Hope For Nation In Dayton, O., Socialist Victory!

"VICTORY has come to the people of Dayton, Ohio, thru the Socialist triumph, in an hour when it was most needed."

This is the way the Miami Valley Socialist, mouthpiece of the Dayton, Ohio, Socialists, sums up the magnificent victory of our forces in last week's elections in this forward-looking, aspiring municipality. It continues:

"Altho the highest 'nonpartisan' candidate was 1,526 votes below the lowest Socialist, there was great rejoicing in the camp of the enemy. They consider themselves lucky to be on earth. It was an open contest of the people against the money power and the people won."

"It is estimated that the nonpartisan political machine spent $50,000 to get half the votes the Socialists received with an expense not to exceed $200."

CLEAN SWEEP FOR 1918.

THIS inspiring Socialist achievement is the basis for the rallying cry, "FOR A CLEAN SWEEP IN 1918" now being raised by the national Socialist Party in an appeal for action sent to all state and local secretaries. Here it is:

Chicago, Illinois August 20, 1917.

Dear Comrade:

The capitalist press said very little about the Dayton, Ohio, primary election. The result was displeasing to the daily news factory.

Here is what happened. A primary election for the nomination of candidates for commissioners was held in Dayton. The Socialists made their fight on a peace program and against the loot the 'respectable patriots' were annexing as a result of their 'interest' in municipal affairs. The result was that our comrades polled an average vote of 9,974, while the combined opposition polled an average of 10,530 votes, or only 756 votes more than the Socialists.

The highest Socialist candidate (Willard Barringer) received only 561 votes less than the two highest opponents combined. In other words, the highest Socialist candidate received 11,032 votes, while the highest 'nonpartisan' and the highest democrat combined received 11,593 votes.

The next highest Socialist candidate (Charles E. Geisler) had 9,293 votes, while the combined vote of the next highest 'nonpartisan' and democrat was 10,635.

The vote cast for the lowest Socialist candidate (Daniel P. Farrell) was 8,998, while the combined vote for the lowest 'nonpartisan' and democrat was 9,360.

This is a fair sample of the popular sentiment thruout the country. The capitalist class is putting every atom of strength into motion to turn the tide of public opinion against our program. Our meetings are being interfered with, our papers are being suppressed, all in order to cut off the means of communication so the people will be at the complete mercy of the pro-war news factory.

We cannot afford to surrender to such a condition. We must act and act at once. Every member must be impressed with the seriousness of the times.

There will be municipal elections in many states this fall and next spring. They will be bitterly contested. We must prepare for them now. In the fall of 1918, we will have the most historic congressional elections that this nation has ever witnessed. We must prepare for them NOW. If our public meetings are suppressed, we must carry on individual organization work. Organization is the key to our success.

Every member of the party must appoint himself a recruiting officer. The recruiting must go on every day. If it cannot be done on the street corner or at mass meetings, it can be done with equal force in the shop, among neighbors and friends. In writing to locals, branches and individual comrades, impress upon them that these are recruiting days, and it is our opportunity and our duty to make the nation safe for democracy. FORWARD, FOR A CLEAN SWEEP IN 1918!

VOTE RESULT IN DETAIL.

IT WAS first reported that the Socialist candidates had received more votes than all the other candidates combined. Later reports indicate that this was slightly exaggerated. The result of the election was as follows:

Dayton is one of the big cities of Ohio, situated half way between Cincinnati and Columbus. In 1910 it had a population of 116,577. One of the most widely known manufacturing establishments of the city is the National Cash Register Co., known as the cash register trust, which the government has tried to break on several occasions. The city was established in 1796, more than 120 years ago. In 1900 it had only 10,053 foreign born residents.

"The campaign to elect the three Socialist commissioners will be the best test of the minds of the American people ever staged in Dayton", declares the Miami Valley Socialist. "Dayton is a fairly representative American city. Right is on our side and money on the other. There will probably be $100,000 spent in an effort to save the city for the profit takers. Every conceivable means of deception will be employed to discredit the Socialist candidates."

"Three daily papers will be belching forth their foul charges that the Socialists are not good citizens. But the people will have a chance to prove their ability to keep their heads and do their own thinking in November."

PEOPLE FILED THEIR PROTEST.

THE PAPERS and spokesmen of the Democratic party explain their small vote on the grounds "of the unsettled condition of public opinion caused by the war" and say that the people took "this opportunity to file a protest against the party that happens to be in power thruout the nation."

This means that the election was something more than merely a municipal one. It was the first political notice served on the Democratic administration that the war and conscription are decidedly not popular with the people and that the things that the Socialists stand for are popular.

The Dayton Daily News, the organ of the owning, employing class, has this to say about the election: "It was a notable triumph for the Socialists. They seem, in fact to have left very little glory to any one else."

"The Socialists announced in their platform that they favored a complete overthrow of the government, and on this issue they have approximately as many votes as all the others combined."

"World events gave the Socialist spellbinder a decided street corner advantage, and as we very frankly stated the present regime was not popular with the great mass of the voters."

"The News reaffirms its position that a combined fight should be made against the Socialists. It will require every ounce of opposition strength to defeat them."

The American Socialist's Dayton correspondent writes that against the Socialists were arrayed three capitalist dailies, the wealth of the National Cash Register Company's president, John H. Patterson, and the pulpits of the city. On our side there was only the Miami Valley Socialist and the street corner collections.

OHIO'S GOVERNOR FILES EXCUSE.

JAMES M. COX, governor of Ohio, who lives in Dayton and is the inspiration for the local democratic forces, has joined those who are trying to belittle the Socialist victory by claiming it was due entirely to local conditions.

While the Socialists were able to meet and overcome the opposition on national and international issues, they were also more than equal to the old party candidates on local issues. The principal lines of local Socialist attack were directed against the Dayton street railway lines, the ice trust, the gas trust, and a city administration dominated by big business.

The party platform protests against herding of workmen and women into crowded street cars and charging a flat 5 cent fare in order that a corporation in Philadelphia may draw fat dividends. The Socialists want a full seat for every fare paid or an effort will be made to take away the franchise, or failing in that, to establish a municipal bus line.

SCORES ICE MONOPOLY.

IT PROTESTS against a monopoly in control of the ice output which forces prices above the reach of the poor and offers the people a chance to establish a municipal ice plant at which the product would be sold at cost.

It protests against the gas trust which has jammed thru a raise of 4 cents per thousand feet.

It protests against the governing of the city by an alleged Citizens' committee which has not so much as discussed the thousands of abuses which the people have endured at the hands of organized profiteers, let alone take action against them.

It proposes to rid the city of the burden of extravagance and to prove that the city can be run on its income without juggling funds.

It proposes a municipal light plant, to furnish light and current at a fair price.

YEARS OF HARD WORK.

BACK OF the clean sweep made by the Dayton Socialists lies a story of four years of hard, uphill fighting by the local comrades against overwhelming odds.

At the last election the margin of victory was so close that the Socialist candidates were counted out thru the machinations and chicanery of local powerful interests. This time, however, the vote was so tremendous that even the capitalist papers had to admit that the Socialists scored a notable triumph.

The victory was one of the most remarkable ever won by a political party in an American city. The much-advertised Dayton plan of city government had carefully provided for the elimination of Socialist candidates at the primaries. The so-called non-partisan charter allows the nomination of not more than double the number of city commissioners to be elected.

There is no city council in Dayton. Five city commissioners constitute the executive board. They choose a city manager, who is chief executive. At the time the charter was written the Socialist vote was not large enough to nominate their candidates. Thus big business was able to rid the city government of the two Socialists from Socialist wards. All commissioners were elected at large.

The elements backing the new plan of city government overestimated the strength of the Socialists four years ago. In their anxiety to protect the special interests they concluded that it would be possible to wipe out the Socialist vote by declaring the city elections nonpartisan.

The same elements proceeded at once to organize a partisan machine. The new political party was called the citizens' committee, and was backed by the Greater Dayton association. The G. D. A. is the outgrowth of the old chamber of commerce. The citizens' committee was started by the old chamber of commerce and includes only a carefully selected membership. A great cry of nonpartisanship was the slogan of the newly-organized forces. They were swept into power.

The new city officials were not long in office before they learned that men who declared themselves to be nonpartisan still had political notions. At the end of two years two commissioners were to be elected. The nonpartisans came out with their candidates, likewise the Democrats and Socialists. There were four nominated, two Democrats, one Socialist and one nonpartisan.

SOCIALIST COUNTED OUT.

