'Red Special' Runs Thickly Settled District; Big Green Bay Meet

(WORKERS' PRESS ASSOCIATION) Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 24.—The "Red Special" closed another busy day with a magnificent meeting in the Green Bay theater, where 1,600 persons, all that could crowd into the theater, heard Eugene V. Debs, the presidential nominee, A. M. Sturton, candidate for governor of Michigan, and Beecher Moore, the socialist nominee for governor of Minnesota. The chairman was Lynn D. Joseph.

The dense population of the district through which the "Red Special" ran yesterday kept all hands on the jump. Six extra strings of seats in the corridors and good crowds were on hand everywhere. At 10 o'clock, at 7 o'clock in the morning, 2,000 persons greeted the nominee.

The Green Bay theater has a normal seating capacity of 1,150. The Socialists enlarged this by placing 200 chairs on the stage. When all the seats were filled the late comers had to stand in the corridors and in the space back of the speakers.

In order to finance the undertaking an admission fee of 25 cents was charged to all who entered, no extra charge being made for reserved seats. All arrangements for the meeting were placed by the local in the hands of a committee consisting of Lynn D. Joseph, Charles Baker and Charles H. Robinson. Sub-committees were appointed as follows:

Program—Charles Baker and Charles H. Robinson.
Hall Arrangements—Charles H. Robinson, Wellington S. Puttrick and Chas. Baker.

Advertisement consisted of painted banners attached to all street cars, including the interurbans, and of posters issued by the national headquarters announcing the "Red Special." In addition the speaker was accompanied by a megaphone man, who carried for two evenings and space was bought in the local daily during the last two evenings. A word of acknowledgment is due for the generous notices given in the editorial and news columns of the Green Bay Daily Gazette and several of the weekly papers of the county. While none of them show any indication of Socialist leanings, they have made during the past six months has been one of marked fairness and consideration. The period of ignorant abuse seems to have passed in this locality.

Green Bay is a city of about 25,000 people, and is the center of a thickly settled part of Wisconsin, consequently the value of this meeting to the Socialist cause in this vicinity can hardly be overestimated. The unions are very strongly organized here, and the Socialists are obtaining a strong foothold in them through the work of individual members.

The party confidently expects to poll a large vote here this fall, although still far short of enough votes to elect any candidates to office. The organization is stronger in membership and enthusiasm than ever before.

DULUTH THEATER IS JAMMED

Debs, Moore and Kaplan Address Big Mass Meeting of Socialists

(WORKERS' PRESS ASSOCIATION) Duluth, Sept. 21.—The Lyceum, the largest theater in the city was crowded tonight when the Socialists held a mass meeting of workers, Debs, Beecher Moore, candidate for governor of Minnesota, Morris Kaplan and others, delivered addresses. The collection was $130.30.

When the "Special" arrived here at 2:30 p. m. the great train shed was black with men. Moore began speaking as soon as the train stopped and the crowd kept increasing. Debs came out and met his fellow workers, but as he had made almost 200 speeches in all kinds of weather and all kinds of halls his voice happened to be in bad shape and he desired to save it for the evening and did not address the crowd. The band gave a concert and Socialism was cheered by the workers of the iron region.

Whole Local Joins "Special" When the train left St. Paul at 8 a. m. it carried a half dozen passengers and before Duluth was reached the cars were crowded. One Finnish local of Clouet joined the campaign train at Carlton in a body. There were forty-two women in the crowd and all members of the party. As in Finland, so in this country the Finlanders take their women in politics with them to the benefit of both sexes and of course to the uplifting of politics.

All that has been said of the Finlanders I found true in the day we spent in Finland.

DESPITE EFFORTS OF HIS WIFE

Opportunity

How many men of your acquaintance are there just now who are on the verge of voting for Socialism? How many do you think would vote for Debs if they could be made to see that their votes so recorded would do more for the immediate relief of labor than anything else they could do?

Socialists know that 1,000,000 votes cast for Debs this fall will cause more labor laws to be conceded by the master class than can be obtained through either of the old parties in a hundred years. Socialists know this, but others who are just hovering on the verge of Socialism do not.

The Daily Socialist in its great ten-day CAMPAIGN SERIES will emphasize this feature of the campaign, and by so doing will MAKE SOCIALIST VOTES BUY.

