Striking electrical workers refused today to accept the same proposition which General Manager A. S. Hibbard of the telephone company had made just prior to the calling of the strike. The strikers felt that the making of this offer was not made in good faith, because it was in no wise different from the former proposition.

COX LOSES IN COURT BATTLE

Judge Refuses to Grant Plea of G. O. P. Boss.

By United Press.
Cincinnati, O., March 21.—Attorneys for George B. Cox, bank president and republican boss, under indictment for perjury, were seeking to invoke every technical aid of the Circuit court this morning to prevent Judge Frank M. Gorman and Prosecutor Hunt from proceeding with the case.

Having failed to get a temporary restraining order last night, Cox's attorneys announce their intention of applying for a mandatory injunction today. The presiding judge of the Common Pleas court having refused to act on Cox's affidavit of prejudice, seeking to swear Judge Gorman off the bench, counsel for Cox has brought mandamus proceedings in the Circuit court against the presiding judge, and an alternative writ returnable Saturday has been issued against him.

This writ will be attacked by Prosecutor Hunt on the ground that it was issued by but one Circuit judge, when the law requires a majority of the three Circuit judges to pass on the matter. Cox, it is declared, will make the fight of his life to keep the case from actual trial.

Fire which attacked the cigar and tobacco shop of J. Kraus & Co. on the fourth floor of 124 and 126 Fifth avenue, shortly before noon today, gave workers in the loop district the idea of riding in a "smoker on the elevated railroads, only on an enlarged scale.

The fire started, it is thought, among some old tobacco stock, probably from spontaneous combustion. Several sign companies in the same building suffered damages to stocks of muslin and paints.

Chemical engines were called into play. The damage amounted to about $2,000.

Special Correspondence.
Muscatine, Ia., March 21.—More and more it is becoming evident that the great victory of the Socialist party in Monday's municipal election, when they elected two aldermen and crowded the old parties extremely close for place on the entire city ticket, was the direct result of the lockout of the button workers of Muscatine.

Need Help.
O. C. Wilson, Socialist alderman-elect from the Third ward and organizer of Button Workers' Protective Union No. 12845, gives the following account of the lockout and appeal for aid in their behalf:

The city of Muscatine depends almost wholly on the pearl button industry which centers here.

Last fall the workers in this industry, who number more than twenty-five hundred, began the organization of a trade union.

Expected to Hide Time.
The idea of the union was to make no demands until the whole industry was well on the way to being organized outside as well as within Muscatine.

Women in Fight to Improve Conditions of Child Slaves.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—That there are children under 14 years old employed in the factories of Indiana in direct violation of the child labor law was the assertion made by Mrs. Virgil H. Lockwood in an address before members of the Women's School League.

Mrs. Lockwood referred to a statement by an Indianapolis woman that there were 2,000,000 children employed in the country, the statement later being denied by several persons who said they had investigated conditions and found but 700,000 children employed.

Quotes U. S. Report This year's report of the National Child Labor Committee will confirm the statement that the number is about 2,000,000 children, she said.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—The Indiana Manufacturers' bureau is planning to fight the child labor law, the weekly wage law, the dangerous occupation act and the employers' liability law passed by the recent legislature.

HUSTLERS COLUMN

Are You On the Job?

Are you still PLUGGING AWAY? Are YOU still plugging away? The Hustler who has not helped make the gain this week, nor last week, nor even the week before that, is the one to whom this is addressed.

The reason why I ask this question is this: In February we were galloping along at an eight-hundred-a-week gainpace, and now we have slowed up as though someone had tightened up the reins.

Whenever big gains are made—whenever a large number of subscriptions are received—we find that the Hustler Army is in good fighting shape; but, even at its best, there are some parts of it, some of its individual members who are not in the thickest of the fight.

This is the way to test it. We receive a number of new subscriptions. Did you send in some new subscriptions from your locality? Are you adding new subscriptions continually?

Ask yourself these questions and if you come up to the mark, all right. If you don't, take a good tonic of a little enthusiasm and ginger and get busy.