AT THE election one of the Democrats led the field. Willard Barringer, Socialist, was declared elected over the nonpartisan candidate by two votes. The next day he was counted out by eight votes. The city charter made it necessary for the Socialist to go to the city commission, of which the questionably elected candidate was a member, to ask for a recount. The candidate was able to deny the people the right to question his election.

The matter was taken to court. But as Dayton operates under the home rule provisions of the state constitution the decision of the city commission was declared to be final. The people were enraged. They believed they had been cheated out of representation in city affairs. Last Tuesday Barringer ran 3703 votes ahead of his nearest opponent. The lowest Socialist was 1,594 votes ahead of the highest opponent. The total Socialist vote was nearly equal to the combined vote of the Democrats and nonpartisans. The Democratic candidates were all eliminated. The final contest is now between the three nonpartisan and three Socialist candidates. The nonpartisan candidates to win must carry all of the Democratic votes.

TRICKERY OF OLD PARTIES.

THIS is where the joker comes in. As there were but six to be nominated at the primaries, the business interests could not allow a chance to defeat the Socialists at the polls to pass. If there had not been three organized tickets, the Socialists would have been nominated unopposed. So the G. D. A. ran two tickets, the nonpartisan and Democratic.

In their efforts to attract attention and overshadow the Socialists a bitter fight developed between the sham-battlers. The leaders have now joined hands, but the rank and file do not intend to forget. The Socialists are going to add the Democratic vote to their tremendous majority. The campaign was the most unscrupulous ever conducted in Dayton. The city officials have persisted in pursuing a policy of extravagance and blundering. The three daily papers have buzzed with brags of efficiency, while evidence of incapacity has presented itself everywhere.

All the campaign plans of the old parties have failed. All that is left for them is to shout patriotism while they brag themselves out of office and the Socialists win a greater victory at the final election in November.

Hardwick Of Georgia Starts Fight In U. S. Senate To Expose Post Office Conspiracy Against American Socialist

By JULIAN PIERCE
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Senator Hardwick, of Georgia, has introduced a resolution in the United States Senate demanding that Postmaster General Burleson furnish the Senate with full information regarding the Post Office Department conspiracy by which Burleson and Lamar are attempting to kill the Socialist movement in the United States by excluding from the mails Socialist and radical papers, like The American Socialist, and then making use of technicalities discovered in the postal laws to deprive the papers of their second class mailing privilege.

"If this is to remain the land of the free," said Senator Hardwick, in commenting upon the Burleson-Lamar conspiracy against the Socialist papers, "and if freedom of the press and freedom of speech are not to become mockeries in this Republic, the Senate of the United States or the Congress of the United States can not afford to countenance any such proceeding as this or fail to condemn it."

Following is Senator Hardwick's resolution:

HARDWICK'S RESOLUTION.

RESOLVED, That the Postmaster General be, and he is hereby, requested and directed, if not incompatible with the public interest, to furnish to the Senate the following information:

First.—Whether or not, since the passage of the so-called espionage law, any newspaper, magazine, or other publications have been excluded from the mails or denied second-class mail-matter privileges under the provisions of said act or otherwise.

Second.—If so, the names and post offices of entry of such publications.

Third.—The particular provisions of the law which the department claims to have been violated by such publications.

Fourth.—In what matter, specifically and particularly, the department claims such law has been violated by such publications, and by each of them.

In support of his resolution and the desirability of its prompt passage, Senator Hardwick made the following statement to the Senate:

Hits Arbitrary Proceeding.

"I wish to instance one case that has recently occurred in which it seems to me that the position of the department is thoroughly indefensible. There is a publication in New York called the Masses, a magazine almost revolutionary in its type and in its sentiment. I am not prepared to either indorse or condemn many of the things that publication contains, but at the same time I want to direct the attention of the Senate, in this preliminary way, to what has happened in respect to that publication.

"Within the last few months that publication carried four cartoons representing its views on the pending public questions of gravest importance and moment. It had three or four articles with respect to its views on those same questions, one particularly assailing the President of the United States for his inconsistency in respect to certain views which he now entertains and certain positions that he now occupies, and comparing previous utterances of the President with his present positions.

On that account and for that reason, acting under certain provisions of the espionage law which it was alleged were applicable to the case, the Post Office Department denied this publication the use of the mails, and denied it entry as second-class mail matter. The publisher sued out a mandatory injunction before the United States judge of the southern district of New York. That injunction came on to be heard and the presiding judge decided that without reference to the merits or demerits of the views and cartoons as contained in this publication they were merely a free expression of opinion as to governmental policy, and that as long as this remained a free country and its citizens continued to possess the right of free speech no one had the right to deny the right of this publication to express these views even if they did not concur therein.

"Therefore the court issued a mandatory injunction against the Post Office Department. Following that decision the Government appealed to the circuit judge of that circuit, presiding in Vermont, and that judge, I think his name was Judge Hough, under a provision of the judicial code authorizing it, suspended the operation of the mandatory injunction.

"Of course, that is just the history of what happened in a preliminary way. But now comes the remarkable part of it. Since all that has happened the Post Office Department has issued an order suspending the use of the mails as second-class mail to this publication because it has not been issued and published regularly. In other words, the Post Office Department, among other things—it may have other contentions, but this seems to be the principal one—first denied the use of the mails to this publication and finally, when held up in the courts with the only decision that has been so far had against them, turned to another provision of law and said to the publisher, 'Well, you can not continue to use the mails because you have not been going regularly thru the mails at the time you were prevented from doing so by our order."

"IF THAT IS NOT TAKING ADVANTAGE OF YOUR OWN OWN WRONG I DO NOT KNOW HOW ELSE TO PUT IT. IT SEEMS TO ME THAT IS TOO ARBITRARY A PROCEEDING TO BE COUNTERMANNED IN THIS COUNTRY OF FREE SPEECH."

KNOX DIDN'T HEAR.

"I should like to have the Senator from Georgia restate the position taken by the Post Office Department," interrupted Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. "I did not quite catch it."

"The Post Office Department has now excluded the Masses—that is the name of the publication—from the mails," continued Hardwick, "and denied it second class mailing privileges because the Department held that during the recent months, while this litigation was pending, it had not been going regularly thru the mails, and they fall back on another provision of the law which denies second-class privileges to publications that do not issue regularly and go thru the mails regularly, altho the only reason the Masses has not issued regularly, and has not gone thru the mails regularly, is because the Post Office Department would not let it do it."

"Mr. President, I am not excited about this matter. Personally I have a very warm regard for the Postmaster General. A friendship of years that I prize very highly exists between us.

"I do not know to what extent he has had anything to do with this matter or even if he knows exactly what has been done, but if this is to remain the land of the free and if freedom of the press and freedom of speech are not to become mockeries in this Republic the Senate of the United States or the Congress of the United States can not afford to countenance any such proceeding as this or fail to condemn it."

"So I say at the proper time, as soon as I can do it under the rules, I expect to ask the Senate to call on the Post Office Department for information with respect to these matters so that it may be seen exactly to what extent my information about this matter and matters of a similar kind is accurate. I think my information is accurate, and I have therefore presented this resolution."

Like London's Resolution.

Senator Hardwick's resolution is similar to the resolution introduced in the House of Representatives on July 10, by Meyer London, Socialist Representative from New York City.

London's resolution was referred to the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. Postmaster General Burleson addressed a communication to the committee urging that the committee report the resolution adversely. Burleson claimed that any information illustrative of the secret service methods by which Censor-in-Chief William H. Lamar guilottes Socialist papers would be incompatible with the public interest.

The House committee, acting as rubber-stamp statesmen, acted in accordance with Burleson's orders and presented an adverse report to the House.

Senate More Liberal.

Since then Representative London has made several attempts to get his resolution before the House by unanimous consent, which is the parliamentary device by which an adversely reported resolution may be brought before the House. At each attempt some psychopathic detester of liberty of the press and hater of Socialist social and economic ideas has objected to London's unanimous consent request.

DOING OUR BEST!

We are doing our best, thru our representatives in Washington, to get action on our application for another second class mailing permit from the post office department.

Our application was duly made out and, accompanied by several copies of the issue of Saturday, August 18, was speeded on its way to Washington, D. C., Wednesday afternoon, August 15th.

It should have reached Washington, D. C., Thursday night and appeared at the post office department, bright and early Friday morning ready for its reception at the hands of Solicitor General William H. Lamar (the censor) and Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery, whose department passes on second class mailing applications.

Our representatives were on the job Friday morning but were told that The American Socialist's application had not yet arrived. Of course, we cannot make affidavit to the contrary, but we have our suspicions.

