CONFESSES TO MURDER ON FARM

John Bedford who has confessed murdering Oscar Hoganson and burying the body in the back yard of his farm near Marengo, Ill., was brought back from Nebraska yesterday and placed in the McHenry county jail.

Owing to fear of mob violence he was not taken to Marengo by Deputy Sheriff Burke and State's Attorney Lowell, who had him in charge, but was taken to Crystal Lake for his preliminary examination. From there he was taken to the jail across the country by Sheriff Charles Wandrack.

State's Attorney Lowell said Bedford confessed that he killed Hoganson by shooting him in the side of the head, but denied having committed any other murders. It is believed this attorney of the criminal will silence those who have been attributing to him every crime committed in the county for the last year. The confessed murderer came with the officers of his own accord, making no attempt to fight extradition.

The murder was committed on Saturday, October 24, in Bedford's shanty. He and Hoganson were neighbors, living in gallop on farms of a few acres each. Bedford was thinking of leaving the country to follow a cowboy friend to Wyoming, said Bedford, and induced Hoganson to come to his place in order to sell him some of his personal property to raise some money. Hoganson refused to buy, and was shot over his left eye. Bedford then lowered the window shades, which thing, never having been done before, was commented on by passersby.

WILL UNLEARN ALL HE LEARNED

Judge Transfers 'Boy Drummer' from the Road to John Worthy School

The ambitious career of Roland French, who aspired to be a successful traveling salesman at the age of sixteen, was rudely interrupted when Judge Pinckney at the Juvenile Court sentenced him to the John Worthy school yesterday.

It was a most tempting life which Roland enjoyed. The jewelry which Zeller handles was in the form of medals for athletic contests, pins for fraternalists, school and college classes.

Orders began to pour in on Zeller Zeller began to feel that he had a "live one." He had. When orders did not come fast enough in real life Roland faded them.

Zeller's Detective Story Previous to his employment by Chas. F. Zeller, Roland French had been in similar trouble with another jewelry firm, but Roland's aunt had "squared matters."

On this trip he accumulated a large bunch of goods at South Bend. He pawned $50 worth of jewelry samples to pay a $15 hotel bill.

When Roland appeared in court yesterday, after spending his time since October 15 at the County hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis, he had finished some hard thinking.

When questioned by Judge Pinckney, he admitted everything without reservation. But let it not be thought that Roland had allowed the grass to grow under his feet, for he had secured another job with another jewelry house, Spies Brothers, with offices in the Powers building.

Roland wasted no tears. He simply told the judge that he wanted another chance.

Judge Pinckney looked at the boy quietly and questioned him sympathetically. The judge wanted to give the boy a chance, but he feared that another slip would follow.

Mrs. Nellie French, the boy's mother, pleaded heart brokenly that the boy be given a chance.

Judge Pinckney looked at her and said: "I think that you are the right kind of a mother. I know you love your boy. I think that you love him too much to know what is best for him."

Then the judge sent Roland to the John Worthy school, where his conduct will determine the length of his term.

Government Tries in Vain to Ruse to Set Different Races Quarreling

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY SOCIALIST.) Prague, Bohemia, Nov. 14.—Unrest among the unemployed has led to protestation from the student bodies here and the authorities are attempting to work the old game of setting German student against Czech student and stirring up the strife of the nationalities in order to distract public attention from the larger question of provision for the unemployed.

Agree on Mayor's Term

The article dealing with the length of term of the mayor and aldermen called forth the greater part of the discussion. The committee agreed on the four-year term for the mayor. The article on the qualification of electors at general elections was passed tentatively. The article provides that the qualifications of voters at the municipal elections shall be determined by the general laws of the state. The passage of the article was made tentatively because it was stated by Professor Merriam that a committee of women would appear before the committee and ask that woman's suffrage be incorporated in the charter.

Outlook Is Optimistic

At the present time the commission dealers are fairly optimistic over the outlook. Apples and other fruits are much cheaper this year and will probably be Thanksgiving week. Last year at this time the apples sold at 44 a barrel, while this year they sell for 63 and are of much better quality.

