we hope that it will rise further in the coming year.

In fact the possibilities that would open up with a significant expansion in circulation are so enticing that we venture to hope that our backers and well-wishers will become even more active in what they have been doing -- passing on by word of mouth what a good thing World Outlook is and helping us in this way to reach one of our goals: the achievement of such financial stability that we can lower the cost of subscription.