Saturday, it was reported that Lamar and Dockery were out of town and that no action could be taken until they returned, which would not be until Wednesday, August 22.

This delay is causing us considerable inconvenience and if our readers do not get their paper thru the mails we hope they will be patient.

The magnificent response to our appeal for a FREE PRESS DEFENSE FUND has put a new fighting spirit into our blood. We know that everyone of our readers is going to see this fight thru. We are going to win. No power on earth can stop us from coming out victorious in our struggle with the autocratic powers now in control of the post office.

It is unnecessary to repeat that we need funds to stay in this fight and win a glorious victory. This is your fight. It is going to be your victory. You are going to help by rushing in your contribution NOW.

Here is a blank to save you the trouble of writing a letter.

Say Denial Of Passports Is War On Peace Work

By CYRIL BROWN. (In The Chicago Tribune) (Copyright, 1917, By Press Publishing Company, New York World.)

STOCKHOLM, August 16.—The Dutch and Scandinavian Socialist leaders have thrown down the gauntlet to the entente governments...

"Wilson Changes Attitude." Pieter Zellis Troelstra, the Dutch Socialist leader, defined the standpoint of the promoters of the conference in the following statement:

"The whole idea of the conference is based on the declarations of two statesmen, Wilson and Kerensky. Wilson declared before the United States entered the war that all belligerent countries should be always ready to negotiate, but he changed his attitude after America entered the war...

"We want to try to remove hindrances in order to inaugurate peace negotiations. A government which really desires peace and which believes in its own cause ought not only to approve but welcome such an attempt."

"To make peace is a matter for the whole people. I read repeatedly, but the people must make the start. By continuous war the inciting spirit among the nations has been made absolutely, a unit for peace."

"Apparently a campaign against the socialist press has begun now in America to fight peace. The insinuation that the peace endeavors originate only in Germany on account of her weakness has been too often repeated and is now considered silly among the people of Europe, but America apparently believes such rumors still, because she is still young in this struggle."

"It is a fact that these tactics of the American government cannot last under any circumstances. We cannot understand how Wilson, who started to solve his great task in such a skillful way, can endure the responsibility for the latest action of his administration."

"Another thing, the delay of peace means the collapse of the Russian revolution, and in my opinion America should be interested in that."

Russians May Attend. LONDON, Aug. 16.—Russian Socialists will be allowed by the government to attend the Stockholm conference, London has been informed from a semi-official source. A statement received here says that the Russian government considers "the solution of questions affecting war and peace appertains exclusively to it in union with the allied countries," and that the Stockholm conference is one of particular political parties and as such "cannot lay claim to formulating decisions which bind the government in any way."

The Workmen's Council for the Maintenance of Labor's Rights has issued a statement setting forth the dangers confronting American labor thru the action of officials in the labor movement, especially Samuel Gompers, sitting upon the National Council of Defense with such men as John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other capitalists. The Workmen's Council, thru its executive committee at 175 East Broadway, New York City, shows that with the affiliation of organized labor officials with men as notorious for their anti-union stand as Elbert H. Gary, Julius Rosenwald, officers of the lumber trust and the copper syndicates upon the defense council, has placed the 2,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor in a position where they have little if any influence against an overwhelming majority of the employing class.

Bigelow Joins The Party

After all the publicity they gave the few deserters that left the Socialist Party, one might think that the capitalist dailies would at least publish a few lines about such a notable addition to our ranks as Herbert S. Bigelow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who won national prominence for the great part he played as chairman of the 1912 Ohio Constitutional Convention in 1912.

So far as we know, only one publication, a Cincinnati democratic paper, has noted his important entry into the Socialist Party. It chronicles this event under the heading, "The Passing of Mr. Bigelow." The editor contends that Mr. Bigelow given his support to the democratic party the cause of democracy would have been much further advanced than now. The editor consoles himself with the reflection that Mr. Bigelow has deserted the democrats for the Socialists because he wants to be in the minority.

If we are not mistaken Mr. Bigelow did run for secretary of state in Ohio on the democratic ticket in 1902. He perhaps learned a few things about the democratic party at that time. In commenting on the aforementioned democratic editorial utterance, Mr. Bigelow says:

"I did not leave the Democrats for the Socialists because I wanted to be in the minority. I made the change because I wanted to live in hope. With the Socialists I have that hope. With the Democrats there is no hope."

"The Democrats have not elected but one municipal ticket in Cincinnati in the last twenty years, and they will not elect another in the next twenty years."

"If the grip of special privilege is ever broken in Cincinnati it will be by the Socialists and not by the Democrats."

"Times have changed. It is the effect of the war. The future lies with the Socialists. Henceforth there will be but two camps. There will be a party of the few rich people who own most of the wealth of America. That will be the Republican party. But it would make no difference if this party called itself Democratic. The other will be the party of the masses, determined upon the overthrow of our money oligarchy."

"The war has changed the temper of the people. There is no longer any demand for a timid shuffling party such as the Democratic Party in Cincinnati has been."

"This year the Socialist municipal ticket will be second in the race. The Democrats will be third."

"Next year the Socialists will elect a Congressman from Cincinnati."

"Two years from now the Socialist candidate for Mayor will be elected."

"Those people who cannot join the Republican Party, and who like to be in the majority, will have to join the Socialists. If they are determined to be in the minority, let them stay with the Democrats."

Trial Of Mrs. Mooney Outrages Justice, Is Woman Jury's Verdict

No condemnation of the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney at San Francisco, Cal., can be too severe according to the statement issued by the committee representing various women's organizations who sat thru the trying ordeal. Their verdict is as follows:

"Having sat thru the entire Rena Mooney trial, the third in the series of bomb cases, we are convinced that if justice for the individual and the safety of the republic are to be secured there must be a decided change in the system of our jurisprudence and the methods of its administration."

"This trial developed corrupt prosecution, third degree inquisition of prisoners, continued ruling out of vital testimony and all the forces of the law marshaled against the accused, instead of that 'benefit of the doubt' which the law is supposed to accord a defendant."

"Numerous reliable witnesses, verifying photographs with time and place, made the alibi of the defendants so complete and convincing that the whole trial was superfluous, an outrage of injustice upon the defendants, and an unnecessary burden on the taxpayer."

"The testimony of the principal witnesses for the prosecution was impeached, and their character discredited."

"The office of prosecutor, established primarily for justice and the protection of society, was perverted into a weapon of persecution, apparently to further the ends of corporate interests—certainly at no time was the slightest disposition shown by the representatives of the law to obtain the truth, which is the basic reason for the establishment of the courts, with their intricate and costly machinery."

"This trial is the greatest outrage of justice of modern times, for even in the Dreyfus case, when the corruption of the prosecution was discovered, the people of France rose in indignation and gave what belated justice was possible to the accused."

The gib perjury of the prostitute, Estelle Smith, and the dope-head, John McDonald, was enough for the twelve professional jurors who tried Billings. They obeyed orders, found Billings guilty and held their $2 a day jobs. They were also very successful in getting convict friends paroled."

The jury in Tom Mooney's case was different. Instead of twelve seniles, we had twelve suppress men. The same motley gang of perjurers took the stand and told new stories. The jury-men made many business deals. Contracts were traded for votes of hanging for Mooney. The gang was strengthened by a new witness, a mil-

Cunha's remark to John A. Fitch, "They should be taken out and strung up without ceremony. I wouldn't lift my little finger to get Mooney a new trial if I knew that every State witness perjured himself."

The gib perjury of the prostitute, Estelle Smith, and the dope-head, John McDonald, was enough for the twelve professional jurors who tried Billings. They obeyed orders, found Billings guilty and held their $2 a day jobs. They were also very successful in getting convict friends paroled."

The jury in Tom Mooney's case was different. Instead of twelve seniles, we had twelve suppress men. The same motley gang of perjurers took the stand and told new stories. The jury-men made many business deals. Contracts were traded for votes of hanging for Mooney. The gang was strengthened by a new witness, a millionaire cattleman from Oregon, Frank C. Oxman. "The man who'll put the rope round Mooney's neck," was Fickett's introduction. Oxman told his story of how Mooney and the rest drove in a jitney thru the parade with the bomb. He was positive. Mooney was sentenced to death and the jury-men, who had a financial interest in the cracking of Mooney's neck, jubilated. The dollar sign conquered, the it dripped blood. But—

The Truth Will Out. When the bestial gang were starting to jubilate outside Tom Mooney's death cell, the storm burst and Oxman's studious perjury was torn to tatters. Today he stands charged with wholesale subornation of perjury. Ed. Rigall, brought from Grayville, Ill., to corroborate the arch-perjurer came to the front and told a sordid tale of perjury, crooked political ambitions and murderous conspiracy. "Help us," said Cunha to Rigall. "If we convict Mooney, Fickett will be governor of California and I'll succeed him as district attorney." And they coached Rigall in his story. They brought him to the scene of the explosion and showed him the spot he was to swear he saw Mooney alight from the jitney. He was to get for his perjury, "Probably $200 in the clear," as Oxman wrote him. Oxman also told Rigall that he was not at the scene of the explosion, that he deliberated and swore that he saw Mooney plant the bomb. When Rigall twitted Fickett one day on the small amount of expense money he was being allowed Fickett said, "We'll probably use you in all the cases and there'll be plenty of money in it for you." But Rigall spurned all their bribes and saved five lives, as well as the honor of Organized Labor.

