Chief Clerk Kingsley of the Board of Assessors Gets Ultimatum From the Board of Review

HAD GIVEN FIGURES TO DAILY SOCIALIST

Roy O. West Flies Into Rage and Storms at Him and Now He Will Give Out No More Data

gang that are running things can't get you, can they? "No, I am applotive," said Kingsley. "They could get me in a minute. "You know that this little paper is not the only one that is going after this crew don't you?" the chief clerk was asked. "Yes, I have heard things to that effect, but I have to guard myself."

West Couldn't Be Seen Roy O. West did not like Socialist reporters as well this morning as he liked them yesterday. He was unreluctant to give any of his associates a word to deny the statements made by the chief clerk for the board of assessors. The only thing about the whole affair was its air of secrecy. Figures were unobtainable. The same reference to the "clerk" was made as that made by the man who had been under fire from the board of review crew. All of which tends to show how difficult it is to get at the graft which it is alleged they have been covering up in several official circles.

Will Print Figures Anyway The figures which were refused by the chief clerk and which cannot be obtained at the board of review will be printed in the Daily Socialist very shortly, in fact within the next two days. These figures will show how the small man is skinned by the board of review in order to make a holiday for the big merchant who patronizes the City Fuel company. The fact that advertisers in the Chicago Daily Socialist have been among the victims does not count with this paper. It is merely one of the little side issues of the big graft campaign.

Police Arrest Watchman AS LOMBARD (ILL.) BUGLAR Joseph Handler, 301 Winchester avenue, who is charged with committing several burglaries in Lombard, Ill., is locked up at the central station. He was arrested yesterday afternoon in the store of his brother, Samuel Handler, West Taylor street and Ogden avenue. Complaints were made at detective headquarters that Handler had been employed to watch several homes in Lombard and that he had himself broken into them.

Chief Clerk Is Scared Chief Clerk Kingsley showed that he was really scared by the threats this morning. He declined to give another list of figures from the board of assessors roll to the same reporter to whom he talked yesterday. He referred that reporter to the county clerk's office, where Chief Clerk Kingsley knew as well as the reporter knew that in the present troubled condition of the waters it would be impossible to get a figure which could be verified. "Have you those figures ready?" asked the reporter approaching Chief Clerk Kingsley in the board of assessors' office this morning. "Who told Mr. West and the rest of them that I gave up those figures which were printed in the Daily Socialist yesterday?" said the chief clerk. "I suppose I did," said the reporter. "I told West that I came from the Daily Socialist, that I was the bad boy of the village."

WHY NOT GIVE THE POOR PUP A CHANCE, ANYWAY?

SOCIALISTS LEAD STRIKE

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) Kenosha, July 24.—Blood being shed and waded through in order that the big industrial monopolies of the country may continue in their oppression of the ignorant, unorganized, helpless foreign laborer! This is the story of the strike and massacre at the tanneries of the N. R. Allen's Sons company. The Allen company is but one of the score or more plants of the leather trust scattered throughout the country. Like the Pressed Steel Car company of McKees Rocks, Pa., it is merely grinding out the labor of its employees at the least possible cost to itself.

Foreman a Slave Driver Schneider started out to make a record for himself in that department by discharging ten men and compelling the remainder to do as much work as had been done before. He introduced the pace-making methods familiar to the stock yards. It was against these methods that the men professed and on account of which they walked out. John H. Wells, a prominent Socialist, who is manager of the largest department store of Kenosha, went to Max Werve, head superintendent of the company, in an effort to have the trouble adjusted Wednesday morning. "I can't do anything about it," said Werve, who has been in the leather business for the last fifty-two years and is well acquainted with the trust methods.

Thinkers Strike a Circus Mr. Wells then went to "Charley" Allen, one of the proprietors, and told him of the grievances of the workmen. "I can do nothing for them," said Allen, and he refused to transfer Schneider back to his old department. "If the men want to have a strike why I'm not going to prevent them. It's up to them if they want to have a little circus."

URION IN AN ILLEGAL ACT?

has so far been taken by the big business school board. President Urion said this morning: "I have issued the call for the meeting and I want to have the meeting secret because I don't want the discussion over the candidates for superintendent to be flaunted in the papers. I don't think that there will be any minutes of the meeting kept, for I don't think that any action will be taken."

Socialist Body IS IN SESSION The national executive committee of the Socialist party began a two-day meeting this afternoon in the office of the national secretary, J. Mahlon Barnes, at the national headquarters, 180 Washington street. Besides the routine business that will come before the committee an attempt will be made to adjust several controversies that have arisen in various states, notably that in the state of Washington.

Order Socialist Thrown Out While leaving the works with some of the strikers Mr. Wells was reproached by some of the officials of the plant and the police were ordered to throw him out. The police, however, refused to do this saying they knew Mr. Wells personally and that there would be no cause for such action. The first day of the strike came to an end with a monster mass meeting last night at which a committee was chosen to confer with the company officials. Nathan Allen, president of the leather trust, who had come here from the east, personally assured Mayor Scholey that he had no objections to the demands of the men being granted. This was the state of affairs when the representatives of the strikers and the officials met at the tannery yesterday morning to settle the difficulties. The men decided to demand an increase in wages of from 50 cents to $1 a week, in addition to having Schneider returned to his original department.

Will Wayman Whitewash Those Who Are Higher Up by Punishing Merely the Insignificant Graft "Agents?"