SOX REGULARS IN FUNNY GAME

Score 23 to 5 Over Bowie, Texas, Team; Given Banquet.

Bowie, Tex., March 21.—This little burg certainly went in for it when the Sox team "arrived" in its midst. So elated was the population of the kindly little town over the fact that a major team hit it with all of its grandeur that they chalked up the walls and the fences with the glad tidings.

Today the team will probably make a bee-line for Oklahoma City Friday. They ask for more excitement. The rural limitations about the field where the game was played was enough to set a fan wild. Peach orchards, fences and other impediments were there galore.

Home runs were the ruling fashion. Jess Baker struck out eleven men, pitching five innings. A real banquet, set down it, was tendered the Sox last night. Maybe it made up for the day's disappointments.

The dividend is made payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 15. Following the meeting President Samuel Insull made the following official statement, which seems to explain the recent movement in the company's shares:

"The earnings of the company fully justify the increase, which was felt desirable in view of the fact that stock issues must provide for so large a proportion (approximately 50 per cent) of the necessary money for the increase of the company's permanent plant to meet the growth and development of its business.

Here is the Platform On Which the Socialist Party of Chicago Stands In This Campaign

SOCIALIST PARTY PLATFORM. MUNICIPAL ELECTION, CHICAGO, 1911. The present city administration has well been called a BUSINESS administration. BUSINESS MEN and their agents have handled it from the beginning.

WORKERS DESPISED AND NEGLECTED. Busse's BUSINESS administration has shown its contempt for the working class of Chicago in all its activities. There has been plenty of money to distribute among capitalist politicians, contractors and BUSINESS MEN.

DIFFERENT IN MILWAUKEE. Contrast this Republican and Democratic BUSINESS administration in Chicago with the Socialist workmen's administration in Milwaukee.

THE "GOOD" MAN DELUSION. Sometimes the capitalist politicians decide that they can fool the voters most easily by nominating a so-called "good" man for office.

WORKERS CAN DECIDE. The workers of Chicago now have the opportunity to decide whether they want another Republican and Democratic BUSINESS administration or a Socialist workmen's administration.

OUR PROGRAM. Among the measures favored by the Socialist party are the following: 1. We demand that a new charter be formulated and that the city be empowered to control its own affairs.

MUNICIPAL PROGRAM NOT ENOUGH. The enactment of this program will do much to improve the condition and increase the power of the working class.

IS TRUE TO VOW. Milton, N. H., March 21.—Because his father wouldn't let his sixteen-year-old son go to the army, the Socialist party of Chicago stands in this campaign.

Kosher Meat

FACTS EVERY GOOD HOUSEWIFE OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT THE OLD MOSAIC LAW AGAINST GERMS AND HOW IT IS EXECUTED THE MOSAIC LAW.

Extract from the Mosaic dietary laws in Deuteronomy:

"Only be sure that thou eat not the blood; for the blood is the life; and thou mayest not eat the life with the flesh."

"Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing."
"These are the beasts which ye shall eat: The ox, the sheep and the goat, the hart and the roebuck, and the fallow deer, and the wild goat and the pygarg and the wild ox, and the chamois."

"And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you; ye shall not eat of their flesh nor touch their dead carcases."

"Ye shall not eat of anything that dieth of itself."

Boston, March 22.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has introduced a measure now being considered by the department of health, providing that animals intended for food shall be thrown and stunned before being slaughtered, and no animal shall be suspended by its legs before it is deprived of sensation.

Rabbis and physicians have begun a campaign against the proposed law. For many centuries the Jewish method of slaughter has been to cut the animal's throat with a single stroke of the knife.

Jewish physicians declare that the animal suffers absolutely no pain when killed in this manner.

Orthodox rabbis say that if the law becomes effective, observing Jews will be compelled to have their meat from outside of the commonwealth.

The observing orthodox Jew never worries about cold storage meat and about government inspected product of the pig. He doesn't fear embalmed beef, canned beef, with which the refuse of slaughter houses is sometimes mixed, nor the tortures of trichinosis.