STITT WILSON IS TO SPEAK HERE

Comes From England Where He Has Been Filling the Largest Halls

When J. Stitt Wilson returns to Chicago next Saturday he will find hundreds of old friends who listened to him when he talked Socialism in a soapbox on the street corners twelve years ago. Since that time he has been an active worker in almost every state in the union and in nearly all the cities of Great Britain.

Great English Audiences He comes now directly from England, save for some short stops for speaking between here and New York, and will bring with him the story of the great fight for Socialism that is now going on in the British isles. While in Great Britain he has been crowding the largest halls that could be secured in Bradford, Cardiff, Swansea and other centers of Socialist activity.

In New York he filled the great hall of Cooper Union last Sunday, and his coming to Chicago at this stage in the campaign means added enthusiasm and power for the Socialist campaign.

He is on his way to Kansas to take part in the campaign which his brother, Benjamin Wilson, is making for congress from one of the Kansas districts. Reports from this district indicate that there is good prospect of the election of the Socialist candidate.

His Dates in Chicago While in Chicago and vicinity he will speak at the following places: Saturday, Sept. 26, Zion tabernacle, 2025 Dearborn street, 8 p. m. Sunday, 2:30 p. m., Brand's hall, Clark and Erie streets. Sunday, 7:30 p. m., Congregational church, Fifty-fourth and Michigan avenues. Monday, 8 p. m., Brand's hall. Tuesday, 8 p. m., Evanston.

Hearst Springs a Letter in Which G. O. P. Senator Is Offered for $1,000

New York, Sept. 25.—Just what is the market price of a United States senator is the question which is being asked after the expose by which William Randolph Hearst has shown officeholders in both old parties to be held fast in the "tanglefoot" of corporation bribery.

Hearst last night, before the state convention of the Independence party here, read a letter from ex-Representative Joseph Sibley of Pennsylvania, in which a Republican senator is offered for $1,000, and John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil is asked if he wants "to make the investment."

Appeals for Trust Aid

Senator John D. McLaurin, a Democrat from South Carolina, it is said, wrote a letter to John D. Archbold of Standard Oil appealing for "generous support" of a bill which, if such were forthcoming, he could beat Ben Tillman for the United States senate, and this letter was also produced by Hearst.

Hearst read from his castigation of the senators long enough to give a few more body blows to the reputation of Charles N. Haskell, governor of Oklahoma, head of the Democratic finance committee, ex-officio railroad operator and member of a secret alliance to crush union labor. Haskell was shown up as an organizer for the Illinois Steel company and a speech was read which Haskell had delivered in defense of Standard Oil.

Letter Involves McLaurin

The new revelations which involve McLaurin are contained in two pithy letters which Hearst read: The first is as follows: "Hon. John L. McLaurin, United Chamber, Washington, D. C., Sept. 25, 1908. "Dear Mr. Archbold: I have pushed my fight so vigorously that they have broken up on Tillman. I met him at Coffey and beat him at his own game. I called his bluff and now the fight is for two seats in the senate instead of one. I can beat Tillman if properly and generously supported. No time to lose, however. I inclose an account of both meetings for your information. With kindest regards, I am, yours sincerely, JOHN L. McLAURIN."

Sent to Another Trust

The second is: "28 Broadway, April 21, 1903. "Mr. Frank L. Eldridge, Post V. President Knickerbocker Trust Co., 66 Broadway, City. "Dear Mr. Eldridge: It gives me pleasure to introduce to you hereby Senator J. C. McLaurin of South Carolina, who desires to discuss with you some business questions of mutual interest. I cannot speak in too high terms of Senator McLaurin, for whom I beseech your most kindly consideration. Very truly yours, JOHN D. ARCHBOLD."

A Senator for $1,000

Joseph Sibley's offer of a "senator for $1,000," as read by Hearst, is as follows: "Personal and Confidential. "House of Representatives. "Washington, D. C., Nov. 21, 1903. "My Dear Mr. A.: "A Republican senator came to me today to make a loan of $1,000. I told him I did not have it, but would try and get it for him. He said he would wait in a day or two. Do you want to make the investment? He is one who will do anything in the world that is right for his friends, if ever needed. Please telegraph me, or no? I will give you name when I see you. "I don't know but what I ought to come over and see you. Events are crowding, and I am on the 'inside' of things. I think I am playing no small hand and want to know whether to go ahead. The nomination of a Republican president is not yet settled. No man can safely predict the nominee and guess I have got hold of the real situation as closely as any one here. "If you need me for any purpose telegraph me and I will come over." "JOSEPH C. SIBLEY."