Fruit Much Cheaper

Cuneo Brothers vouch for the statement that fruits are almost 20 per cent cheaper than they were last year, although they too may go up before Thanksgiving. Nuts are for about the same as they did last year and may possibly come down. Butter, eggs and other provisions are abundant, as are oysters and fish, and sell at a moderate price.

Le Mans, France, Nov. 14.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, succeeded yesterday afternoon for the first time in making a start with his flying machine without the use of the derrick previously employed for this purpose. He circled the field twice on this flight and then came to the ground. It was in order to comply with the conditions imposed by the Sarthe Aero club for trials for the club's prize of $500 for a flight for height that Wright abandoned the derrick. When Wright descended the commissioners appointed to witness the trial announced that the prize would be awarded him.

THANKSGIVING DINNER CHEAPER

Commission Men Say Cost of Table Goodies for Nov. 26 Will Be Lower

Unless the prices now ruling in South Water street make unexpected ascension the people of Chicago will have a chance to eat a better Thanksgiving dinner this year than last—except those without jobs. Not that the prices will be unusually low, for they will not, according to commission men, but they will be slightly lower on certain articles of food. That is, unless a big demand on the part of the market men just before Thanksgiving sends them scurrying upwards.

Outlook Is Optimistic

At the present time the commission dealers are fairly optimistic over the outlook. Apples and other fruits are much cheaper this year and will probably be Thanksgiving week. Last year at this time the apples sold at 44 a barrel, while this year they sell for 63 and are of much better quality.

THE HUSTLERS' COLUMN

HUSTLER "JOEY" AT WORK

Fourteen-month-old "Joey" Carney of Kewanee, Ill., has been saving his pennies ever since he was able to poke them through the slot in his little iron bank. As the bank grew heavier from day to day his heart beat faster. His parents were Socialists, and naturally they did not plan to have him save the money and become a capitalist!

His parents were delighted with the pleasure of the boy, and the pennies went into the bank more frequently every week until finally there were five dollars in it. Then the parents poured all of them out on the little boy's lap, just to see what he would do with them. Joseph looked at the money with a puzzled face.

LITTLE "JOEY" CARNEY

placed them back. That settled the question, for evidently he was an embryonic financier. By this time the Daily Socialist came out with an announcement that the safety of the paper depended upon enlarging it. The six pages came out about the time that the bank account of Joseph reached $9.50. Then came the call for support. The six pages had to be kept up in order to make the Daily Socialist the best paper of its kind published.

Then came the time when the bank was full. There was $10 in it, and once more the coins were spilled into the boy's lap. For a while he looked at them with a smile. Then he clapped his hands and reached out to his father, who was reading a Daily Socialist.

The significance of the action struck the parents with full force. They had been arguing every day as to the best way of helping the paper, and here was a 14-month-old baby donating his savings—$10 in it.

This is how the Hustler Editor found a package containing the bank with ten dollars in it on his desk.

And this is also how the youngest 'active Socialist' in the world has been discovered.

MINOR LEAGUES ARE STILL SPLIT

But Differences May Be Adjusted by January First; Magnates Go Home

No dove of peace or olive branch appeared during the meeting of the minor leagues yesterday at the Annex. Neither was grim war declared. Most of the minor league magnates left for their homes after the concluding session, which was void of strife. The American Association and Eastern League didn't participate in the meeting, to be sure, but it was intimated on both sides that the split in the ranks of the minors might be patched up by Jan. 1.

No Prodigals Returned

The convention of delegates got together in the morning to give the rebellious American Association and Eastern League men a chance to come back into the fold, but there was no sign of a return of the prodigals. Consequently instead of staying in the Annex, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues talked over a few unimportant matters and adjourned to meet in Memphis next year.

Separate Meeting Held

The Eastern Leaguers and American Association magnates held a meeting of their own at which they decided they would forego their Buffalo next Wednesday, as well as in New York. Decisions of each of the sessions, all the club owners of both leagues will be present. If they don't declare war next Wednesday they will have another crack at the peace dove when they get together in New York a couple of weeks later.