Fickett tried hard to save Oxman. Ten judges refused to dismiss the indictment. The case wasn't before him for adjudication. Chief Justice Angellotti said there was a clear case against the perjurer. Judge Griffin asked the Attorney-General to petition the Supreme Court for a new trial and the official in question has given his consent. His statement to the court is a mere consent to a reversal of the verdict, but steps will, undoubtedly, be taken to make this effective.

Oxman must stand trial. There's no escape for him. Fickett made a deal with underworld bosses who control the Grand Jury to "whitewash" himself and Oxman. They did so and are reaping an increased revenue from the unfortunate Magdalenes of the city. But the "whitewashing" didn't save Oxman.

Efforts are being made to secure an honest prosecution. As it is, he will, seemingly, be prosecuted by Fickett before Judge Dunne, who has already declared the "honest cattlemen" innocent and the defense attorney's bunch of cowardly blackguards. What a triangle of murderous industrial prejudice—the perjurer, the head of the perjury plot and the most prejudiced judge in California!

What We Are Fighting. We are fighting a well organized machine in almost absolute possession of the press, the governorship of California (recently the anti-injunction bill was vetoed after passing both houses of the legislature by a big majority), the district attorney's office of San Francisco (Fickett was to succeed Governor Stephens, pliable tool of Stephens, if Tom Mooney's neck was cracked), and the whole minor officialdom dependent for its existence on the "higher-ups" (these petty officials tamper with jury lists as Bailiff Malpiede did in the attempt to hang Rena Mooney. Malpiede was a personal friend of one of the deputy district attorneys and slipped a "friend's" name into the jury panel.)

We succeeded in getting one fair judge and one fair jury in the three trials. Judge Griffin told a venal jury that Stephens was a "honest cattlemen" and tried to cloud a honest jury's intelligence by admitting a hodge-podge of illegal conspiracy evidence. They acquitted.

Desperate efforts were made to pack the last two juries. In Tom Mooney's trial a dapper-looking fellow, named A. B. Shaw, summoned on a "special venire" stepped into the box. He was quickly passed by the prosecution. He swore he was "friendly disposed" towards unionism. Warren K. Billings looked at him closely. "Why, that's a gunman. I met him striking the automobile machinists' strike," Billings gasped. The game was won. Shaw was challenged.

Similarly Wm. P. Waldron, Chamber of Commerce real estate, sought to get on the jury that tried Rena Mooney. The prosecution was alarmed at the fine type of men already on the jury. "We must get a plant on," was the slogan. Waldron fought hard. He tried to conceal his affiliations and professed impartiality. He lost and right there the prosecution lost all chance of a "hung jury." This will give the public an idea of the corrupt gang of officials who are railroadng and hanging the workers of Golden California in preparation for the "open-shop" and its ally, King Hunger.

We Must Win The Fight, Else— This fight must be won. It's a national fight. It's Labor's fight. Frederick J. Koster, the president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and the real leader of our opponents, has constituted himself the gang-leader of the anti-labor forces of America.

"We must build an organization to cope with the American Federation of Labor," says Koster.

The Big Business thugs of the Pacific Coast see a chance to build that organization "to cope with the American Federation of Labor" over the corpses of the five victims plucked out of the ranks of the Organized Labor movement of San Francisco.

Labor is now doing. From Timothy Healy of the Stationary Firemen of New York to Civil Service Commissioner George Tracy, the veteran fighter of the San Francisco Typographical Union, from the fighting Jim Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, to the veteran Paul Scharrenberg, secretary of the California State Federation of Labor, the Organized Labor movement of America is solidly behind the boys and Rena Mooney.

Labor knows they're innocent. Public opinion knows it. Publications like the New York Evening Post, the San Francisco Bulletin, the New York Globe, The Survey, and the New Republic are unanimous, with the labor press, in denouncing the FRAME-UP.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce announced, thru its puppet prosecutor whilst Rena Mooney was on trial, that any labor man or woman who dares oppose them must be imprisoned as a matter of public policy. That's the situation in San Francisco. We must defeat that policy. We must have your support. If not then the open-shop thugs will yet crucify their five victims. Are you with us?

Victory In Sight. The sun of victory can be seen on the horizon. It looks as if we can win IF every union man and woman in America realizes the significance of the fight.

If the organized labor movement of San Francisco goes down in defeat with its five brothers and sister strangled on the gibbet erected for them by Koster and Fickett, then you may be the next victim.

This must not be. Help us win the greatest labor fight of the century. Help us carry out the idea expressed by the NEW YORK GLOBE when it said, "Public officers who do not play fair in class collisions should be put in stripes."

A glorious victory is in sight! Help us realize it by rushing funds at once to Henry Hagelstein, Secretary-Treasurer International Workers' Defense League, 210 Russ Bldg., San Francisco, Cal.

Let us prove to our enemies that Organized Labor will not allow organized greed to pick out the fighters of labor and crucify them, not because of any criminality, but because of their loyalty to Labor.

LABOR MOVEMENT—NO MOVEMENT (By William Hard in The New Republic)

A man acquainted with foreign industrial and political affairs who will spend three months in Washington meeting business men coming on war business to the national capital from all parts of the United States would find it difficult not to conclude that American business men, all in all, are the most reactionary class of industrial rulers in the civilized world. For an astonishing number of them the whole labor movement, which has given us trade union governments in the Antipodes and cabinets speckled with Socialists in virtually every country in Europe, is not a movement at all. It is nothing but a "trouble." The very same thing that is shaking Russia, and, therefore, shaking and remaking the world, thrusts a finger in their factories, and they see nothing but a "labor trouble" invented by irrelevant agitators, now presumably always German.

Socialists of Reading, Pa., are placing a full city, county and school ticket in the field.

Paul Michelson, Detroit, Mich., Socialist organizer, has been sentenced to a year in the house of correction for failure to register. Michelson conducted his own case.

Central Local Seattle, Wash., charges all new members 25 cents extra for a subscription to The American Socialist. Eighty new members were taken in during the last month.

Richard Verhagen, former city assessor of Schenectady, N. Y., has been dismissed from the General Electric Company because he refused to invest in Liberty bonds.

It is a very easy and simple matter to howl with the popular majority but it takes the stuff of which manhood is made to stand fearless and erect with the unpopular few, or if need be, alone.

Local Everett, Wash., has leased a big bathing beach on Puget Sound and is running excursions to the beach from the city. New members are flocking into the party. A branch of the People's Council has been organized.

Washington State Legislature killed a bill to establish military training in high schools. The bill failed in the House, 51 to 44. If it had passed, the unions, farmers' organizations and other progressive bodies were ready to force it to a referendum.

A burglar broke into the home of Will R. S. Lone, of Nampa, Idaho, and stole the speech of Kate Richard O'Hare, which had been taken down in shorthand by Lane and transcribed. Twenty-five dollars was offered him for a copy, which he refused.

Our socialist brother isn't so far wrong, perhaps, when he says that there is great prosperity and plenty of work thruout the land, and everything else to make one happy and contented, except, possibly, wages enough for the laboring man to live on.—Mesabe, Minn., Ore.

"When an official who is not even elected by the people is able to say what the people shall read, by throwing out of the mails what he does 'not' want them to read, the freedom of the press is not in danger. It has already vanished!"—THE NEW YORK CALL.

The Benthany, Mo., Clipper, a Republican organ, emits the following: "To coddle Socialism in legislation is to invite its ultimate demonstration in action. There has already been too much coddling since the Democratic party secured full power in this country.... Socialism means resistance to government in a form tantamount to treason." Would it be too much to ask the Postoffice Department to take cognizance of this criticism of the government by a Republican newspaper?

Are Women Delighted?

One of the "leading" Philadelphia newspapers prints a first-page story, embellished with large pictures, of 200 women employed in the machine shops of the General Electric company.