Haskell's Trust Connection

Haskell's steel trust connection was shown by court records in which his law partner, John P. Bailey, used the Illinois Steel company for $50,000 as fees earned by Haskell, who had turned over his claims to Bailey. The following extract, taken from said records, and that said charges, fees and compensations are reasonable and just."

FEAR CHOLERA ON THE BIG YANKEE BATTLESHIP FLEET

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Secretary Metcalf yesterday sent the following dispatch to the naval station at Cavite to be delivered to Admiral Serry when the battleship fleet reaches that place: "Cholera reported in the Philippines. If you find an approaching epidemic or danger of getting it aboard ship restrict visiting the shore to official business or prohibit it altogether to officers and men, and permit no visitors a board while at Manila or Cavite till return to Yokohama."

Governor General Smith at Manila has reported thirty-six cases of cholera for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. From then until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon sixteen cases were reported, as against twenty-nine at 4 o'clock Wednesday.

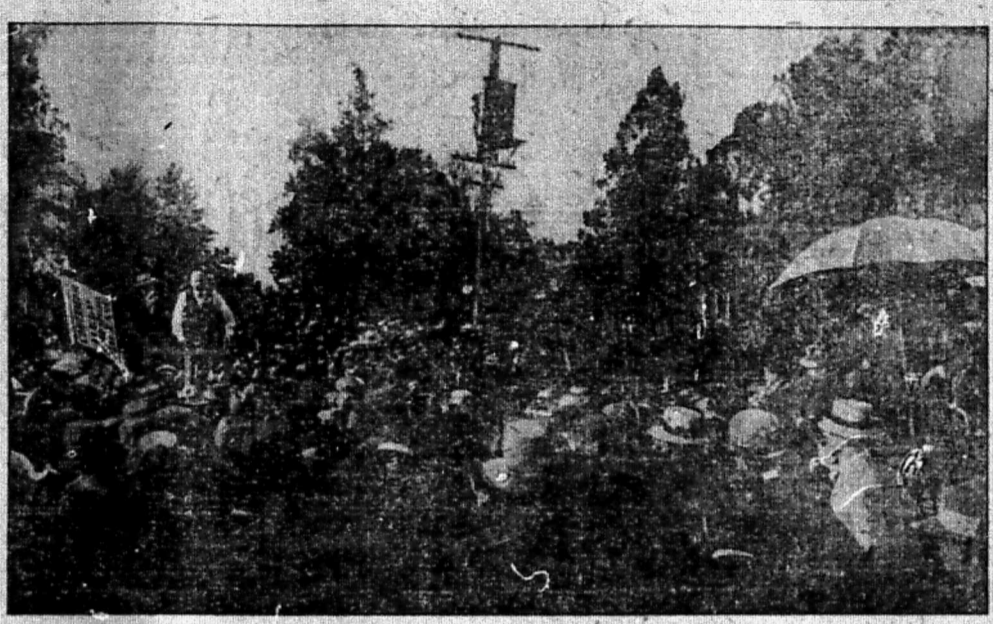

Decrease in New Cases

St. Petersburg, Sept. 25.—The cholera statistics made public yesterday show an encouraging decrease in new cases. The deaths, however, were more numerous that Wednesday. During the twenty-four hours ending at noon yesterday there were admitted into the municipal hospitals 268 cases and there occurred 172 deaths, against 436 new cases and 158 deaths Wednesday.

A "RED SPECIAL" ASSEMBLAGE

PINCH OF SNUFF SAVES HIS LIFE

Kraus Fills Up on Lager and Tries to Jump in Lake; He Fails

A well-worn, sweet-smelling snuff box, half filled with the fragrant "snuffs" so dear to Scandinavians and Teutons, saved the life of Hans Kraus, a hod carrier, when he had made up his mind to end it all by jumping into the inviting waters of Lake Michigan.

Kraus is a pudgy, kind-hearted German, one of those who like to be left alone with their steno and a box of Kraus calls this perfect bliss, but his wife Frieda is of an opposite temperament. She detests the snuff box and hates to see her husband drunk. She even calls him a drunkard, though he says he only takes enough lager to make him feel happy.

Saloon is His Fortress

Kraus sometimes after hearing his wife's voice raised to an unusually piercing pitch makes up his mind to end it all by going to Schnitzer's saloon, where no women have access to broomsticks. There he gets drunk and tastes to his fill the dear, old lager.