The Mosaic law will not permit him to eat the flesh of the swine, neither will the same law allow him to eat meat of any kind unless it is fresh and slaughtered in the accepted orthodox manner. For that reason an orthodox Jew will not eat game killed with a bullet.

The shoehet is the name of the professional slaughterer of cattle and fowl.

There are many hundreds of them in New York and in other cities in proportion.

The Mosaic law against trefah, or forbidden unclean food, and for kosher or clean food has been amplified in post-biblical times by the rabbis, who seem to have known the germ theory and rules of sanitation, some of which have only recently been discovered by scientists.

Because of these laws an observing Jew is secure against cattle and fowl that have died a natural death, and are therefore dangerous to health, and he is also secure against contagious and infectious diseases often taken into the human system by eating tainted food.

When meat is three days old it is no longer kosher.

Cattle or fowl must be killed instantly by the shoehet with a single stroke of the knife, cutting the jugular vein. If there are notches in the knife the meat is discarded as unfit. In that case the animal might have suffered pain and corruption set in, making the meat unwholesome.

That, however, is the least important of the precautions. The lungs are carefully examined for tuberculosis. If there is any doubt, the lungs are filled with hot water, and if the water trickles through the meat is trefah.

This careful examination is not confined to the lungs. All the intestines are as carefully examined, and if there is any doubt or any controversy between the owner and the shoehet the final verdict is left to a superior authority, in most cases an orthodox rabbi.

The kidneys are always thrown away, for these cannot be carefully examined for disease germs. All stagnant blood must be removed and large arteries must be cut out.

Porterhouse steak cannot be made kosher without that process; and to make assurance doubly sure that all the blood in which disease germs lurk has been removed the housewife soaks the meat in salt water, which removes whatever vestiges of blood remain.

This adds to the price of the kosher meat, and, scientists say, to the lives of the people who will eat no other.

The German government has recently adopted some of the features of the "shechita" or Jewish mode of slaughter.

Biernacki, the great chancellor of Germany, the so-called man of iron, was always unfriendly to the Jews. His physicians told him that to save his life he must stop eating meat.

"Never!" he replied.

"In that case," the physicians continued, "if you insist upon eating meat you must eat kosher meat. The other kind will kill you in a short time."

It was a bitter pill for the great statesman to follow, but he ate kosher prepared meat for the rest of his life.

PRESSURE APPLIED

"It is said that you gave money to the legislature."

"Another untruth!" replied the man who was being investigated. "The legislature took it away from me!"—Washington Star.

Lady Cook and Victoria Woodhull

REVILED AND MISTREATED, THESE SISTERS HAVE ACCOMPLISHED A GREAT WORK FOR WOMAN

BY BELLE SQUIRE.

Believing as I do in playing the game according to established rules, which require at least that the opponents be fairly matched, with like weapons and that no one be attacked unless he is ready to parry the first stroke or return the first shot, I ask your indulgence while I render first aid to the injured in an unequal fight.

I refer to the recent attack made upon a countrywoman of ours, visiting in her old home here after many years, Tennessee Clafin Cook, known now by her English title as Lady Cook.

Much publicity has been given to a statement credited to Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, to the effect that Lady Cook was neither invited nor welcome to go with the Springfield delegation, coupled with the request that Lady Cook's name be kept out of suffrage news. Knowing how frequently people are misquoted and how much damage such a statement might do to all concerned, I wish to refute it for the sake of the women involved.

Two absolutely wrong inferences will undoubtedly be drawn from the regrettable affair; first, that the suffrage movement is not big enough to take in every woman, from the lowest to the highest; and second, that Lady Cook is not a proper person to associate with. As a disinherited child of the people, a believer in democracy, I refute the first, and on my honor as a woman I deny the second.

In previous years, owing to an unusual combination of circumstances, into which it is impossible to go at this time, the names of Tennessee Clafin and Victoria Woodhull, her sister, were dragged through the mire of scandal and malice.

It was in 1870 that they came into public notice like meteors, and since that time they have been flattered, praised, slandered and vilified by the press, but the praise is forgotten and the slander lives.