"Mike the Pike" Accused Merely of Running a "Confidence Game" in Collecting Cash and Promising Police Protection

Will State's Attorney Wayman dare so the limit? Will he follow the indictments of "Mike, the Pike," and Louis Frank with the indictment of responsible police officials? Will he investigate the relations between dive keepers and Charles Todd, agent of the Pubest Brewing company and close personal friend of Inspector Nicholas Hunt? Mrs. Anna Kummanski, before the grand jury yesterday, said that Todd had solicited money from her on these "offenses" are meant as the conduct of a disorderly resort.

What a Preacher Says

THE WEAVER MEMORIAL CHURCH United Brethren in Christ Corner North Kedzie and Dickens Avenues REV. J. HARMON DUTTON, PASTOR Chicago, Ill., July 22, '09. Editors Daily Socialist, City. Most Worthy and Esteemed Gentlemen: Accept my congratulations on your success in moving Wayman to action. But I prophesy that it will take more to keep him going even than it did to start him.

In my humble judgment the Daily Socialist has done a greater service to the people of Chicago than either the police or fire departments (possibly the former does not deserve comparison). Our city will never be able to repay you for your searching exposure during the past weeks. Such a valuable instrument as the Daily Socialist should be supported from the public treasury. I am not a Socialist, but I will venture the statement that this exposure of city officials joining hands with the criminal classes in the traffic of human lives and souls has made thousands of Socialists. For nothing is so criminal as the senseless betrayal of public trust such as our city has experienced by those whom we expected to be its friends and protectors. Most gratefully, REV. J. HARMON DUTTON.

Two Graft Indictments The grand jury this morning returned the first graft true bills which have been voted since the sensational investigation was begun. Mike Hettler, alias "Mike, the Pike," "king of the Jewish pimps," was indicted on the charge of having extorted $40 from Morris Schatz, and Louis Frank, a familiar of "Mike the Pike," was indicted for extorting $100 in protection money from Schatz. Schatz is the first of the dive keepers to turn state's evidence and lay bare the graft system in the west side levee. Other dive keepers whose names he has mentioned will be called before the grand jury and are expected to give further information as to the extortion levied on resort keepers who run the most sordid dens of vice in Chicago. The indictments returned against the two men charge them with securing money by means of a confidence game. This is made as a purely technical way of bringing the matter into court. Some lawyers say that the method is faulty and that the indictments should charge "extortion under threats."

Another View of the Women's International Suffrage Conference

(The Daily Socialist recently printed a communication from the veteran German Socialist, Clara Zetkin, giving her view of the International Suffrage Conference held in London. Today is published another view of that conference by Isabella O. Ford, taken from "The Labor Leader.")

The chief thing which struck me during the Women's International Suffrage Congress in London, and which was remarkable also in the congress last year in Amsterdam, was this, that the general drift of our movement is towards Socialism. Not always avowedly and consciously so by any means, and, of course, as we all know, some of the more prominent women in the English Women's Suffrage movement are opposed to it.

I am convinced that this is the reason why the richer classes and employing classes dislike and dread our movement. They have an uncomfortable feeling that we intend, as soon as we have votes, to turn everything upside down, though at the same time they are fond of calling us fussy, hysterical creatures, and therefore somewhat contemptible.

At the conference this same democratic spirit and this putting forward of the woman worker's claims was very noticeable, especially in Hungary and Germany, and, of course, in Russia and Finland. I shall not soon forget the deep impression the pageant and procession of women engaged in trades made upon the delegates.

For educational purposes it was agreed that each country should carefully study the disabilities of its women, and the state of the law affecting women's and children's lives, so that they may each have an exact knowledge what reforms they are working for when they lay claim to the franchise.

Miss Schwimmer, from Hungary, referred to an old custom of giving a man two votes if he had three sons, and aroused strong protests from some Dutch ladies near me. "But we three have twenty children amongst us, and we have no votes," they said.

For Both Sexes As I listened to the various speeches made by the delegates, and to Mrs. Catt's wonderful chairmanship—a chairmanship I have never seen equaled, and I have sat under many distinguished "chairs," both English and foreign—my mind wandered back to all the trade union and Socialist congresses I had attended in various countries.

When the women of Turkey were referred to we were depressed by the statement made by one speaker, and which I had heard before from the best authority, that Young Turkey is not yet much more than a love with female freedom than was Old Turkey.

LABOR SAVING DEVICES

Those individuals who are so blind to the trend of events that they cannot see the onward rush of capitalism to its final down fall may not be interested in the following matter, but to those of us who try to keep abreast of the times it is doubly interesting and instructive.

We are all more or less acquainted with the many labor saving devices that have been invented and placed in operation in the last half decade as well as with the accompanying wholesale discharging and displacing of former skilled workmen by these machines.

A comparatively new invention, that is as yet but little known to the general public, is the Owens Glass Bottle Machine. This machine is rapidly revolutionizing the glass blowing industry and incidentally slowly but surely undermining one of the most powerful trades unions in the country.

Under the hand process it required six men and six boys to produce an average of 30 gross bottles in 17 hours. Wages for the six men was approximately forty-five dollars and for the six boys about eight dollars, making a total cost in the labor of blowing 30 gross bottles about fifty-three dollars.

OUR REBECCA

In the story of Rebecca's trial as a witch, in "Ivanhoe," part of the evidence against her was an apartment hung with rich tapestry, while the floor was covered with mats and cushions upon which she reposed as in her former oriental home.

Can we look back with contempt at the dense ignorance of the middle ages? Not to any great extent, when we consider how the case against the young woman recently on trial, accused of a cunning as subtle as witchcraft, was conducted.

Then later she is accused of stabbing herself again and then comes the astounding statement that she reopened the old wounds. How much more enlightened are such court proceedings than those of the twelfth century?

Now the salient point, namely the exact manner in which the victim's wrists were tied, is lost, because the witnesses contradicted one another.