Then with tears in his eyes and a breaking heart he goes back to his wife and tells her what an ungrateful woman she is and that he, her much tried husband, will end it all in the lake.

This was the case last Tuesday when Mrs. Kraus had an especial fit of anger. Kraus listened patiently until she happened to touch on the subject of beer and snuff boxes. This was too much for Kraus, love of the two assailed objects, and with anger surging in his breast he ran for the haven of retreat—Schnitzer's cafe.

He Stuffs and Drinks

There he rested and relished his beer and took out his snuff box, which he held up to the light to see if he could use it until his heart was content. Long he snuffed and the steno came big and fast until Kraus began to see the slopes of Germany in the distance. Then he became emotional.

He made up his mind to meet his father, who used to drink and snuff, and his mother, who allowed him to do so. With tears in his eyes he staggered out of the saloon and into the streets, where he smelled the fresh water of Lake Michigan.

Makes Park "Cap" Sweat

Toward the evening a park policeman saw a man walking unusually fast toward the shore of the lake. The man acted strangely and the policeman followed at a brisk pace. All at once he heard a man sob. Then as saw him break into a run for the water where the officer ran, too. He was too far away from the man, however, to overtake him. He saw the man would reach the water first and the cold sweat began to break out on his forehead.

Know What Mother Meant

"Now I understand what mother used to mean when she said it was hard to be poor. I never minded it before; just thought it means not being able to buy all the pretty things I wanted, and I never cared much about that, for every one liked me, and said I always looked stylish and pretty no matter what I wore."

Is Saved by Snuff

The officer who made the arrest said Kraus would have been dead by now if he had not stopped to take a pinch of "snuff."

TAFT, BRYAN AND HEARST HOLD IMPORTANT CONFAB

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 25.—Three actors who are appearing in a local theater this week created more excitement in the Hotel Lincoln yesterday afternoon than has turned up in a long time.

Shortly after noon a man who every one would have sworn was William H. Taft, entered and hurried up on the elevator without registering. Light on his heels came William J. Bryan, who followed Taft upstairs. When the spectators, whose numbers had increased several hundred, were beside themselves, William Randolph Hearst came in and went up the same elevator.

Finally the spectators could stand it no longer. They stormed the parlors where it was said they had gone. Here the three were found in earnest conversation. The police, who had to be summoned to clear away the crowd, found the actors had "made up" to resemble the political leaders.

PITIFUL LETTER HITS SORORITIES

High School Girl Rejected Because She Was Poor Describes Slight

The struggle for "social" success which the sororities have brought to the public high schools of Chicago was shown in all its pitifulness in a series of letters called "Letters of a Non-Sorority Girl" to "Her Chum," which were found in a book of poems sent to a local newspaper to be reviewed.

The letters were written by Pauline Parker, 634 Madison avenue. They show that their authors were admitted to High School in February of this year, and was invited to a sorority spread, but was not asked to join because "her mother worked and could not afford it."

Text of the Letter

"When we were walking one day to school I saw a girl who I had never seen before. She was very pretty and I liked her very much. I went up to her and said, 'Hello, I like you very much. I wish now I had taken mother's advice and stayed at home.'"

"And what do you think they gave Della a bid? The girls were all lovely to me, but never said a word about my joining. O, I could have died of mortification."

"When we were walking one day to school I saw a girl who I had never seen before. She was very pretty and I liked her very much. I went up to her and said, 'Hello, I like you very much. I wish now I had taken mother's advice and stayed at home.'"

CANADIAN RAILROAD IS TO INVADE CHICAGO TERRITORY

The Canadian Pacific railroad will invade the United States and compete with the great trunk lines for the western trade and the business according to telegrams from Montreal received last night.

At the general headquarters of the great Canadian system in Montreal, it stated last night that the railroad, through its subsidiary line, the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, practically has taken over the Chicago Great Western railroad and will operate its own trains over its own line into Chicago.

Other officials of the Canadian transcontinental system declared that the move had been contemplated for some time and was the outcome of several years of effort to get a line into Chicago which would be controlled by the parent corporation.

Beside giving the great Canadian system the desired Chicago terminal the transfer will have the effect of opening up the territory embraced within the trade limits of Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha and Minneapolis, which the branches of the Chicago Great Western reach to the Great Canadian trade. It also will enable the Canadian road to make even a stronger bid for transcontinental traffic through the ports of Montreal and Quebec, a class of competition in which the already successful efforts of the Canadian Pacific have been watched jealously by the eastern trunk lines of the United States.