They were identified with the suffrage movement for nearly two years; their career in it as brilliant as it was short, but after that their names are dropped. They disappear completely. It is hinted, however, that broad as the leaders were at that time, even then, in their catholic tolerance, had to draw the line somewhere.

It has been my privilege to examine the printed lectures of Victoria Woodhull, to gather from various sources her philosophy. Since I have read her words, and by their words surely we can safely judge people, I am convinced that Victoria Woodhull is one of the greatest women this country has ever produced.

She attacked the church, but not religion; she denounced politics, government, law and finance like a seasoned veteran statesman; she attacked the social question. In return the pulpit denounced her, the press reviled her, and the government persecuted her.

She dared the world to battle.

She was arrested time and again; her business was ruined; her life threatened.

Then she turned orator and taught the people by word of mouth the message she felt that she had been born to deliver—the absolute equality of woman with man.

It involved the suffrage, but was higher than the mere exercise of the franchise.

She taught that the human body is the Temple of God; that the procreative act should be the holiest act of life; she pleaded for purity and higher morality. She insisted that woman is the architect of humanity and for all this the Federal government arrested her for obscenity.

She was banker, broker, editor, publisher, lawyer, lecturer, and had she had the chance would have been a statesman of no mean power.

In 1875 Elizabeth Cady Stanton said of her: "Victoria Woodhull's acquaintance would be refining to any man. . . . She has done a work for women that none of us could have done. She has faced and dared men to call her the names that make women shudder. She has risked and realized the sort of ignominy that would have paralyzed any of us who have longer been called strong-minded. Leaping into the brambles that were too high for us to see over them, she broke a path into their close and thorny interstices, with a steadfast faith that glorious principle would triumph at last over conspicuous ignominy, although her life might be sacrificed; and when, with a meteor's flash, she sank into a dismal swamp, we could not lift her out of the mire nor buoy her through the deadly waters. She will be as famous as she has been infamous, made so by benighted or cowardly men and women. In the annals of emancipation the name of Victoria Woodhull will have its own high place as deliverer."—New York Times, July, 1875.

With a heroism unbelievable she attacked the most cherished opinions of the world. She was subjected to every indignity and injustice, was dragged through the mire of filth and of scandal, yet those who went to hear her in order to "scold remained to pray."

Eloquent, beautiful, earnest with a terrible earnestness, brilliant and scholarly, she is said to have held her audiences spellbound by her logic and matchless oratory.

While Victoria was mainly the mouthpiece, together the two sisters worked and planned and thought, and together they paid the penalty.

After ruining their business and reducing them almost to poverty, the government acquitted them, finding absolutely no evidence against them. The charge of obscenity could not be sustained. It is the echoes of that tumultuous time which have lingered to this day and which still damn the names that should have the highest honors.

In conclusion, let me say that after weighing well the evidence, after reading the philosophy of Victoria Woodhull and Tennessee Clafin, as shown by their printed documents, after examining dozens of press clippings, I am personally convinced that they are great and noble women, born no doubt ahead of their time.

I declare also that the woman movement, which includes the suffrage movement, is big enough to take in every woman, whether she be the lowest of the low, or among the elect, for among the latter Lady Cook and Victoria Woodhull undoubtedly belong, if we may judge them by their philosophy, and I know no better way which any human being may be justly judged than by the ideals that rule their lives.

FASHIONS

Many of the embroidered lingerie waists are touched with colored embroidery.

Pilet net waists in plain and printed patterns, cut with short sleeves and neck finished at the collar line are worn as jumpers.

Plain flesh-colored net chemisettes are just the thing for the woman who cannot wear the open low-cut bodice.

The chiffon blouse which matches the suit in color has become an almost indispensable item. The under waist may be of the same color as the suit in a lighter shade, or of some other harmonizing color.

The Mercury cap is in fashion again, and has no trimmung save the two Mercury wings placed at the sides, though they may be at the back or in the front, according to personal requirements. The cap is made of straw and sometimes of satin, for the latter fabric is entering into wide popularity again.

White gloves will be very fashionable this summer, even for street wear.

