State Board Declines to Interfere With Sentence of the Court Herman Biltek will die on the gallows next Friday morning. The state board of pardons yesterday announced that no action interfering with the sentence of the courts would be taken.

OLD SOCIALIST CRANK IS BUSY Carl Browne, himself, with his own special brand of what he calls "Socialism," has found the way to save the world. He admits that he is the man for the job and in a lurid circular proclaims the birth of the "Community Co-operative Commonwealth," an "international union," with himself as "universal organizer."

MILLIONAIRE IS ACCUSED BY GIRL Aurora will be largely represented in Chicago during the next few days to listen to the testimony against one of its wealthiest citizens, Randall Cassem, who was arraigned in the Criminal court yesterday on charges of renting property for improper uses.

ROOSEVELT TO AID IN WAR ON WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC Washington, D. C., June 9.—President Roosevelt and Secretary Root have decided to take steps to end the infamous white slave traffic in the United States. Within a few days the president will issue a proclamation making effective the adherence of the United States to the convention signed in Europe in 1904, under which the several nations of that continent agreed to co-operate to stamp out this great social evil.

ANOTHER OF THE GOLD CHAIN OF RAILROADS HAS FAILED Pittsburg, Pa., June 9.—The Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, with headquarters at Pittsburg, one of the most valuable of all the Gould lines, was yesterday afternoon placed in the hands of a receiver. Because the different lines which make up the road are mostly in Ohio, it was thought best to apply to Ohio, which was quietly done in Toledo, Ohio, yesterday morning, when Vice President B. A. Worthington of Pittsburg, with several of the railroad attorneys, appeared before Judge R. W. Taylor in the United States Circuit court for the northern district of Ohio.

DRUG STORE ARGUMENT ENDS IN REBELLIOUS DEBATE (Special to the Daily Socialist.) Oak Glen, Ill., June 8.—A discussion which began in Hattenger's drug store between A. W. Mance, a Canadian Socialist, and Professor Mobius of Winnipeg, Canada, ended in the calling of a formal debate and the hiring of the town hall. Mobius is a singularly enthusiastic, and he took the stand that the single tax reform would effect all necessary changes. Mance urged Socialism as a more effective means. Both speakers were well received.

ROAD EARNINGS HAVE BIG DROP New York, June 9.—The full extent to which the railroads of the United States and Canada suffered in April can be pretty closely estimated from the aggregate earnings as reported to the Wall Street Journal. Eighty-seven representative lines whose figures for that month have been received, report April gross $122,052,638, a decrease of $20,025,026, or 15.5 per cent. Expenses for the same month are $87,203,458, a decrease of $17,358,423, or 16.5 per cent. These figures give net for April, $34,789,180, a decrease of $8,666,603, or 19.9 per cent.

RICH; A WEARY; SLAYS HIMSELF

Detroit Broker Ends a Week of Debauchery With Bullet

(Note—Socialism was not responsible for the downfall of the person who figures in this tragedy.) "What can a man with plenty of money do when he has drained life of its last sensation and is weary? This question was answered yesterday by Roy A. Gormley, a Detroit grain broker, who ended a week's debauch by committing suicide in his apartment in the Auditorium Annex.

Case of Intoxication? Gormley was 38 years old and married. Reports from Detroit say he recently was separated from his wife because of his intonation for another woman.

Was a Hard Drinker? Gormley was a broker with the Acme Grain Company, 1102½ Wabash building, Detroit. He registered at the Annex June 4, and the employees observed that he spent most of his time in drinking. One of his eccentricities was to sit in the Pomplian room and keep a water on the run bringing him decoctions in which floated cherries and stuffed olives.

Before the orchestra quit playing Sunday night Gormley insisted on the members playing the Dead March from Saul. Prof. Steinbach told him he did not have the music, and jokingly said he would bring it with him Monday night.

He made the musicians drink with him, and paid for another round of drinks to be consumed Monday night.