THEATERS STILL IN PANIC'S GRIP

W. H. Taft, in his speech at the picnic given him by George Ade, remarked that "we have been through a short period of financial depression," thus giving the impression that the panic is over.

The theatrical business, however, proves exactly the contrary, and a glance at the situation shows that this autumn and winter are expected to be far worse than last season. According to reliable authority, there will be at least one hundred fewer traveling companies to leave New York alone this season than last.

In Business Barometer

This has been caused by the exact knowledge of the amusement outlook which the show promoters have at hand, and is a sure indication of what conditions are obtaining all over the land. There is no business which more surely indicates the financial situation than the amusement business. People who have no money cannot afford to be amused, and when such is the case matters for the theatrical managers are in very bad shape indeed.

These conditions have thrown thousands of men and women who ordinarily earn their livelihood by entertainment out of employment.

The other day a young man came into the office of the Optiscope company and asked for employment. When the manager began to talk with the man he found himself squarely up against the social problem.

Was On Verge of Suicide

The young man, who was a motion picture actor, had been out of work for some time and had not eaten since the day before, and, as the manager plainly noticed, was on the verge of suicide. He said that what impressed him most was that the man wanted no charity, but just a chance to earn a living.

There are thousands like him everywhere today.

The builders of this place have taken advantage of the poverty-stricken condition of the workers and are trying to establish the open shop. The carpenters are on strike against it and have a good chance of winning despite the large out of work army.

SHIPPY SAYS HE DOESN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO TO BETTER LEVEL

Chief Shippy admits that he is up against a hard problem in segregating vice and yesterday, in a reply to critics of the police department, said: "What am I to do with these people?" the chief asked, referring to the disorderly women who frequent that region. "Shall I drive them into the lake as some persons seem to believe should be done and as was suggested by a judge from the bench in this city within a few months? Is that the answer to the question?"

Rescue Fifty-One Girls

After reading this report the chief took from his desk a confidential report from Captain Wood containing the names of fifty-one girls who had been rescued from the life of the levee district by the police within the last seven months in the "Canaan Wood" case.

HASKELL, FOE, LEADING LABOR

Governor, Known Enemy to Unions, Blinds Gompers and Bids for Vote

FEDERATIONIST SLEEPING

Evidence Shows Oklahoma Official Started Move to Crush Unionists

The American Federation of Labor, under the leadership of Samuel Gompers, is being led in its political action by a man—Gov. Charles N. Haskell of Oklahoma—who has been exposed with the most convincing proof as a bitter foe of organized labor, having been a charter member of the Citizens' Alliance, organized in Muskogee, Indian Territory three years ago, for the purpose of fighting the closed shop.

There is now in the hands of a certain news agency a document showing beyond any reasonable doubt that Gov. Haskell was a charter member and one of the leading spirits in the fight on organized labor in Oklahoma, and this in face of his denial to the contrary. Furthermore, he introduced anti-labor resolutions.

Gompers Too Busy to See

That Samuel Gompers was so busy and "had to catch a train" probably explains why he could not see that William Jennings Bryan and the Democratic party was allowing the labor part of the Democratic campaign to be engineered at its beginning by a most bitter foe of the organized labor movement, and no doubt, blinded him to the fact that Bryan cared nothing for organized labor any more than its votes.

Gompers, it is quite evident, was looking for nothing more than a flimsy excuse for endorsing Bryan and the labor plank, which Gov. Haskell, who but three years previous had been engaged in a war on all that organized labor stood for.

Haskell, at the time the attempt was made to break up the unions in Muskogee, which in 1905 succeeded, was president and still is president of the Indiana Contracting company, engaged in the construction of houses, railroads and anything else that comes its way, and in buying and selling real estate.

Haskell Organizes Branch Haskell was building the five story Turner hotel, the proprietor of which subsequently sued him for a board bill of $112, contracted at a time when Haskell was running for governor. Haskell desired to get his labor as cheaply as possible, so he was instrumental in organizing the branch of the Citizens' Alliance in opposition to the unions.

Haskell's financial account with the Citizens' Alliance shows that he paid dues in it from the time of its organization, April 15, 1906, until the latter part of that year.