Blue serge is the favorite among spring materials for suits and long coats.

Cluny lace is the favorite for shirt-waist and lingerie gowns.

About Her Father's Business

The wife of a wealthy business man living on Marshfield avenue was the daughter of a policeman. As they grew rich both she and her husband concealed the fact as much as possible, for the sake of their social prestige.

At a luncheon several society women of high position had been talking about their families.

"What was your father's business, Mrs. D.?" was finally asked of the business man's wife. Mrs. D. was not disturbed.

"My father was in the copper business," she said with cool emphasis.

Say Goodbye to "Dutch" Collar and Try One of These

If we may judge by the advance styles seen in fashionable shops, all the prettiest designs in women's neckwear are for—not the modest little "Dutch" cut neck of last summer—but for the square or V-necked fashions of solid lang syle.

The attractiveness of these pretty neck fixings depends largely on the materials and trimmings employed, and there's a great opportunity for the clever girl to exercise her originality in designs and combinations.

THE CHICAGO DAILY SOCIALIST

Published by the Workers' Publishing Society, 120-122 Washington St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone Number (all departments) Franklin 1168.

Who Enlist in the Navy? The Mexican war situation has given rise to the question, who enlist in the navy?

The discovery that the average age of the 50,000 men who compose the United States navy is just one month less than 21 years is a startling fact.

Workers should not shoot workers for the protection of the masters, those who own great wealth.

Can you fathom the outrage? And that money comes from taxes paid into the coffers of the government by the people of the country, the vast majority of whom are workers.

The government is now covering the country with glittering lectures, stereopticon shows and illustrated talks on the brilliancy and immensity of the navy, advising the people to stand by the government in its huge appropriations and outrageous expenditure for its support.

Labor, however, is getting next. The salvation of the workers from the tyranny of this momentous game to fool the young men to enter such a torturous life work is in rebellion.

Talk against it. Agitate against it. Ridicule it. BUT, ABOVE ALL, VOTE AGAINST IT. YOUNG MEN SHOULD NOT ENLIST IN THE NAVY.

The Tax on Bachelors

Several state legislatures have bills pending that provide for a tax on men who do not marry.

It is the highest desire on the part of every normal man to be a father, and there is no greater instinct found in all nature than the mother instinct—the desire for motherhood.

Why? Our lawmakers have never attempted to answer that. Ask any old bachelor and he will tell you it is on account of his economic condition. Of course, there are exceptions, but they are few.

What working man with any good judgment and moral sense dares to get married since he knows that his job is always insecure and his ability to provide for his family never certain?

It is criminal to bring children into the world with nothing but uncertainty ahead.

It is criminal to fill the shops and factories with little innocent children who could not prevent coming into the world.

Can you conceive of anything more coarse and grotesque? Pay a woman to become a mother!

There will not be any home left to rescue or destroy if capitalism is allowed to continue a few years longer.

The homes are already destroyed. These very legislative measures admit it.

Socialism is coming to save the remnants of the home and to make it possible for every man to have his family, and for every woman to have her husband and her children.

Let mother love be the incentive and not the damnable $100. Don't stamp a child with the curse of $100 as it comes into the world. Let it come as a product of love and holy mother instinct.

Why Does La Follette Squeal?

Senator La Follette is making a brisk howl in his magazine this week.

He protests against the massing of the United States army on the border of Mexico and asks if the president is trying to assist Wall street.

That's the question La Follette wants to ask. Well, we can answer him here and now.