The rebels are convinced that they would be wasting their time to dicker with the National Association after being turned down once on their request for a higher classification. Their plan now is to let the matter of the major leagues, win their sympathy and ask the big fellows to intercede for them. Of course, the National and American leagues can do nothing in the matter if the minor league body stands pat. For the fundamental law of the minor league organization is that it shall manage its own affairs.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION BUSY

Secures Option of Ground in Good Locality at Pittsburg. The American Association means to carry the war into the enemy's camp was demonstrated yesterday when it became known that agents acting for that organization had signed an option on a valuable piece of ground near Craft avenue in the Oakland district, it being stipulated in this option that the ground, if so desired, could be used as a ball park for the American Association, one of the largest and richest real estate concerns in this end of the state, was the agent in the matter.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

HORRORS OF CHILD LABOR

Not less than eighty thousand children, out of whom are little girls, are absent employed in the textile mills in this country. In the south there are now six times as many children at work as there were twenty years ago. Child labor is increasing in that section of the country. Each year more little ones are brought in from the hills and live in the degrading and demoralizing atmosphere of the mill towns. Each year more great lads are being built to reap the profit which these little hands make possible. In one southern town there are five great mills and five settlements of workmen and their families. One of these settlements is the belief in Santa Claus—or St. Nicholas, as he was originally called. What child does not write him letters specifying his or her wants?

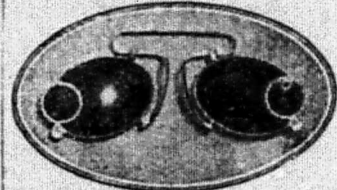

The story of how his eight reindeers scamper over the frosty roofs under the starry sky of Christmas Eve, dragging the sleigh which is running over with all the novelties ever made in Toyland, and how Santa Claus gets down the dirty chimneys without soiling his red robes trimmed with white fur, is told and retold among themselves. The grown-up who could ruthlessly destroy such a potent illusion is indeed a materialist.

The Mother at Home

BY MARY H. L. CAIRNS.
 Most children exist in a wonderland of their own making, much of what seems real and material to us is quite beyond their comprehension, and where we as only see the cold, hard facts, their vivid imaginations picture things fanciful and delightful.

Eyes in Back of Head

One of the latest inventions in Paris, the new reflecting spectacles, is creating a great deal of interest. The spectacles are used by the Paris police.

The small concave mirrors fixed on the glasses are movable and can be so adjusted that the wearer of the spectacles can see what is going on behind his back.

Utile Case of Accidents

 Sorrow, stay thy hand a while. See!—the sunlight streams Across the world whose gardens smile, Giving me my dreams!

For Home Dressmakers

But all of these contrivances for sleeping, however they may differ in form, have one thing in common—there is no way of getting under one sheet without ripping off the other. And, oh! the anguish of coming home tired out with a long day's work or with nerves on fire and a blinding headache—after deluding one's self with the idea that one has finally learned the difficult art of turning down a bed to have the whole fabric of bedclothes—counterpane, blanket and both sheets—come off in one's hands!

How to Make a Bed

BY C. M. LYTTON.
 I wonder if there be a wage earning woman who has not at some time or other rebelled against the discomforts of the average boarding and lodging house bed? Whether we have slept on divans or study couches, in fold beds that masquerade during the day as book cases, chiffoniers, wardrobes, or buffets; or in the barefaced abomination that opens and shuts like an extension table and never pretends to be anything better than it is, either by night or day, most of us have sounded the depths and heights of cheap springs, uneven mattresses, lumpy pillows, beds that are too narrow to turn over in without danger of falling out, and beds in which one can stretch out at full length without risk to head and toes, only by first carefully calculating dimensions and then as carefully lying down cat-a-corner.

THE PERFECT STATE

THE PERFECT STATE
 Where is the perfect state?
 'Tis where no palace stands
 Trembling on shifting sands.
 Morning and night,
 'Tis where the soil is free
 Where, far as eye may see,
 Scattered o'er hill and lea,
 Homesteads abound.
 Where clean and broad and sweet
 (Market, square, lane and street,
 Beited by league of wheat)
 Cities are found.

Where is the perfect state?
 'Tis where no lives are seen
 Huddled in lanes unclean,
 Crying for food.
 'Tis where the home is pure,
 'Tis where the bread is sure,
 'Tis where the yams are fewer,
 And each want fed;
 Where plenty and peace abide,
 Where health dwells heavenly eyed,
 Where, in nooks beautified,
 Slumber the dead.