Purpose of Alliance At the first meeting in Haskell's building, the purpose of the alliance was set forth as follows: "To consider the advisability of organizing the business interests of the city for protection against all forms of combinations inimical to the advancement of the city and the free conduct of such enterprise by its proprietor."

Haskell was elected temporary chairman of the meeting. E. E. Arnum, secretary of the Houston, Tex., alliance, was called upon to explain its object as it existed in other cities and the plans of its organization.

All of this appears in a copy of the minutes of the first meeting. There was a general discussion and a committee of five appointed upon constitution and by-laws. The chairman of this committee was Robert L. Owen, United States senator from Oklahoma, who is taking a "active part" now in the campaign for Bryan.

Something like a hundred persons became charter members of the organization, among them Haskell. The following oath then was administered to each of the members: "You hereby agree and affirm that you are over 18 years of age, and that you will abide by the constitution and by-laws of this or any other Citizens' Alliance with which you may hereafter become connected; that you agree on this command of the district."

MEW JOBLESS, SO WOMEN DON MALE ATTIRE AND HELP THEM

Kindes have driven men and women to all kinds of desperate deeds, but never before has an industrial depression driven women to don men's clothes in order to help their husbands in securing work, as did Mrs. Robert Boles of Cleveland, O., who braved the horrors of "hobo" life in order to aid her husband.

Start Out to Hunt Work

Boles and his wife suffered the pangs of starvation caused by his inability to secure work. They saw no prospect of employment in Ohio, therefore they determined to seek it elsewhere. Miss Emma Gardner, 24 years old, who had lived with the family for five years, and Charles Ford, a close friend of Boles, went with them. The women both decided to wear men

The Wolves A Fable With a Purpose

Do you know, it is not an easy thing to put Socialism into the form of a story, to make the story bright and interesting, and all the while to keep on solid ground, so as not to give the reader a lot of mistaken ideas that he will have to get rid of later?

We should like to have every veteran Socialist worker read Robert A. Wason's new story, 'The Wolves.' We believe most of them will agree with us that he has pretty nearly accomplished the impossible in the way of a propaganda book that is both straight and lively.

The Only Answer

It was a brilliant journalistic act that led Lincoln Steffens to propound to a row of public men the simple momentous question, "What is the matter with America?"

It is the riddle of the Sphinx, which presents itself in many forms, and which our age must answer, as each previous age has answered the same question, or our civilization must perish and decay instead of pressing on to the future that lies before it.

This same question has been presented in every land and in every age. Always and at all times, as here and now, the representatives of the ruling class have been unable to reply.

Today those who sit in the seats of plutocratic power and control the institutions of government are as blind to the forces about them as were the Bourbons of France before the Revolution.

To the Socialist the answer is plain. The matter with Capitalism is—CAPITALISM, just as the matter with feudalism was—FEUDALISM. Capitalism has played its part in the history of the world and must pass away.

No sleeping potion, no splints, or plasters, will restore social health. We are in the midst of a revolution, one of those stages of accelerated evolution, when one ruling class gives way to another.

There may be those who will sneer at the answer of Debs. There will be some so blinded by class prejudice and class education that they cannot understand him.

Make a New Precedent

Taft's speech to railway employees was a frank, brutal defiance. He boldly defended his injunction record and the principle of the injunction in industrial struggles.

For that frankness we can thank him. Open enmity is at least more honorable than deceit.

PRECEDENT JUSTIFIES IT. This was the argument for serfdom and chattel slavery and the divine right of kings and every other vested wrong that has stood in the road of progress.

ENGLAND HAS ALREADY DISCARDED THESE PRECEDENTS.

The workers of that country have succeeded in abolishing injunctions in industrial battles and in doing away with many other "precedents" that helped to enslave Labor.

It is a self-evident fact that the assistance of women would be of untold aid to us.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY PROPOSES TO MAKE A NEW PRECEDENT.

It will place the working class in power for the first time in history and will express the interests of that class in laws and institutions.

AN OUT-AND-OUT LOAFER

BY E. R. HARTLEY

Have you ever noticed one of those thick-jawed men, whose waistcoats would almost make a good overcoat for an ordinary man, and whose whole appearance reeks of a too gross abundance of the so-called good things of life?

"Well, that's all the same," "Not quite the same. At seven and a half per cent you will have had 35 pounds a year, or over 7 pounds a week. How much a week do they pay the men who work at the blanket mill?"

"Am I what?" and he jumped up from his seat with his fists clenched. "Don't be a fool," I said, but keeping my eye on him. "You said just now a loafer was a man who never works and who never intends to work in the future. It appears to me the description fits you to a hair."