TROLLEY COMPANY IS WEARY OF CHESTER STRIKE Philadelphia, June 9.—Signs multiply that the Interstate Railway company, of which the Chester Traction company is a subsidiary organization, is growing weary of the strike turmoil and loss of revenue in Chester. It was admitted by officers of the organization in this city that a settlement might soon be brought about. But the company maintains its attitude in reference to the trolley men's union and declares that it will deal with the men as individuals or as a committee.

William Lockhardt, head of the Trolley men's Union, said that the officers of the company had agreed to meet a committee of the strikers.

PHILADELPHIA IS ACCUSED BY GIRL Aurora will be largely represented in Chicago during the next few days to listen to the testimony against one of its wealthiest citizens, Randall Cassem, who was arraigned in the Criminal court yesterday on charges of renting property for improper uses.

While Cassem is an attorney by profession, the chief interest is attached to him because of his wealth, which is estimated at $500,000, consisting of Aurora real-estate and farm lands in the vicinity of Yorkville.

He is under indictment on still more serious charges. As the girl in the case, Lena Nichols, who at the time alleged offense was committed was only 15 years old, was missing when the day of trial approached, the present case was set for the prior hearing.

The action against Cassem, who is 50 years old, gray-haired and mustached, was instituted when the parents of the Nichols girl reported that she had left home and could not be traced. The local police discovered that she was occupying a room in the building known as the Cassem block, in which the attorney had his offices, and which was given over largely to furnished rooms which were rented to transients without question.

The place had a decidedly unsavory reputation. When the girl's story was told she was taken before the grand jury. There she told of meeting Cassem through some of the women who had quarters in his building and of being taken to his office.

YOUNG FREEMAN MAKES SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT IN AIR Pittsburg, June 8.—Robert Peltier, a Pa. boy, young Freeman, yesterday found a new way for over a mile recovered a plane at an average height of 130 feet with a monoplane machine of his invention. This is the first flight ever made in a machine of this type. Peltier's machine has wings like a bat but the disposition of the motor, steering apparatus and the Farman machine. Among those who witnessed the flight was William Wright, a well-known aviator. Preliminary flights here in Peltier's private aerodrome, the scene of yesterday's flight.

After Much Red Tape, Paper Has Doubtless Been Branded as "Undesirable"

The Daily Socialist has been denied press privilege at the Republican convention. The paper doubtless has been branded "undesirable" by the G. O. P., the party of "Injunction Bill" Taft. It is one of the few national dailies which will not join in adulation of "Injunction Bill" as the friend of the working man and the savior of his country.

Killing the Babies

The Chicago Commissioner of Health says that one-half the babies born this summer will die before the end of the year. There is a slight mistake in the form in which the statement is made. BABIES do not DIE. They are KILLED.

When a human life ends within its first twelve months it is a case of murder. The guilty party may be society. It may be the ancestors of the baby. SOMEONE BESIDES THE BABY IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DEATH.

This is especially true of these thousands who will die during the next few months in Chicago and in every other great city. Nearly every one of these will die of diseases which can be PREVENTED BY METHODS ALREADY WELL KNOWN.

There might have been some excuse for such a slaughter of babies when its causes were unknown, or when the means to remove those causes were unattainable.

The Commissioner of Health says that most of these babies will die from "intestinal disease." Ask any physician and he will tell you that "intestinal disease" in a baby can come from but one cause and that is that some form of poison has been placed in the stomach. That poison may be some patent food, highly advertised and recommended (for profit) by some company that has bribed health officials and doctors to assist them in their work of murder. It may be the water that a great city furnishes in impure form because of criminal neglect, and because wealthy parents can afford to sterilize and cool the water for their children.

The vast majority of these deaths come from impure and infected milk. There was a time, not so very long ago, when it was impossible to secure milk that was not laden with disease. The science of bacteriology was not yet in existence. There were no means of determining whether milk offered for sale was food or poison. Today any physician, with the proper appliances, can tell at once whether there are any disease germs in a substance offered for food.

Moreover, he can, in the case of milk, tell exactly how to produce a product that contains nothing injurious and which will build up health instead of taking life.