Utilities of the Arctic

A question constantly asked is: "What practical good is all the Arctic and Antarctic exploration now proceeding?" Possibly its greatest utility is amongst the least known of all. Without the information which has been gained by such explorations the world's largest sea fisheries might not exist. Practically all these fisheries in the Atlantic, off Newfoundland, Iceland, and Greenland, are found where the cold currents from the Arctic impinge upon the warmer waters of more southern seas. The same rule appears to apply upon the Pacific side, with the qualification that the fisheries there, though equally rich, have not been developed to the extent of the others named.

REBUILDING THE CAMPANILE

That utilitarianism, per se, cannot create beauty, but cannot even revive a dead beauty, is shown in the monotony which has taken the place of the most beautiful tower in the world, the old bell tower of St. Mark's, the campanile of Venice.

A DAY ON THE PYRENEAN FRONTIER

BY H. MACKENZIE
 It was glorious weather; one of those days that come as a never blunted delight and surprise to a Northerner. In the mellow light all colors glowed with intensity; the blue overhead, the milky reflection in the river surging between steep, canon-like banks, the gold of spring-blooming gorse, on the hill sides, and the gleam of snow still lurking in rifts on the mountains. The sunshine, the air, seemed tangible things, quivering with life.

In the flickering shade of an avenue I spied the village cure.
 "So you are off on your tramp to the frontier?" he cried, with a fat man's comfortable chuckle. "Well, a pleasant journey, and mind you don't get arrested as a spy!"

Soon I had left the village behind. The roads dwindled to a track out to the side of a gorge; below raged a torrent. On the bare mountain side the heat struck upwards from scorched grass, and often a faint rustle made me turn just in time to see a snake, roused from basking and enjoyment, glide into its hole.

Snatches of a plaintive minor air, sung by an oily tenor, floated down from the spur above; and finally the singer came swinging towards me in his straw-soled Hasque sandals, his coat hanging jauntily from one shoulder. He showed his white teeth in the frankest of smiles, and washed me good-day with irresistible geniality.

"Monieur is far from any town," he accosted me; "possibly he has missed his way."
 "No," I replied; "I am going over the hills to the frontier."
 "The frontier?" Ah! The black eyes became steady and suspicious, though the mouth kept its set smile. "That is some miles distant. Doubtless you have just passed some douanier who has directed you?"

 "I have not seen one since I started," I replied.

For some reason this answer disconcerted him; he made me a polite farewell and passed on; but he did not return his song, and soon I saw him turn aside and run swiftly toward a pile of loose rocks, behind which he vanished just as the heads of two douaniers appeared, glancing wearily upwards.

Ten minutes later they caught me up. They were Normans, and only too pleased to vary the monotony of their duties by chatting to a foreigner who could not be in league with the contrabandists and to whom they could safely express their disquiet of "these cursed Southerners." "We ain't a go about in couples," they explained, "otherwise it would be unsafe to venture for afield. Last month one of our comrades was found about through the heart on this same mountain. The murderer? He was never discovered; these people do not betray each other."

"Ithurbid," he continued to me, "was one of the most respected inn-keepers in the village. To be sure, his wife did most of the work because he was constantly falling asleep in the daytime; still, he was so peaceable and straightforward that no one could help liking him."

 "Well, we were driven distracted at that time by a gang of clever emigrants. Ah! the tricks they played on us!" He sighed retrospectively. "Many were the night surprises we arranged. Once a douanier was asked outright, and others of our force were wounded time and again. We knew it was the same gang of contrabandists, because their leader was often seen during the scrimmage—a tall, scowling man wearing a mask, nicely fitted to his face, and carrying a ferret. At last one night my comrades surprised a string of forty mules—there was a stampede—a hand-to-hand fight—and the leader was left dead on the ground. Our fellows pulled off his mask, and behold—it was the worthy, peaceable Ithurbid! He laughed sarcastically. "These Southerners are all alike," he concluded. "Take my advice—trust them no further than you can see."

The next day was Sunday. Country-folk in holiday dress, cheery, and loquacious, poured into the town, and my little inn was hard put to it to find room in the courtyard for all their strange conveyances. Most of the bright-eyed, crackle-looking women made their way to the church, and as I passed its open door the deep notes of the organ rolled out and blended with the gabble of knots of men speculating in the church square. I took one last, regretful look at the town gate's fanciful, spire-shaped turret, and turned my face homewards.