"Do you remember me asking you never worked? You said because you had no need to work. How is that?" "Because my father left me sufficient to live upon."

"Do you live on it?" "Of course I do. I've nothing else to live upon."

"May I ask how long you have been living on it?" "Oh, nearly twenty years."

"It must have grown a good deal less." "What do you mean?" "If you've been living on it for nearly twenty years your father's fortune must have been growing steadily less."

"No it hasn't. I've watched that!" "Don't you think it rather curious that you've lived for twenty years on the fortune your father left you, and it has grown no less? It sounds like a story from the Arabian Nights. Would you mind explaining?"

"There's nothing to explain. My father left me 5,000 pounds worth of shares in the residence you are building."

"Certainly not," answered Col. Stillwell. "I am a prohibitionist; and, besides, I am against spelling reform."

ROBIN HOOD AND THE POOR

BY ROBERT HUNTER

If you want to spend a joyful hour read some time the merry adventures of Robin Hood. You will find in them many a pretty tale and not a little food for thought.

Having killed a man in a moment of passion, he was forced to take to the woods and live the life of an outlaw. He hated the oppressors of the poor, and he never failed to accept any opportunity offered to rob fat priests, monopolists, and usurers, and then to distribute his stealings among the poor.

About him was many a sturdy rogue, and they lived the merriest of lives, eating and drinking in Sherwood Forest.

Robin was very much the sort of man that many a ward boss is today. If you go into the headquarters of a Tammany politician or into Michael Kenna's or Johnny Powers' saloons in Chicago you will find a great crew of men living a merry life upon money taken from rich corporations.

Not a few widows and orphans, not a few hard-pushed criminals, and not a few hopeless out-of-works find their sole sustenance in the generosity of the ward politician.

Big Tim Sullivan is a kind of modern edition of Robin Hood. When winter comes and the hoboes begin to flock into the "Bewery" they know that Big Tim will see that they have warm woollen socks, a bed to sleep in, a mug of ale, and a free lunch.

When funds get low he starts out on a foraging expedition, and many a flinty capitalist hands over to him the funds to care for Tim's boys.

Once when the funds of Robin were low he turned beggar, and went out on the highway to replenish his coffers. He met a corn engrosser; that is to say, a man who had bought up all the corn, obtained a monopoly of it, and sold it back to the people at his own price.

He was a thin, weakened old miser, such as men of a similar occupation are likely to be. Robin first asked his help as any ordinary beggar would, and the corn engrosser snarled at him: "Now out upon thee. Such sturdy rogues as thou art are better safe in prison or dancing upon nothing with a hempen collar about their necks."

"Tut," quoth Robin, "how thou talkest. Then and I are brothers, man. Do we not both take from the people that which they can ill spare? Do we not make our livings by doing naught of any good? Do we not both live without touching palm to honest work? Have we either of us ever rubbed thumbs over honestly gained farthings?"

After some parley Robin relieved the corn engrosser of a hundred bright, golden pounds, and after a word of warning let him free to go his way.

Such is the story of Robin Hood, and a thousand stories very similar might be told of nearly every ward politician in this country. They are good fellows, radical enough in their way, despising the rich, befriending the poor.

Yet Robin let the corn engrosser GO ON HIS WAY to continue robbing the people with his little monopolies. And the ward politician lets the modern monopolists GO ON robbing the people.

In the hands of these politicians there is immense power. They could destroy monopoly and create a condition of affairs in this country by which every man, woman and child could have plenty. If they exercised their political power wisely there need be no men out of work, no suffering, no poverty, no slums.

A system which consists of robbing the poor day in and day out these politicians SUPPORT, and even help to fasten upon us. Generous but stupid, kindly but thick-skulled, nearly all of these politicians actually believe they are serving the poor friends about them by demanding of rich corporations a small per cent of their stealings to give alms to those who have been robbed.

They say to Wall Street and to all the great trust magnates, "We will let you alone, we will even aid you in your robberies, but we demand that out of every hundred dollars of your stealings you give us one to distribute among the poor."

But after all merry Robin is not to blame nor is the open-handed politician. It is the people themselves, and until they gain wisdom and learn to use their strength they will continue to be robbed—in one age by Robin Hood and the corn engrosser; in another age by the ward politician and the trust magnate; in still another age by some combination.