Yet in the face of all these victories of science a hundred babies are dying today in this and other cities because they are poisoned. Mark you, they are being poisoned with the full knowledge of society, poisoned BECAUSE THERE IS MORE PROFIT IN POISON THAN IN FOOD, BECAUSE PURE FOOD, AIR AND WATER COST MONEY AND THE PARENTS OF THESE CHILDREN, THOUGH THEY HAVE PRODUCED THE WEALTH OF THE WORLD, ARE POOR.

Politics in the Chicago Federation of Labor

The Chicago Federation of Labor has elected a committee of five to investigate the candidates who are nominated for office and to decide which of these should receive the votes of the Chicago trade unionists. The Socialist members of the Federation refused to permit their names to be voted for as members of this committee.

This was the only consistent action which a Socialist could take. We believe that it is the only consistent action which any intelligent union man can take. There is but one political party in the field that stands for the things demanded by organized labor. None of the things asked for by the trades unions of the United States will be in the platforms of either the Republican or Democratic parties. If some pretense is made at endorsement of "labor measures" they will be thoroughly forgotten when election is over.

Both the Republican and the Democratic party will be financed by the class that is fighting organized labor. The men who are furnishing these funds are shrewd business men. They are not in the habit of buying gold bricks. It is not likely that they are financing a political party without they expect to get value received. They cannot get the value of their money unless those parties refuse the demands of organized labor.

Therefore, any man who runs upon either the Republican or Democratic ticket is controlled by the powers that are fighting organized labor.

THEREFORE, NO SOCIALIST OR GENUINE INTELLIGENT TRADE UNIONIST CAN SERVE UPON A COMMITTEE THAT IS TO ENDORSE MEN WHO ARE RUNNING UPON THESE TICKETS.

It does not take any expert investigation to find out which of the Socialist party candidates are favorable to the demands of organized labor. The very fact that a man has been placed upon the Socialist ticket shows that there is no question but that he will stand for the interests of the working class.

Moreover, the Socialist Party is financed, and therefore OWNED and CONTROLLED by the working class.

A candidate that needs expert investigation by a committee to discover any working-class friendship in his make-up is scarcely worthy of the votes of union men.

Watch the Wheels Go Round

It is amusing to watch the smooth way in which the Republican machine is grinding out Taft delegates this week. The Taft forces have control of the credentials committee and that is the only important fact. The question of how the delegates were elected is a matter of secondary importance. If there are enough Taft delegates in any state to make up a "contesting delegation" they may be sure of seats in the convention.

What a howl would go up from the Republican press if a Socialist convention should do anything of this sort. There would be editorial sermon on the tyranny of Socialism, illustrated by the horrible example of the Socialist convention. Such action would prove absolutely that the whole Socialist Party was corrupt, boss-ridden and utterly unworthy of confidence.

Altruism. Mental confusion, even among Socialists, is caused by not clearly defining altruism, and this is evident in some recent letters to the Chicago Daily Socialist. However, as Herbert Spencer made a similar blunder, it is perhaps excusable. That philosopher thought he had demolished Socialism by this syllogism: "All men are selfish and always will be." Socialism is based on altruism (lack of selfishness), therefore it is doomed to failure. Now this syllogism is unanswerable if altruism (or Socialism) is really lack of self-interest. But altruism properly understood is intelligent self-interest. If 20 persons made hogwash by capitalist surroundings, go to a picnic, each decorated in sight, they will enjoy themselves thoroughly. But that is not the absence of self-interest. It is the highest and most intelligent self-interest. Socialism does not require self-sacrificing angels, but intelligent men and women. Five hundred wars, uncounted millions of lives and hundreds are victims of the fire brand. The same number of intelligent, cool-headed men in the same situation walk out unharmed and claim it is not angelic self-sacrifice, but intelligent self-interest. In short, Socialism would substitute for ignorant, disorderly selfishness intelligent, orderly self-interest. CHARLES W. PHILLIPS.

