

A member of the Soviet militia responding to a call for assistance. Their duties correspond to those of policemen in America, except that they protect the workers, not the capitalists.