So long as people do not know that they are robbed, or are too stupid to devise means by which they can prevent robbery, just so long will there be men ready and willing to rob them.

LETTER CARRIER A CITIZEN

BY HARRY CALKINS

Does a man lose his rights of citizenship, barring only the right to cast his ballot, when he enters the service of Uncle Sam as a letter carrier?

When is a citizen not a citizen? When he becomes a letter-carrier? These and other questions are disturbing the minds of the friends of J. H. Rhinehart, a man who has held the position of letter carrier in Denver for the last nineteen years and whose wages were reduced recently from $1,100 to $900 per year because he allowed the Socialist party to place his name on their ticket as a candidate for city treasurer last spring.

The friends of other letter carriers are beginning to take notice also. In some quarters the disciplining of Rhinehart is regarded as a move by the administration to throw "the scare" into all government employees who are inclined to act independent of the administration in the matter of politics.

That the authorities have no case against Rhinehart is proved by the fact that Postmaster Sours, of the Denver postoffice, will not give the public any explanation of the so-called treasonable actions of Rhinehart, or show, or attempt to show, any dereliction on his part. To the minds of the people of this city the case has simply boiled down to this: Politics.

Sours, the man who celebrates his appointment by taking in a show where the "ladies" discard such conventional things as clothes, thinks it is extremely bad taste for a man under him to be a candidate for office on the Socialist ticket.

Recently the news leaked out that M. J. Guerin, the postmaster at Salida, Colo., was nominated last week on the Republican ticket for railroad commissioner. "We venture that Guerin will not suffer for his political activity, for he was nominated by and if elected will look after the interests of those who secured his appointment."

There is some talk of circulating a letter of protest among the patrons of the postoffice who are served by Rhinehart, but every one seems to feel that it would only represent wasted energy, and as long as Sours is postmaster their efforts would come to naught.

Had not Rhinehart participated in the campaign, and no other charges had been trumped up against him, his salary this year would have been $1,200. It does not pay to be a Socialist—at least not yet.

SOLDIERS BECOMING SOCIALISTS

BY OTTO McFEELY

The interview with Kennedy, author of "The Servant in the House," in which he said that General Funston is a Socialist, sounded ironic to me. Before the Spanish-American war scores of young men, inspired by instinctive love of adventure and also by wrongs suffered by Cubans, were on the southern border striving to get to Cuba. Their purpose was to join the insurgent army and fight for liberty.

Frederick Funston was one of these young men. He was poor and comparatively unknown at that time. By energetic effort he with others succeeded in reaching Cuba and joining the rebel army. About that time I was on the gulf coast and was one of those turned back by United States revenue cutters as filibusters. Since then I have become a Socialist, and I know others of the world-be warriors who have joined the working class party.

The desire to help Cubans in their distress and heroic efforts to gain a form of freedom evidently has remained with Funston and led him into the political camp occupied by men and women who want to see justice prevail.

No Need to Ask Her "Johnny, where's your sister?" "Up in her room." "I quarreled with her yesterday and I am sorry. Won't you go and ask her if she'll make up?" "She's makin' up now."—The Johnston Magazine.

A Puzzle "Why should a man want to lead a double life?" "I give it up. One existence has enough perplexities, it would really seem."

Rural Telephone as Fire Alarm System The farmers in the vicinity of Ewan, N. J., have converted the rural telephone service into a fire alarm system. Nearly all the farm houses are connected by telephone, and when a fire is discovered a general alarm is sent over the wires for three or four miles in every direction. Recently, when a barn caught fire, the system was given an actual tryout, and a few minutes after the alarm was sounded the farmers began to arrive—Popular Mechanics.

Which One for You? There's a smooth Bill Taff, in-Junction Bill! The workers' friend!—Since the G. & P. convention.

He stands for "rest," so that Wall Street still may crush us at will, without detention. His platform covers the bankers' noses. But the unemployed man—why, that "God knows."

There's a portless Bill, the eternal one. His principles—depend on the situation. And if he's elected—why, he will not run. In this—this he'll "have the nation." And he'll get jobs in the trusts he trusts. And we'll all get jobs in the trusts he trusts. There's a Chin, who has conquered his throat. His remedy is dry legislation. But with most of us something to eat comes first. And nothing to drink won't be commensurate. If we can't push the grover for a pint of ale how will that help him the single part? Workmen!

STAKE UP AND VOTE FOR DEBS. And vote for all, all the best!