Treatment for a Boil. When a boil appears, do not begin to stick it with needles or knives, or you will scatter the poison through the system and force it to appear in numerous other spots, while you run the risk of causing a cancer in the original boil. The proper method is to wait until the boil comes to a head, then have it properly opened and gently squeezed and it will pass away without destroying any healthy tissue. Society has a living body which has eaten much rich food and has numerous pimples and a few large boils, which are caused by Capitalism, according to the Doctors of Economics. If you let the Socialists open these boils before they are ripe you will scatter the capitalism, but not remove it. The proper method is to call the good Socialist doctor, who will open the boils when ripe, remove the capitalism, but leave the healthy crystal intact. R. A. WASON.

HOW IT HURTS

BY LUCIEN V. RULE

Farmer Robins had no faith in the working class. He was an individualist of the deepest dye and blamed them for the environment of which they were the victims, not the creators. And as for the trades union, the organized effort to better their condition, to overcome their environment industrially, Farmer Robins was a union hater.

He was neutral on chattel slavery a generation ago, because it would have forced him to fight for the northern capitalist or the southern planter. He merely remarked, on the issue of the civil war, "What good will my country do me if I have to die for it?" In a word, he was a freddie patriot.

And now Farmer Robins was a believer in the existing order. He did not believe in the honesty of any man or the virtue of any woman unless some one questioned the same in his presence. He was capable of obstinacy but not of moral courage. He covered up the natural kindness of his heart with cynical comment on everybody and everything, especially the proletarian toilers.

He indorsed every effort of the profit-system officials and functionaries to crush the working class. He waxed singularly patriotic during a strike and shouted from the housetop at every adverse decision where the wage-earners were concerned. With singular bitterness he blamed the workers for bad industrial conditions until the prosperity panic pinched so hard that Farmer Robins was forced to admit that many able-bodied men were tramping the country begging for work or bread.

An advertisement for a hand brought so many eager queries that Farmer Robins was as much at sea as a young man with a dozen sweethearts. Of course he selected the one whose letter pleased him most. The self-abasement of the successful fellow almost restored Farmer Robins' faith in the unorganized American workman. He imagined that this son of toil must be a scab hero. And it proved all the worse for the poor fellow, because, if Farmer Robins was opposed to unions, the organized effort of the workers to increase individual and collective efficiency, he was more deeply persuaded that the inefficiency and stupidity of the unorganized workman was an indispensable proposition. And he heaped personal abuse upon his hireling accordingly.

"What the devil did you drive that horse so hard for? Seems to me a booby would have known better. Best horse I had. Worth $150 and the cost another fifty. Murdered by your blame fool driving!"

The hired man had indeed done it, said to relate. Inexperienced at plowing, he urged the faithful beast beyond her strength, and next morning she lay dead in the barn. Farmer Robins was wrought up. He was a deacon, else it would have called the hired man some other kind of a fool but a blamed fool. He discharged the plowman and sank into a hopeless despondency about securing competent help. He soured over his meals and made home so gloomy generally that his beloved and only unmarried daughter was well-nigh persuaded that the specter of Socialism would actually overtake us yet.

Now Farmer Robins' lovely daughter was not in a mood to mollify her father. She had hardly had time other than to indorse his denunciation and discharge of the hapless employe, who was as dumb as the poor horse when fired.

She was daily looking for a letter from her lover. So full of hope was he when last she saw him, just before the prosperity panic. She had almost murmured, "Yes" to his proposal; but an inherited mistrust of the institution of matrimony without it guaranteed her a good thing held her back. And now Jamie's letters were very vague. The only point in Jamie's character that Father Robins approved was his belief in the profit system and his unbelief in the working class. Otherwise Jamie's insufferable egotism and satire were too much for the old man. He had a full sufficiency of these in his own constitution.

Truth be told, the panic struck Jamie's job and knocked his rosyate dreams of money-making and marriage into the middle of next week or the week after. And Jamie was enough of an economist to put the economic proposition at the bottom of the pile. In a word, he would be a pater familias only in case there were good property prospects and money coming his way. Otherwise, love might go the gait of the Jamie.

Jamie spent his salary prodigally, even as did the workman, and Father Robins hit them both pretty hard upon the point of personal enjoyment. He did not believe manking was economical enough. It was a sin to waste money having a good time. And when Jamie lost his job Father Robins was not surprised. Indeed, he had predicted it last fall.