The sun had just dipped when I reached my starting point. My friend the cure had come into the avenue to meet me and hear my praise of his country's scenery.
 "We walked along chatting gayly. 'No matches!' he queried, suddenly, as I opened my box and to my chagrin found it empty. 'Pray allow me!'—and he drew forth a beautiful Spanish matchbox. 'Take a handful,' he urged, 'and my wife will spare them; for don't mention it, but—with a mischievous twinkle—they are contraband!'"

PROSPERITY

BY H. J. CALHOUN.

Since election day the capitalist dailies have been teeming with statements of returning prosperity until one would think there could not be an idle man left in the country.

of life are coming from them who had the wealth they produced and were able to keep fat and happy.

with those who do the work and produce the wealth. They are so used to results that they don't expect anything else.

The "Failure" of Municipal Lighting

The statement that the municipal lighting plant operated by the city of Chicago is a financial failure has been heralded from one end of this country to the other.

The Socialist attaches little importance to the "success" or "failure" of enterprises undertaken by a municipality such as that now in power in Chicago.

Private lighting companies already come much closer to owning the city of Chicago than the city does to owning any electric light plant.

At the present time the municipality is seeking to place the Commonwealth-Edison Electric company in complete control of the electric business in Chicago.

The municipal plant, which is forbidden to sell current, and can be used only for street lighting, constitutes something of an obstacle to this monopoly.

Into this situation there enters the sanitary district offering electricity drawn from the water power on the great drainage canal.

NO ONE DENIES THAT THIS PUBLICLY OWNED PLANT CAN FURNISH ELECTRICITY CHEAPER THAN THE PRIVATE PLANTS.

These are the plain, simple facts in the case. There is a war between one private corporation and two public ones.

THIS IS WHAT HAS BEEN HAILED WITH SUCH RIOTOUS JOY AS A "FAILURE" OF A MUNICIPAL ENTERPRISE.

Never Again

Individual letters, reports from organizers, personal statements, all bring the same story these days of men who "saved their vote" by giving it to Bryan, and who are now repenting in sackcloth and ashes and are registering solemn vows never to do it again.

It seems as if the election has torn away a great veil that had hung before the eyes of hundreds of thousands of sincere persons.

Many of these will be true to their present vow never again to be deceived by this political harlot.

If the Socialist party rises to the occasion, if each separate local and branch takes up the work of canvassing every voter within its scope and seizing this opportunity for education and organization,

The Prosperity Fraud

Once more the daily papers are handing out one story for the multitude and the financial journals are telling a different one to the elect few.

Keeping Them Off - The bell rang three times. And the man at the desk reached for a flannel bandage.

Words may be false and figures may be juggled until they give an entirely wrong idea, but one of the great Chicago dailies undertook to emphasize their class view of the situation by some clever cartoons, and the result was more truth than generally appears in either words or figures of the capitalist class when intended for the masses.

The first showed the generous face of Taft as the rising sun, and in the stream of light emanating from it was seen the light fed figure of Prosperity coming down the way to greet us.

They don't look cold or hungry or worried, over where the bare necessities he will keep on voting for the party in power, regardless as to what the promises may be that are made by the well meaning radicals, who talk so much, criticize much, and offer nothing definite.

As to the Hearst Independence League. Well, it raised plenty of dust in the desert, but the clouds burst, and the rain came down in torrents from all sides until nothing has been left but the memory.

The Constitutional Democrats of Russia are fast going over to the Russian wing of the Socialist movement, and right here in this country the Populist party saw its shadow in 1896 and is now dead and buried.

The radicalism in the Democratic party has now given that party its death, from which it will not recover. Why? The answer is evident: to put it bluntly, it is lack of principle.

It is human nature for a man, satisfied with conditions in vogue, to "stand pat."

CAUSES OF BRYAN'S DEFEAT

BY MORRIS KAFAN

Mr. Bryan, for the third time, has been defeated. Why? That is the question. Mr. Gompers knows, but he won't tell.