This is how the newspaper attempts to make the public forget its former preachments, that "women's place is in the home."

"Already pretty girls and capable matrons are at work on the spacious floors of the General Electric company, operating lathes running the drill punches with a will, all of them neat and trim in the new masculine uniforms, all feminine in spite of the trousered legs."

"Blue chambray is the chosen material; little Dutch caps keep back flying hair from the whirling wheels; white feet and ankles showing beneath the full gathered trousers complete the effect of the woman 'there for business,' but still very much a woman."

Company officials are quoted as saying that women will be employed entirely, "except for such machine work that is too heavy for any except a man."

It is intended that the public will accept new conditions because the women are pictured as being "perfectly delighted" with their new overalls. This uniform, the newspaper assures us, "retains woman's femininity" in the greasy, thunderous machine shop.

Michigan coal barons have told Michigan's governor that the cost of fuel is none of the governor's business, meaning no doubt that the people have no right to know how they are being robbed. We shall see.

Five thousand men and women of organized labor paraded the streets of Springfield, Ill., in sympathy with the striking street carmen.

A Mystery (By D. W. LAWRENCE)

That causes people everywhere, To wonder why an adage old, Has lost its price in standard gold.

Whatever upward goes returns, As sage says, as each one learns, Without a thought of saying nay, From Nature's laws, unchanged away.

Has Gravity withdrawn his force And caused the prices upward course? Or has he to another sphere Been changed to stay and left us here?

Just how to reach the awful height To which they've soared, both day and night, Is now a problem men must solve, And should at once at it resolve.

'Tis sure that men must taller grow, Or scaffold build a mile or so, To reach the stuff they sorely need, And wrest it from the hands of greed.

Then to the task like heroes bold, Besiege the citadels of gold; Like noble men your rights defend, By righteous means unto the end.

WATCH US GROW. Our local, Los Angeles, Cal., No. 1 in two months has grown from 12 to 67 members, with hardly any solicitation, solely as a recognition of the pro-working class position taken by the party at the St. Louis convention. To the extent that we are able to enlighten the workers on the attitude of the party on the war, the voluntary influx of new members will continue and grow greater. In fact, at every meeting, an ever increasing number of new comrades eagerly seek admission.—MATTIE N. ROBINSON, secretary.

THE CENSOR IS AT WORK. The June 30th issue of The American Socialist was suppressed by W. H. Lamar, solicitor general of the Postal Department. Most of the papers for out of the city had gone out before the censor got busy, but the entire edition of the July issue of The International Socialist Review was suppressed. As Democracy is now in full swing our readers will hereafter have to do considerable reading between lines.—THE ORGANIZED FARMER.

Oklahoma Farmers In War On Bankers And Landlords

(Special Correspondence.)
By IRWIN TUCKER.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—“Every bank in this state is an arsenal. All the clerks are being taught to and are expecting to use the guns in their vaults.”

This was stated to me by an eminent Oklahoma lawyer sitting calmly in an office here in the state capital.

“The issue is between the tenant farmers and the bankers and landlords. This draft resistance is just an excuse for the preliminary outbreak of what may prove to be a revolution.”

This time it was a judge who was speaking, a judge who as a democrat occupied the circuit court bench for many years, and who was a delegate to the Baltimore convention of the democratic party that nominated Woodrow Wilson.

“Since three months ago, I estimate that sixty thousand modern high powered rifles have been purchased by the farmers in this state. A few dryloads have been captured, but they're on the trail too late.”

This was said by a former minister who has been touring the state with a Chautauqua company.

Settle Old Grudges.
Here you have the elements of a situation that only waits for a show of force by the United States Government to break into flame. The “riots” in Seminole, Pontotoc and Pottawatomie counties resulted in the arrest of a few old men and young boys, mainly non-resisters. One or two old grudges were settled in the process. These “riots” were mere surface indications of what is going to happen—if Uncle Sam does not use all his tact. What is true in Oklahoma is true of Texas, Colorado, Arkansas and Kansas.

In the state penitentiary at McAlester in the death cell, which is only thirty inches wide and less than seven feet long sits “Good-Eye Huck,” otherwise Hon. Albert Huckleberry, a one-eyed tenant farmer who was for two years county commissioner of Seminole County. During his term of office he uncovered grafts, swindlings and thievery on the part of the democratic machine politicians who held the county offices hitherto. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had disappeared.

Sees Good With One Eye.
“He sees more with his good eye than anybody else does with both,” is the common saying that gave him his nickname. Huckleberry got evidence sufficient to convict, after a long hard battle. The governor refused at first to have the accounts of the county audited. After he was won over, the state auditor pleaded that there were not sufficient funds. But Huckleberry, armed with a petition signed by 800 voters of the county, forced the investigation and audit which resulted in penitentiary terms being awarded a whole ring of grafters in Seminole County. They appealed, and are now out on bond.

The start of the trouble in these counties began with the swearing in of deputy sheriffs and sending them out to arrest the boys who did not show up for registration and examination. Where these boys were not found, their parents and neighbors were arrested, and old grudges were satisfied by the hauling along of many a Socialist agitator who had exposed the unparalleled rottenness and corruption in democratic Oklahoma—on the ground that they were “friendly to the draft resisters.” One of the Oklahoma daily papers makes great capital out of the discovery of one of the common Socialist pennants—“Workers of the World Unite,” which it proclaims is the “only one known to be in the state—in the house of one of those arrested for suspected friendliness with the draft resisters.”

Thus the natural opposition to the enforcement of the draft law in a state which was overwhelmingly Socialist in feeling, but which went for Wilson on the promise that he would keep us out of war, is being taken advantage of by bankers and landlords and chambers of commerce to suppress and dispose of the strong movement which was on the verge of ridding the tenant farmers of Oklahoma of the worst and most outrageous gang of robbers that ever cursed a state. But they are overplaying their hand.

Organize Into W. C. U.
The “Working Class Union,” of which so much is being written and said, was organized in this state two years ago—long before the draft was ever thought of. It is an organization of tenant farmers for mutual relief. It was formed to meet a special need. The Socialist Party cannot function between elections. The I. W. O. is not open to tenant farmers—only to wage laborers. Hence came the Working Class Union composed of tenant farmers. Starting in Van Buren, Ark., it has spread over Arkansas, Oklahoma and north Texas, and has some strength in Kansas and Nebraska, and all the other agricultural states where tenancy is common.

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED BANKS IN THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA HAVE BEEN COMPELLED BY SUITS ENGINEERED BY THE W. C. U. TO PAY BACK USURIOUS INTEREST. FARMERS EXTORTED FROM TENANT FARMERS.

LANDLORDS ALL OVER THE STATE HAVE BEEN COMPELLED BY THIS UNION OF TENANT FARMERS TO RAISE THE RATES AND LOWER THE RENT.

Hence the animosity between the “respectable citizens” and the W. C. U. The plea of “resistance to the draft” is a pretext.

Junkers On The Job.
For example, for two years the W. C. U. has been meeting once a week in a certain locality. The officials know this. Acting on the strength of the present upheaval they surround the schoolhouse or the grove or the springs where the meeting is held and take every one prisoner on the ground that he is “opposing the draft,” when the actual reason is that he has been protecting himself against outrageous extortion.

The real purpose of the organization has been to teach the tenant farmers to act together. They meet to decide on a price for their labor and the proper rent they should pay for a farm. When a tenant farmer was found scabbing they lashed him a few times, burnt his crops, and scared him in other ways until he “saw the light.” If a landlord raised the rent, they saw to it that no one would rent his place.

Hence the landlords are opposed to the W. C. U.

Bankers Big Robbers.
In this state the legal rate of interest is 10 per cent. But usury among the banks is so common that a comptroller of the Currency recently denounced them as thieves and robbers. Many of them charge—and extort—24 per cent and 40 per cent. Some have been known to demand 100 per cent—for one month!

One tenant farmer came to a bank to borrow sufficient money to cover the funeral expenses of his daughter. The bank compelled him to sign a note for $180, payable in one year. Eighty per cent interest! One bank in Muskogee county was compelled to give back a farmers mule, which it had seized in payment of usurious debt.

In McIntosh county, a prominent Socialist lawyer presented to the bank a bill for $300 usurious interest he had extorted from a client. The banker laughed at him. When the lawyer had left, the banker went over to see the real estate man from whom the tenant farmer rented. Immediately the real estate man hitched up his buggy, drove out to the farmers place, and told him that he would either have to clear off the farm in ten days or call off that suit. It was late in the season and to leave the farm then would have meant the loss of a whole year's work, together with all his credit. Besides this, if a tenant farmer is blacklisted by one bank, he cannot get land anywhere else in that state. So the farmer told the lawyer to call off the suit. It was cheaper to pay the usury than to lose his year's labor.