Jamie skipped his board bills from town to town hunting work. And though his bump of self-esteem, which made his top-lofty opinion of working-class stupidity and depravity so cocksure, was not as yet perceptibly reduced—his enlarged abdomen of good living was so much lessened that he had his tailor cut bay windows out of the calculation thereafter when he ordered trousers.

Jamie used many a sulphurous epithet at the ruling administration and the crazy working class. He never once thought of questioning the system. He believed in a middle-class millennium to hold down the extremes of society. But poor Jamie's philosophy seemed supported neither by fact nor faith as he saw himself sinking to the level of the devil, namely, the proletariat. The only possible consolation in the situation of all concerned was that they might learn "How It Hurts."

THE HUSTLER AND THE TRUST

BY JOHN SPARGO.

"New line?" he queried. "No, tourist," I replied, lighting a fresh cigar.

"And you?" I asked. "S'fice," he replied, with a look of pride.

I tried to look pleasant, but the man's stupid air bored me.

"Yes, sir," he continued. "I have the honor to represent the largest and wealthiest corporation in the world."

"Billion, eh?" "Exactly."

I crumpled his card maliciously as I slipped it into my pocket.

"Fine thing the Trust," I said. "Wonderful economy, organization and saving of labor."

We shook hands. "That's what I call sense," he said, nodding. Then, plaintively, "It's rare nowadays to hear a sane view like that." I blushed—for we had quite an audience now—and drank.

"Saving of labor? I guess so! Why, sir, we've done away with eight hundred travelers—eight hundred, sir!"

"Wonderful! And you'll do away with more yet," I suggested, timidly.

Jones, who travels with woollens, eyed me curiously. "Why, certainly, certainly! Why not?"

"Maybe they'll save your salary and Ex's next," I suggested.

"S-i-r!" "Doesn't it strike you that if they disperse with many more it may come your turn to drop out—in the interest of economy, you know?"

He was silent. "I suppose it has not occurred to you that you may be one of the next batch whose services are dispensed with?" I continued.

"No," he replied, with a strange look—not of pride—in his eyes. "I've never thought of it—but I guess I'm safe. This with a laugh.

"Yet, if you are too dense to see how your bread is endangered, it seems to me you are a likely man to be 'dropped.'"

"Too dense to be an indispensable hustler for the 'Billion.' We Socialists—"

But the man of steel was gone out into the rain.

"Here, shake! What'll yer drink?"

It was Jones who travels with woollens.

When I went to my room—number thirteen, on the left—I heard the poor fellow in number fifteen repeating with monotonous rage:

"To think he was a damned Socialist!"

That the trusts mean a great saving of labor is, of course, admitted on all hands. But that only means, under present conditions, the displacement of some workers and an intensification of the struggle of life for those who remain.

Therefore, some are crying out: "This is tyranny; let us destroy the trusts!" But that is foolish; the trusts are here to stay. The Socialist alone proclaims the true solution, namely: "Let there be a trust of all the people, for the people!"

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Problem of Poverty

THE following are extracts from a speech delivered by Jessie M. Myer, Socialist candidate for superintendent of schools, at an entertainment given by the Ladies of the G. A. R. at Eugene, Ore.

Want, and the fear of want, have driven us like a whip-lash from our earliest recollections. Those of us who have not been thus driven have, nevertheless been made conscious of the fact that poverty is the curse of the human race.

We saw that poverty went hand in hand with crime, ignorance and intemperance, so we came to the conclusion that these vices made poverty. And what made these vices? We stop there and say some are born good and some bad—and that ends our investigation.

A normal, healthy body does not create stimulants. Insufficient nourishment, improper clothing, long, fatiguing, nerve-wrecking hours of labor so deplete the body that its needs are unnatural and, in some directions, excessive.

Temperance will come with healthy, wholesome living conditions, but to the laboring class it will not bring these conditions.

It is clear that, under existing conditions, what is good for one class is not good for the other. The next day after the burning of Chelsea I heard a man say: "It will make good times around there; the boys will get to work." Good times made by a million-dollar property loss! What a commentary that is on our "superb" industrial system!