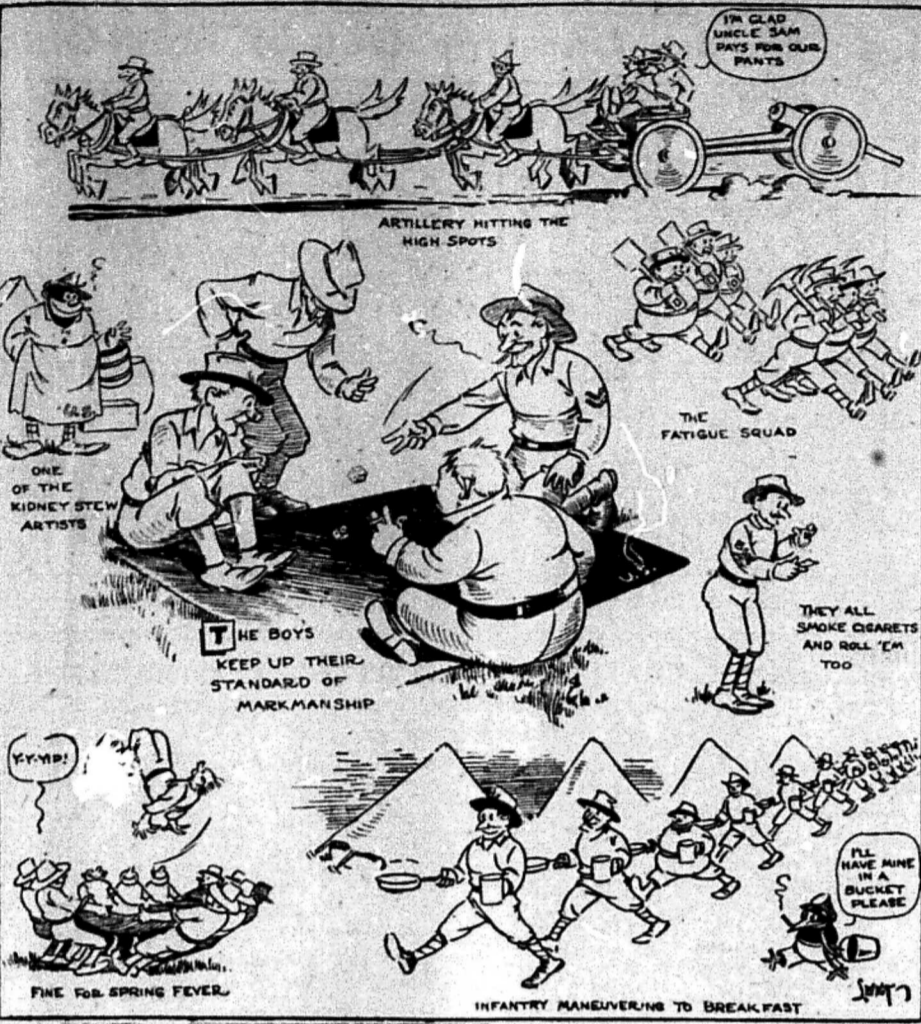

Wall street is the big gambling den of this country, and the president, congress, the army and navy, the whole judicial system and everything pertaining to the present government are only chips and cards and checkers that the gamblers use in their game.

Let us remind the thin-skinned La Follette that THE GAME IS WRONG.

As long as he stands for the game of capitalism his squealing will do little or no good.

Now who will say that Peter doesn't hold the key?

By Tom Quelch. Some considerable time ago the Kaiser had a bad dream. In this dream he pictured a wild, resistless horde of yellow men pouring into Europe from the east, just as the Goths and Vandals descended on old Rome from the north, destroying our works of art and culture, laying devastating hands upon all things we hold sacred, and leaving the scenes of western civilization a howling wilderness.

Rubbing It In

BY ROLLA MYER. It takes strong dope to cure a jackass, and lots of rubbing it in. And it is now time to apply a little more statistical liniment. In the first place, the integration of the OWNERSHIP of agricultural lands has proceeded even more rapidly than has the integration of the farms themselves into larger units.

The Decline of Sympathy

As a speaker was talking to a factory gate crowd last week, a cry went up from the edge of the crowd for 'Gangway.' A lane was formed while the speaker waited, and a pallid form was carried through on a shutter. One would imagine that the sight of a fellow workman in such a predicament would break up the meeting.

'The Survival of the Fittest'

By Douglas Pollock. Scientifically trained investigators have long since reached a basis of agreement that everything in nature is a development from the simple to the complex, and an interesting analogy between social progress and what some assert with considerable assurance is another invariable law of nature—the survival of the fittest.