They cause men to think, yes, make even the complacent take heed that something is doing. Progress is ever slow, it is always retarded by a lot of noise, murmur, ruminations, discontent. That things are not as they ought to be is evident and made manifest by all of these signs.

Work and die, all in a hurry. We don't take time to consider, just a glimpse, just a thought, and then, yes, then, all is forgotten. We work for bread and not for love. We eat for necessity, and not for appreciation.

Yet, man regards himself to be more than mere animal. Where is the difference, brother? And then when we Socialists try to tell you that man is more than animal, that he is intended for something higher than the mere carnal plane of existence, you call us a "bunch of anarchists," and then you applaud yourselves upon your wisdom in ferreting us "bad eggs" out. Should we point out to you that not we, but you, fill up the jails and insane asylums, the saloons and the brothels, you then turn round and tell us we are too angelic for this world because human nature is not perfect, and again you applaud your own ignorance.

Brothers, when will you wake up out of the nightmare that keeps us all in hell, when we need only understand one another and work with each other to get heaven down here in this material world? Does it betoken a healthy condition of mind and body and social environment when we discover that 11,000 men and women suicided within the year? Does it imply progress for the human race when we find nearly 5,000 out of 15,000 children in the Chicago public schools suffer from malnutrition? Does it bespeak a high civilization when we discover our poor-houses are being rapidly filled up with the "fluores," who are our own flesh and blood?

Are we dangerous to humanity when we ask that these questions be argued out among ourselves—all of us—dispassionately? We are paying bitterly with our own blood the penalty. None of us is more to blame than he who would ignore the facts that are everywhere in evidence. The slave suffers but the master even pays the penalty ultimately. Am I my brother's keeper? Yes, the dreamer may dream the dreams of a better here in this little world of ours and be crucified for their fool ideas, but "the world do move."

Will the Democrats ever win? Hardly, I think. If a Republican panic cannot beat them, what can? If his leadership of a peerless and matchless gentleman, statesman and scholar is repudiated, what Moses can we find to lead "the children" into a promised land?

AS SEEN BY A SOUTHERN DEMOCRAT

Well, it's gall and wormwood for us Democrats today. While the exuberance of our hope has collapsed like a punctured balloon, if we had been more cautious in our statements before the election, there would have been few predictions of Bryan's election.

What must surprise the observant people of the nation is the growth of the Socialist party as was evidenced in yesterday's results. They polled practically all of the western miner vote and the independent labor vote of the east.

It is easy to figure out why this state of affairs exists. The special privilege of the franchise is granted by the Republican party furnishes them an opportunity to make millions of dol-lars, cannot succeed. Nevertheless in their earnestness to see a change in the status of the consumer, the common people.

What makes some think that Socialism will be on the increase is the Democratic failure of yesterday. The Socialists mean well, and are enthusiastic and persevering, but a theoretic Polite, Yet Detestful - He was a collector for an installment system establishment, new at the business, and very sensitive about performing his unpleasant task.

Testing It - "Porter!" Thus the passenger for London hailed a railway servant at a small Scottish station.

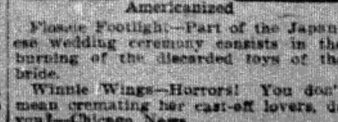

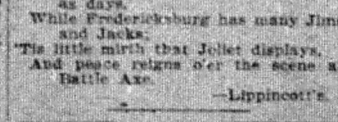

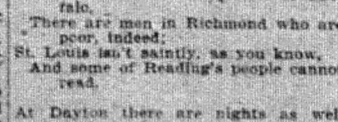

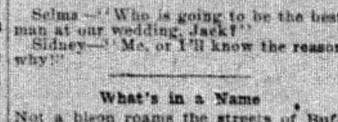

The Mourner - The minister had just been giving the class a lesson on the Prodigal Son. At last, to test what attention had been paid to his teaching, he asked: "Who was sorry that the Prodigal had returned?"

Not So Wonderful - "My grandfather, said the new neighbor, who was making a duty call, 'was a great portrait painter. With one stroke he could change a smiling face into a sad one.'

A Present-Day Necessity - Stationer-Typewriter ribbons! Yes, sir, we have all kinds. What particular brand do you wish?

A Tender Reminder - Woman (to her neighbor)-What makes you cry so bitterly, my dear friend?