Thirty-seven percent of the workers' income in New York city goes to his landlord, and the remaining 60-odd per cent he must spend for food and clothing, bought from dealers who must exact enough out of the purchaser, not only to yield a profit to themselves, but also to support their own landlords and other superiors in the industrial hierarchy.

If all comes ultimately, you see, out of the blood and sweat of the worker. Can you still wonder that under such conditions as these the average workman is so hopeless of ever arising into a state of economic security?

If the workers received their rightful share of creating this superabundance of wealth they could now buy back the things they have produced and relieve the gorged markets. Under such conditions no surplus would ever arise except to the advantage of those who produced it.

Suggestion to Socialist Women

Just a little plan for women who cannot go out and work for Socialism. Tack up a nice pocket behind the entry door, also behind the kitchen door. Then all the Socialist papers or tracts you have to spare. Just put them in the pocket. Then when the coal man, ice man, butcher, baker, beggar, or any one else comes around, just reach in your pocket to hand one to him. You know very small seeds grow when planted in good soil, and you do not know how good the soil is you are planting in. MRS. E. HUMMELL.

Socialist Cook Book

GARDEN GOOSEBERRY CHUTNEY. Rub 3 pounds of the fruit in a dry cloth; top and tail them, and cut them small. Mince 1 pound of stoned raisins, 2 onions and 2 ounces of garlic. Put all into your preserving pan; add gradually 2 tablespoonsful each of ground ginger, mustard and salt; 1 pound brown sugar, 1 tablespoonful of cayenne, enough tumeric to color, and 3 plaig of vinegar. Let all slowly boil, and cook for half an hour. Run through a coarse sieve and pour into wide-necked glass jars.

For Home Dressmakers

1563 LADIES' ONE-PIECE CORSET-COVER. Paris Pattern No. 1968

All Styles Allowed. A dainty little undergarment is here portrayed, developed in sheer network. The fronts are gathered at the top of the square neck and at the waistline; the former being finished with ribbon-run beading and an edging of Valenciennes lace, and the latter finished with a narrow waist-band of the material. The armholes and centre-front plait are trimmed with an edging, and the plait may be omitted if desired. The pattern is in 6 sizes—32 to 42 inches, bust measure. For 36 to the corset-cover requires 1 1/2 yard of material 36 inches wide; as illustrated, 5 1/4 yards of edging, 2 1/4 yards of beading and 2 1/4 yards of ribbon to trim. Price of pattern, 10 cents.

All orders for patterns shown in this column should be sent to the Chicago Daily Socialist. Remember these patterns are strictly the property of union labor. Catalogue showing 1,000 Paris patterns sent on receipt of 10 cents to cover postage.

THE WHOLE TRUTH

By Robert Hunter.

One day I sat with half a dozen of the best writers in this country.

One of them earns a salary as large as that of the President of the United States. Another earns more than $50,000 a year. The other three or four earn no less than $20,000 a year.

You can hardly pick up a magazine without seeing their names.

What one of them writes, ten million persons read. Hundreds of thousands read eagerly every word written by the others.

But there is no single one of these WAGE-EARNERS who is not heartily sick of his JOB.

Not one of them will write lies, but not one of them can write the whole truth.

One evening one of these writers said to me, "I've got to quit it. I can stand it no longer. I spent all day yesterday with the proprietor of a great magazine. I had to fight for EVERY LINE AND EVERY WORD I wrote."

Another said to me, "Do you suppose if I came into the Socialist and labor movement I could make a living? I want a BARE LIVING, and A CHANCE TO SAY THE WHOLE TRUTH."

The whole truth—for these men are Socialists. Not a single magazine or newspaper will permit them to preach that truth.

That is not strange; and the men who blame the editors and proprietors of the great magazines and newspapers are often themselves the very ones most to blame.

A DOLLAR a year from every member of a trade union would mean a tremendous and powerful Labor press.

It would mean a free press, owned and controlled by the workers, to tell the truth, the whole truth.

It would mean that the Labor movement, instead of sweating and starving its editors could give them a decent living wage.

It would mean that the Labor movement could command the services of the best brains in the country.