Nothing Is Done.
“The landlord holds the tenant farmer while the banker robs him,” is the way a minister put it to me. The W. C. U. fights this. Hence the bankers oppose the W. C. U.

The United States Industrial Relations Commission proclaimed the land conditions in Texas and Oklahoma to be a disgrace to the nation, to be unparalleled in any civilized country. But nothing has been done since that report was rendered.

Battle On To Get Justice For Prosecuted Farmers

By T. A. HICKEY, Staff Corr.

SAGERTOWN, Texas.—Intense interest is evinced all over Texas as the date for trial approaches for the fifty-three Socialists and two sympathizers who will step into the dock in Abilene, Taylor County, West Texas, Sept. 1, charged with conspiring to resist the draft law.

These men are all members of a labor organization known as the Farmers and Laborers Protective Association of America. They were indicted last June in Dallas by a federal grand jury on seven counts, the first two of which charge that they conspired in their local meetings and at the state convention of the organization held at Cisco, Eastland County, West Texas, May 5, 1917, to resist to the death any and all officers who would seek to arrest them for the draft and that they would dynamite railroad bridges, etc.

Fifty-one of these fifty-five men are submerged land owners of the type spoken of by Frank Walsh in his report to the Government as being “on the verge of serfdom.” Five hundred men were subpoenaed before the grand jury, many of whom were afterwards indicted. Strange to say practically every man indicted was a Socialist, also the organization is composed of members of the democratic party in the proportion of ten to one. They are held in bonds varying from $1,000 to $20,000.

I interviewed several of the principal defendants this week and they state that the whole case is a frame-up put thru by immensely wealthy landowners of the Postmaster General Burleson, Attorney General Gregory and Colonel Ed. House type, all of whom are bourbon democratic Texas politicians who have used the federal powers they control to smash a labor organization that menaces their interest.

These men say the frame up takes this form: they have an oath given to each member which is perfectly harmless; the secret service and private detectives are going to swear that the leaders had a second oath that the rank and file knew nothing about and this oath called for the destruction of the government by violence. The men stoutly assert that if there is such an oath that it was coined in the warped brain of a private detective or was written by one of the innumerable “Texas Crowds” that live in and around the capital at Washington.

They further assert that no steps were taken at the Cisco convention to resist the draft law.

There were 165 delegates present representing 205 locals. The convention was in session thirteen hours. There were six or eight violent speeches made in which all sorts of violent threats were made against the authorities. The convention hooded them down and adjourned peacefully.

It has since been discovered that these hotheds were actually cold-blooded private detectives and further that secret agents have rented farms, worked as day laborers on farms and public works, joined the union, became officers therein and were ever proposing violence. In short the “Texas Crowd” with their usurer connection played the old game of hiring the agent provocateur they assert.

One of the worst features of the predicament these men are in is that since the Rebel, with its twenty-five thousand circulation, was suppressed while running a series of war articles bitterly attacking the Kaiser and his military caste, those men are without a mouthpiece. The six hundred and ten weekly papers, thirteen semi-weeklies and forty-eight daily papers published in the state, with the possible exception of two Scripps papers, are as silent as the tomb. These men will walk to their doom in Texas without their side of the story having been told while the government's side has been told again and again and told with such a mass of vicious lies that the average man who knows the inside of the case is staggered by their amazing audacity.

When in Chicago recently I received positive assurance from members of the national executive committee that either Clarence Darrow or Seymour Stedman, the famous labor lawyer of Chicago, or possibly both would be sent to Abilene to defend these union workers as they believe that the Texas-Washington frame-up must be smashed or the organized labor movement among agricultural workers will be destroyed for years to come.

WOULD HURRY PEACE MEET.
Russian Socialists have placed demands before their government to hasten the Stockholm Socialist convention. This news is contained in a cable the Jewish Daily Forward received from its Petrograd correspondent.

The cable follows: “The Socialist press is protesting vigorously against the stand the government has taken on the Stockholm convention. The paper published by the Workers' Council declares that Kerensky holds the same views in regard to the conference now as he did before. In Gorki's journal, Martov appealed to the provisional Workmen's Council and the masses at large to bring pressure upon the government to make haste in calling the Stockholm gathering.

Counter revolution talk is slowly dying out in Russia, according to the cable.

President Is Told About Attacks On Socialists

In response to President Wilson's suggestion that he would like to get a list of constitutional violations since the beginning of the war, the American Union Against Militarism has compiled such a list and sent it to the White House.

It will be noted that the provisions of the constitution were violated in most instances in order to make it possible to attack the Socialist Party or its officials and members.

Information was presented to the president as follows: “We present the record of eight indictments for crimes ranging from treason and conspiracy to simple misdemeanor, for the sole offense of criticizing the government's war policies or agitating for peace. These cases have occurred in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Grand Rapids, New York City, Pittsburgh, and Seattle.”

In Philadelphia thirteen persons were recently arrested and charged with treason for distributing a leaflet entitled: “Long Live the Constitution of the United States,” which dealt in a lawful way with the constitutionality of conscription.

In Indianapolis an ordinance has been passed making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a heavy fine, “to speak disrespectfully of the President or the government of the United States”—the crime of lese majeste—or of circulating any matter which might prompt workers to demand better conditions or hours of labor in industrial establishments during the war.

“One man in New York City was arrested and sentenced to ninety days in jail for distributing leaflets which contained only quotations from the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

“A post office employe in St. Paul was discharged after years of faithful service solely because he went on the bonds of three old friends charged with failing to register under the conscription act.

“The evidence presented shows that federal district attorneys, United States marshals, local prosecuting officials and the police have acted in gross violation of the law in making arrests for opposition to war policies and agitation for peace. In many cities, as these affidavits show, men and women have been arrested without warrant, their private papers unlawfully seized and the opportunity denied them to secure bail or counsel for hours at a time.

“The most striking single instance of violence on the part of the military was the breaking up of the Peace Parade in Boston on Sunday, July 1st. Beginning at the statue of Abraham Lincoln in Park Square, sailors and soldiers in uniforms followed this parade with the deliberate intention of breaking it up; they tore banners from the hands of the women, they beat and injured men and women; later they forcibly entered the Socialist Party headquarters, destroyed property and burned many valuable papers and documents.

“Also the War Department has issued orders forbidding soldiers to interfere with public meetings, the trouble has not ceased. A public meeting was broken up by United States soldiers in Seattle as recently as August 1st.

“Soldiers and sailors at many so-called peace meetings have held and searched men for registration cards. Those unable to produce them they have detained and held until they could produce either the cards or some evidence of the date of birth. Men both above and below the registration age have thus been unlawfully held for hours in many places without any charge being leveled against them and yet without the right to secure counsel or bail.

“In Syracuse, New York, a young man who wrote on his registration blank in the state military census that he was opposed to participation in this war was proceeded against by the Federal district attorney under the Espionage act for obstructing the recruiting and enlistment service!

“Seventeen issues of various publications have been declared non-mailable by the Post Office Department under the Espionage Act also the Department of Justice has declined to recognize any of the publications as indictable under the same act.

“Furthermore the post office department has summoned the editors of several of these publications to show cause why their publications should be withdrawn or that “continuity of publication has been broken,” knowing full well that the break in continuity of publication was caused solely by its own act in suppressing an issue. Denial of second-class privilege would mean the total suppression of the papers. It is inconceivable that the post office department will be allowed to proceed to such manifest tyranny unchecked.”

It is hoped that the president will carefully study this list of crimes against the constitution.

Earnings of members of the International Typographical union increased $4,000,000 in the year ended May 31, according to officers of the union.

The class struggle is the struggle of the ages and its final victory will bring emancipation to the workers and brotherhood to all mankind.

If there is any man living who is wise enough to assign just one reason why the telegraph and telephone should be private property we would like to hear from him.

All signs point to a revolution in Spain in the near future. The railroad workers are on strike thruout the land. The miners and metal workers of the north are beginning to follow suit. Labor leaders have threatened a general strike. The government has proclaimed martial law.

Capitalist governments continue to exist solely by the ability of the few to fool the many. The ruling class know this; hence the hysterical activity of its lackeys at the present time in trying to control what the people shall read. These lackeys, however, do not see that this very excess of zeal results in showing some of the people how they are being fooled.

Make Big Sweep Forward In Porto Rican Elections

By HARWOOD HULL.

(In the New York Evening Post.)