May - "Seems to me that one of those football players is intoxicated." Jack - "Well, you see, he's our 'full-back'."

It Is Needed Now

The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized that the money for the Daily Socialist bonds and the new subscriptions must be reived quickly to insure a profitable six-page paper.

IF ENOUGH MONEY IS SUBSCRIBED QUICKLY TO CARRY THE MATTER THROUGH THEN THE PLAN CAN BE MADE A SUCCESS.

If the bond sales do not increase rapidly, and the subscriptions come in at a rate that insures success, then the six-page paper will be abandoned.

Unless there is an immediate prospect of one or both of these we will be forced to go back to the smaller paper and the old struggle.

We are waiting to hear from you.

DYING IN HARNESS

BY JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY

Only a fallen horse, stretched out there on the road, Stretched in the broken shafts, and crushed by the heavy load; Only a frozen horse, and a circle of wondering eyes

Watchers, he died in harness—died in the shafts and straps— Fell, and the burden killed him: One of the day's mishaps— One of the passing wonders marking the city road—

Passers, crowding the pathway, staying your steps awhile, What is the symbol? Only death—why should we cease to smile At death for a beast of burden? On, through the busy street That is ever and ever echoing the tread of the hurrying feet.

What was the sign? A symbol to touch the tireless will? Does He who taught in parables speak in parables still? The seed on the rock is wasted—on heedless hearts of men, That gather and sow all grasp and lose—labor and sleep—and then— Then for the prize—a crowd in the street of ever-echoing tread— The toiler, crushed by the heavy load, is there in his harness—dead.

Seventeen angry men were fined the other day in New York $1 apiece for eating food given them by Sisters of the Poor. Their offense consisted in eating their crumbs on the steps or in the shadows of an apartment house, and the wealthy occupants complained.

These things happen in our advanced stages of civilization, and they are not unusual or unique. But, for a man out of work to accept bread of charity and swallow it is vicious and criminal.

A DREAM OF SHYLOCK

BY S. A. VAN BUSKIRK

I pondered long, endeavoring to settle in my mind The demon that should wear the crown among the human kind;

And in my troubled sleep I dreamed that I had gone to hell, And in that city of the damned I knew no demon well.

I saw him crouching on his throne, surrounded by his elf, And human souls and bleeding hearts were gathered to himself.

To paint a form so hideous I'd take the fends of earth, When in their cruellest passions, to give my picture birth;

For all the ghouls that ever lived, or monsters of the deep, 'Twould take them all to form the imp that stared me in my sleep.

I saw his victims' tear stained cheeks, I heard their wail of woe, I saw the bread of starving babes into his larder go;

And as I gazed all horrified upon that cursed and ghastly crew, I saw the name-plate on the door—"Shylock, the Monster Greed"

And cast their trophies at his feet and crowned him king of hell.

Socialism Growing in Georgia - The number of votes cast in this city for Debs has caused not only our local capitalist press to take notice, but, as I see, our good friends, the Chicago Daily Socialist, as well.

An Appreciation of William Gath - At the regular meeting of Local Newport News, Va., November 1, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That in view of the long years of earnest and faithful, brave, revolutionary labor of William Gath for class-consciousness in Newport News for the past nine years, and as he is about leaving permanently for the State of Georgia, we hereby commend William Gath to any local S. P. A. he may represent himself, testifying that he is a clear-cut, unswerving Socialist, and old comrades, and that we will always hold him in loving remembrance, and that with him goes our best wishes and warm regards.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be entered upon the minutes of this local as a memento of our loving regard and respect for him. J. E. COOPER, Chairman.

TO THE EDITOR - The number of votes cast in this city for Debs has caused not only our local capitalist press to take notice, but, as I see, our good friends, the Chicago Daily Socialist, as well.

This city, in traveling from 9 votes to 18, has not always been free from obstacles, and our local has seen times when prospects for growth seemed dark.

The Daily Socialist has been of great help. We have a band of revolutionists down here that is second to none.

Our local has instituted a series of lectures to be given by Socialists here, taken. We have issued a folder of six pages, with pictures, giving date, subject and the names of the speakers.

May - "Seems to me that one of those football players is intoxicated." Jack - "Well, you see, he's our 'full-back'."