But how often Labor asks that its editors and agitators work without rest, labor without reward, suffer persecution without praise, and sometimes martyrdom without honor.

A dollar from each man. Do you know what that would mean? That we may have the truth—that eyes may be opened and minds made free!

John Hays Hammond for Vice-President—Why Not?

BY ALLAN L. BENSON

Powerful Republicans are all to have put forward John Hays Hammond as a candidate for the nomination for the vice-presidency on the ticket with Secretary Taft.

Mr. Hammond, as everybody knows, is probably the best mining engineer in the world. He is good enough so that the late Cecil Rhodes thought he could get no better; good enough so that the Guggenheims, who are exploiting the goldfields of Alaska and the west, paid him a salary of $500,000 a year; good enough so that he resigned the position because he thought he could make even more money by doing special work in his line for anyone who might want his services.

In fact, if the duties of the vice-presidency, carrying with them, as they do, the possible duties of the presidency itself, required a high-class mining engineer, the people of the United States probably could not do better than to elect Mr. Hammond to the second office in the country.

As it happens, however, a man might be the best mining engineer in the world and the worst vice-president that ever held the place—this because the duties of the vice-presidency have nothing whatever to do with the duties of a mining engineer. It therefore becomes of importance to consider what are the qualifications, if any, of the eminent Mr. Hammond, who has seriously accepted the suggestion of his wealthy Republican friends that he stand for the nomination for second place on the ticket.

In this connection there are two things of vital importance to be considered: What does he know about the science of government?

What are his sympathies—is he warmly inclined toward the class that works, or is he the friend of those who work the workers?

Mr. Hammond's best friends could hardly pretend that he knows anything about the science of government, except such bits of information as he may have been able to pick up in the course of his busy career as a mining engineer. He has never held any office that anyone ever heard of, and his name has never been associated with governmental affairs.

So it can be safely said that so far as knowledge of what would be his duties if he were elected vice-president is concerned, he is no better fitted for the office than any other man of his intelligence in the country.

How about his sympathies—in what direction do they tend? This is a most important question, because a man whose sympathies are right will often do right even if he be weak in the knowledge of what he ought to do.

In Mr. Hammond's case there is fortunately much to show where his sympathies lie.

This eminent mining engineer was once employed by Cecil Rhodes in South Africa. While he was thus engaged Mr. Rhodes thought the time opportune to rob the Boers of their country in order that he might increase the dividends of his diamond company. Men were needed to attempt the theft.

John Hays Hammond, candidate for the Republican nomination for the vice-presidency, was one of the men. Unfortunately for Mr. Hammond, old Oom Paul caught him. Unfortunately for Mr. Hammond's reputation as a brave soldier of fortune, he made rather a miserable spectacle of himself when Kruger's government sentenced him to death. Fortunately for Mr. Hammond—and the people of the United States, too, if they now want to elect him vice-president—the payment of $125,000 by Mr. Hammond to the Boer government sufficed to save his life and regain his liberty.

This is the man who now seriously accepts the suggestion of some of his rich Republican friends that he become a candidate for the Republican nomination for the second office within the gift of the American people. This is the man who kindly explains his candidacy by declaring that the working people want him—that it was a labor union out west that first mentioned him for the position.

But the few facts here related about him should not prejudice his candidacy, as compared with the candidacies of other eminent gentlemen for high official position.

Mr. Hammond passed rather badly, it is true, in the examination to ascertain where lie his sympathies, but Mr. Taft, with his injunction record, and Mr. Fairbanks, the corporation lawyer, could hardly do better.

Each in his way is an eminent citizen. Mr. Taft knows much of the practice of government, so far as it pertains to the gentle art of fighting working-men with court orders when they are fighting for the right to live. And Mr. Fairbanks, besides being one of the very best judges of buttermilk, is one of the many lawyers that great corporations have found willing to serve them for a price. Neither of them has ever joined in an armed raid on a government, as Mr. Hammond did. Neither of them ever had occasion to do so. Both of them have so long been parts of the American government that they can hardly remember to the country. Men seldom make raids on governments that are paying them their salaries and advancing the fortunes of themselves and their friends.