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, U. S. A.—Twenty-five thousand votes for the Socialist party by the new American citizens in the Caribbean in the first election in which they voted caused a greater surprise even than the overwhelming majority by which the island recently voted for prohibition. It was the first time that the Socialist party as such had placed a ticket in the field, and both the Unionist and Republican parties in the island, and whose candidates will make up the House and Senate of the new home-rule Legislature, are thoroly alarmed at the large numbers of voters the Socialists have drawn from their ranks.

The 25,000 votes for the Socialist ticket represent a fairly large proportion of the total of 170,000 votes cast in the election, and are significant when it is considered that the Unionist party polled 19,000 less votes than in 1914, while the Republicans lost 25,000 votes, as compared with three years ago. In 1914 the Labor party, the forerunner of the Socialist party, cast 4,000 votes; so that, while the Unionists dropped from a total of 107,000 to 88,000 votes, and the Republicans jumped from 4,000 to 25,000.

Praying For Peace

By WILLIS ANDREWS

Prayer is being advocated as a means of bringing about world peace. Since the inception of the present war whole nations have frequently set apart days for prayers to be offered up as a means to end war. But the more the people have prayed for peace, the fiercer the fighting has become.

While the desire to bring peace to a war-cursed world is most praiseworthy, the efficacy of prayer as a means to accomplish that end is questionable. True, all great achievements that have enriched the world necessarily were preceded by ideals of better things. But to merely pray for war to cease is not sufficient. Right thinking, correct understanding and the moral courage to espouse the cause of social justice must accompany humanitarian and altruistic promptings of the heart.

The law of causation applies to war as well as to every other physical fact. The man who merely wishes or prays for war to cease takes cognizance only of effects and is utterly unmindful of causes. This is fatal to any real solution of earthly problems.

In the last analysis wars are simply the outgrowth of antagonisms engendered by the commercial rivalry of nations. And in this respect nations are but the reflex of individuals, and neither should be unqualifiedly condemned. The world has simply outgrown the economic system under which it has progressed and prospered. But the time has come for a readjustment of industrial relations. Capitalism is only a step in the march of civilization, following barbarism and feudalism, but while the system lasts capitalists must necessarily play their part in the scheme of things.

Under a co-operative, or socialist, system of industry, when the industries of each country will be owned by the people collectively, the people in each country will receive a reward for their labor equivalent in value to the wealth produced, thereby enabling the people to consume the goods produced by themselves. In this manner it will be seen that there would be no surplus of goods over which to scramble for foreign markets, and as a consequence no cause for war between nations would ever arise.

But there must be a mighty awakening of people to loftier ideals of human relationship before wars shall be no more.

Big Court Victory Frees 5 Michigan Socialists

“Not guilty” was the verdict returned against five Socialists in Detroit, Mich., charged with conspiracy as a result of distributing the edition of the Michigan Socialist which opposed the draft and which was declared unavailable by the post office. This sweeping victory, not only for the defendants, but for the whole Socialist party, was returned after the jury had deliberated 19 hours.

This vindication of the right to circulate literature opposing a law or asking for its repeal came despite frantic efforts on the part of politicians in the district attorney's office to “distinguish” themselves by securing a conviction.

Incidentally, it is believed the acquittal will prove of the greatest importance in the cases of the editor and the board of directors of the Michigan Socialist who are to be tried within a few days.

Herman Eberly, Max Wagman, Saul Parker, Arnold Fuhrer and Philip Thavis are the men who were cleared of the conspiracy charge. They were defended by Seymour Stedman of Chicago, Joseph Bernstein and Joseph Seltzer.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, congresswoman from Montana, has returned to Butte to investigate labor conditions. Three thousand people, mostly striking copper miners, greeted her at the station.

Japan denied passports to the Stockholm Socialist conference. Hisomura Kwayama, New York, had been delegated to represent the Japanese Socialists at the international conference.

Senator Ashurst has submitted to the United States Senate a resolution passed by the Chamber of Commerce of Phoenix Ariz., urging Congress to enact an industrial conscription law so that the mine owning capitalists of Arizona and other Western states may work their mines under involuntary servitude.

An attack on the delegation of extraordinary war powers to the president and a demand that congress remain in continuous session to prevent the president from using dictatorial powers were given publicity by the Republican Publicity Association, credited to former Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., its organizer and moving spirit.

For the fifth time since America entered the war, “The People's Press, Philadelphia, Pa.,” has had an issue held up. The latest action of the post office censor was directed against the issue of August 22. The recent given by the authorities this time for the suppression is that only advertisements are published in the paper. The censor's argument is, that under these conditions, the sheet with blank columns is not a newspaper.

The Joseph Fels International commission has issued a statement declaring that President Wilson's plea for low prices during the war will lose its effect unless taken to heart by landlords in fixing the price at which persons engaged in industrial and commercial enterprises will be permitted the use of the necessary land.

Bull, an anti-British magazine published in New York City, has been deprived of its second class mailing privilege. L. S. Bedford, the managing editor, declares that “The right of free press is not only the right to print but the right to read, and in debarring Bull the administration has interfered with the rights of thousands.

From The Firing Line

“Local Rowell has been reorganized and will go to work in earnest,” writes H. F. Jones, New Mexico, and in proof thereof sends in a list of eight subs.
K. Robinson, Ohio, is one of those fellows who, never satisfied, “I will look for more later,” he says, in sending in a list of five this week.
“Please hurry the papers along as they are anxious to get reading the jingo papers,” says Wm. McDowell, Colorado, speaking of a number of new subscribers he had just secured.

“It is up to every true socialist to wake up in this, the greatest opportunity of our time to do something for Socialism. Nothing affords a better chance to do our bit in this waking up process than to get new readers for the American Socialist. To show that I will at least make an attempt to practice what I preach, I am enclosing seven six month subs,” writes P. R. Fourthman, Indiana.
“Please find enclosed fifty cents for which send to my address, for six months, your most valuable and inspiring paper, The American Socialist,” says Dr. J. S. Charebois, Idaho.

Comrade H. F. Weaver, Ohio, orders a bundle of The American Socialist for sale at a mass meeting planned in his town.
While the refreshments were being served at an entertainment being given by Local Delta, Colo., a comrade took a copy of The American Socialist and went thru the crowd. Result—a list of ten subs. Comrade Rosa B. Anderson tells all about it in a letter just received.

“I have long been interested in Socialism but never so much as now,” confesses Martin C. Miller, Colorado, as he subscribes and hopes that Socialism will soon end all wars.

The Joseph Fels International commission has issued a statement declaring that President Wilson's plea for low prices during the war will lose its effect unless taken to heart by landlords in fixing the price at which persons engaged in industrial and commercial enterprises will be permitted the use of the necessary land.

SEIZE THEM ALL! KEEP THEM ALL!

BIG Headlines daily announce the progress of the great struggle between the coal mine owners and the governors of the thirteen middle Western states over the possession of the coal mines. Seizure of the mines seemed to have been determined upon by the state councils of defense, headed by Governor Lowden of Illinois, and legal counsel had been taken as to the proper method of procedure, when President Wilson was appealed to by the coal mine owners to prevent seizure.

Governor Lowden sent a burning telegram to the national council of defense demanding that they state immediately what they want and why and when. The President replied with a pacific message, stating that the State councils might rest assured that everything that can be done is being done.

Meanwhile the price of coal remains unsettled, and the power of a few private owners of that supreme public necessity, COAL, to block the unanimous and universal will of the people seems to be demonstrated.

The contest is more than an issue over a temporary necessity. Capitalism has shown its ugly head in the conflict over coal more plainly than even in the Great War. President Wilson, War Secretary Baker, Navy Secretary Daniels, and Secretary of the Interior Lane all appeared before the coal production committee on the national council of defense and asked of them, "Do you intend to coin into your own profits the lifeblood of our soldiers and sailors?" and they responded with an unanimous verdict "Sure we do!" The secretary of one of the Illinois companies assured the Governor that the plan of the coal mine owners was to grab all they could get away with in this present necessity.

So brazen is their effrontery that the cry is rising all over the country "Seize the mines!" "Let the Government operate them!"

Now, if this is done, it will—it must—mean that next the railroads must be seized and operated by the government, for coal depends on the railroads. And with these two great industries in the hands of the government, the lesson will have been set and learned; that the only cure for the evils of capitalistic greed is socialistic common ownership.

At any cost, this first step toward Socialism must be averted, is the panic stricken fear in the hearts of the National Council of Defense. Anything that can be done to avert Socialism will be done. Anything and everything short of collective ownership of the coal mines will be proposed—and probably put thru—to solve the present coal muddle.

But the sullen anger of the people, stirred by the attitude of the coal mine owners, is kindled to fresh wrath at the attitude of the national government. Governor Lowden sees what is coming, and is man enough to try and break the quickest way thru.

Lowden represents the big manufacturing interests, which are the most vociferous sufferers from the high price of coal. In this division of interest between two despoilers of the people, the people are about to get their innings. Seizure of the coal mines and their operation without profit, if done by the existing government, will be the first lesson in Socialism. If it is denied by the existing government, it will be the strongest possible argument in favor of Socialism.

The greed of the coal corporations and of the U. S. Steel corporation are the most impressive lessons the country has ever received of the true meaning of Capitalism. Figures published by The New Republic show the reason for the "great unrest" in terse and compact form.

In 1913 the U. S. Steel corporation made a clear profit of 81 million dollars. With this it paid 7 per cent dividends on its preferred stock, 5 per cent on its common stock (all of which common stock is clear water and represents nothing but robbery) and had in addition 30 million dollars as surplus. This was a fairly profitable year.

In 1916, the profits of the corporation were $271,000,000. During three months of 1917—the months just preceding our entry into the war—their profits were $181,000,000. This would mean that profits for the whole year if kept up at that rate, would be at least $724,000,000 and will without doubt go as high as one billion dollars—clear profit to be divided among the stockholders.

The basis of these huge profits were, of course, the raise in the prices of billets and plates. In 1913 steel billets sold for $26.50 per ton; steel plates, $33.60. Billets are the half way stage of the production of steel, and plates are the concluding stage as far as the manufacture is concerned.

In 1916 the price of steel billets was $42 per ton, and of steel plates $73.00 per ton—an increase of nearly 100 per cent on each.

In 1917 the price of steel billets is $100 per ton, and the price of steel plates $200 per ton.

Of course this tremendous increase is explained away by steel corporation officials by pointing to the great increases in wages they have been giving their workers. A ten per cent increase, then another ten per cent increase, then a seven per cent increase in the wages of labor—this, they say, requires additional profits.

Well, let us compare.

Between 1913 and 1917 the wages of workers in the steel corporation was raised on the average from $1 to $1.27. Twenty-seven per cent increase in the wages of labor—SIX HUNDRED PER CENT INCREASE IN THE INCOME OF CAPITAL!

Coal and steel are the absolutely essential requirements of every stage of the modern system of production. Every grain of food eaten requires the use of steel at every stage in its manufacture. The ground must be plowed—with steel plows; the grain planted—with steel drills. Harvested—with steel machinery. hauled to the mill—with steel trains; ground with steel; mixed and baked in steel machinery and ranges; and finally cut—with a steel knife.

Animals must be shipped, slaughtered, dressed, cut and cooked—all with the use of steel.

Every square inch of clothes one wears must be raised and spun and woven, dyed, cut and sewed with the use of steel.

Every shingle on the roof of a house is kept there with a steel nail; every plank in walls and floor; every joist, mantel, table and chair, must all be prepared with the use of steel.

Food, clothing and shelter depend absolutely for their production on steel. And when the price of steel goes up, the price of everything goes up in a multiplied proportion.

There is no question in the minds of any American citizens with any grade or degree of intelligence that the high prices of steel and coal are due to greed and not necessity. They are waiting with more or less patience for the necessary remedy to be taken by the existing government. But the necessary steps are not taken by this government, dilly-dallying is adopted; the food controller devotes himself to petty economies instead of striking at the fundamental roots of the matter.

Steel and coal lie at the basis of the whole system of production in time of peace and of conflict in time of war.

Steel and coal are in the hands of a few thieves who have shown their thievery plainly in the face of all men.

Seizure of the coal mines and steel mills, and therefore of the railroads which connect them, is the only possible solution of the problem. If the government does not do this—and it looks as though it will not—then the next government will. For the next government is going to be a Socialist one.

THE RED EXPRESS

DEAR COMRADES:—The Postmaster General has withdrawn from THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST the privilege of the second-class mailing rates, which is practically equivalent to suppressing the paper. We therefore face the necessity of organizing our own system of distribution. We have worked out a plan called THE RED EXPRESS, and we ask—and urge—your immediate, hearty, and continued cooperation with us; otherwise your national paper is in grave danger of losing its life.

Will you summon together IMMEDIATELY all the members of your local, at a SPECIAL MEETING, unless your regular meeting occurs within a few days after receipt of this appeal, and lay our plan before them? Unless you act at once, and can stir up the members of your local also to act at once, we might as well quit trying. Unless we can depend upon YOUR loyalty and YOUR earnestness at this time, we are indeed in evil case.

This is our plan:

1. Organize a Station of THE RED EXPRESS in your local, designating some one member as Station Agent. Papers for all the subscribers to The American Socialist in your city will be sent to him each week by express.

2. Establish a Station at Socialist Headquarters or at the home, office or store of some comrade who is centrally located.

3. Enlist as many volunteer workers as possible, who will agree to distribute the papers to the proper addresses, not for one week or two but, UNTIL THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST REGAINS ITS MAILING PRIVILEGES.

4. Have the Station Agent, with the advice and co-operation of the distributors, divide the subscribers according to wards, precincts, streets or neighborhoods and assign each distributor to the territory which he can most conveniently cover. Wherever possible the same comrade should cover the same territory each week.

5. In communities where the subscribers are widely scattered, on rural routes, etc., it will be possible, in many instances, with the assistance of comrades or sympathizers in the country, to deliver the papers as easily and as regularly as in the cities. Where this is impossible the Station should be managed and located so that rural subscribers could call and get their papers whenever they happened to be in town.

6. Whenever a local has a live and efficient literature agent, he should also be the Station Agent. Wherever there is already an organization for the distribution of literature, that organization should be used for the distribution of THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST. You should not needlessly multiply offices or duplicate work and efforts.

The same workers and organization which delivers the AMERICAN SOCIALISTS should also handle such leaflets, advertising, or other matter as the local may have for distribution.

7. This is a test of our ability to do constructive, original work. WE SHOULD GLORY IN THIS CHANCE TO PROVE OUR POWERS OF CO-OPERATION. The people are more eager than ever before for THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST. Join THE RED EXPRESS; organize a Station; begin the work of distribution right away!

Fraternally yours,

THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST.

"Seize The Coal!" Says Illinois

Seizure and operation by the state is recommended by the Illinois State Council of Defense in language as follows:

"Seizure by the state and operation by it during the period of the war of the coal mines in this state. Illinois is one of the leading coal producing states in the United States.

"The safety of the state and of its people overtowers private interests.

"The seizure of the coal mines can be effected without the institution of judicial proceedings, and thus court delays be avoided. The right of the state in cases of this kind has for its foundation the security of sovereignty itself, and the doctrine of eminent domain and the police power support the right.

"The necessity that confronts a state in the exercise of its sovereign powers, whether for military purpose or for the safety and protection of the people, inherently require that the state shall have the power to take property for public use. The courts have held that where the state undertakes the payment of just compensation it is not necessary that payment should precede the use of the property by the state.

"If the state operates the coal mines during the war, a scale of prices for the coal mine can be established by the state and changed from time to time to meet varying conditions. The existing wage scale can, if conditions require, be increased by the state.

"The course here indicated will not violate the state or federal constitution, nor constitute an interference with interstate commerce."

It is urged that a council of representatives of neighboring coal producing states be called to take up this matter and that immediate steps be taken to bring about the passage of a federal law for seizing all the coal mines of the nation.

Wipe Out Profits-- Power To President

Power to wipe out all profits in the production and distribution of the necessities of life is given to President Wilson by the one-man food control bill just adopted by congress. Some of its provisions are as follows:

Gives the president control over foods, feeds, fuel (including fuel oil and natural gas), fertilizer ingredients, farm machinery and tools.

Authorizes and empowers the president thru the federal trade commission to control, take over and operate coal mines and coke plants and to fix the price.

Prevents members of the advisory commission (mostly war profiteers) of the Council of National Defense from participating in government contracts.

Punishes hoarding and destruction of foodstuffs and speculation.

Allows the president to close grain exchanges, boards of trade, etc., in order to prevent speculation.

Authorizes the president to buy, store and sell wheat, flour, meat, beans and potatoes.

Allows him to take over factories, packing houses, pipe lines, mines or other plants and operate them

With power already placed in the hands of the president, this enables him to take from private control every industry of any consequence in the nation. This will be done, however, only if the demand for it from the great mass of the people becomes loud enough to compel this action.
