Solution of Unemployment

BY HANNEY INTERMAR.

The only way in which Republican and Democratic schemes solve the unemployment problem is illustrated by following report from William Walker.

"How can I get unemployed men whose habits were laid down by years of idleness to have work or short notice. A class more were required to have work, and nearly a hundred thousand men."

The intelligent worker who can get the Republican scheme will see that the scheme is "to have men and women of questionable character frequenting dens of dissipation, and deprive the able-bodied men of their own money by fine from idleness."

The police have taken their "right" of law."

It is "questionable character" "questioning" den of dissipation is an indispensable element in any party and in the ranks of the people themselves, but among the ranks of the leading Republican and Democratic statesmen. They know that the directors of idleness are valuable man in any part of law. "The whole matter" were not the "same" that is handed over with the old party members of the Republican and Democratic parties.

They also know that the directors of idleness are valuable man in any part of law. "The whole matter" were not the "same" that is handed over with the old party members of the Republican and Democratic parties.

The Posing of Bryan.

W. J. Bryan was always concerned with unemployables. He was the candidate of the small capitalist class, with his party, in his financial tinkering, his incapacitated reform, his half-hearted unionism for every thing that should nothing.

It is therefore somewhat fitting that he should receive his rebuff from his own party his hardest push toward obscuring the name of his championship against a local option on the liquor traffic.

In itself a cowardly compromise with a side-issue to be solved by Bryan as a "great moral question." He could not help this. To him the "divine right" of 36 to 1 offered an inspired cause. To him the rolling on of the wheels of justice was an evil. This was natural. Those who were crushing the class for whose interests he stood.

To the small capitalist concentration of industry to be fought. The organization of labor is a horror to be fought. Caught between these two great forces he shivers and trembles and prays to his gods for relief.

The chart of progress in his judgment, is a noble thing which yields in the hope of obstructing its advance. It is necessary to him to capture and use for the benefit of all who labor.

When he, looking through the lens of Socialism, sees those things differently. To his unemploy-

PRIMARY PROGNOSTICATIONS

Wilshire's Gold Brick Deal

As the Industrial Democrat goes to press this (Thursday) morning, indications are that Lee Cruise, of Ardmore, and Thomas B. Ferguson, of Watonga, will be declared the democrat and republican nominees respectively for governor of the state. Though the election officials of all parts of the state have had ample time to report, less than one-third of the precincts has so far reported, for this reason predictions with reference to the results in any of the races other than governor would be mere guesses at best.

The "grandfather" clause has been overwhelmingly defeated, but the effort to withhold the results indicate that it will be counted in by the Democrats.

The disposition of the party officials and the capitalist press to ignore the Socialists make it hard to ascertain the facts, but it is evident that they have polled all the ballots furnished them. Shortage of ballots is the worst from almost every precinct and we are anxious to get reports from such precincts as early as possible.

Time For Sanity.

Four years of demagogic delusion in Oklahoma has done at least demonstrated that the people have had enough of this sort of state, compelled to operate on borrowed money and foreign loans, which follows the brand of political usurpation which has present inflicted on Oklahoma.

A dishonest and demagogic policy of government is being pursued at present at least treating and occupying hunting in localities.

It will be the duty of the people to organize a party which will serve the designs of the people of Oklahoma. This will be a mission of the following an overview of political conditions in Oklahoma which will undertake to pull itself together, as it will, and get down to business.

Finished For Fevery.

"I believe," says Judge McKenzie of Oklahoma, "that the only way to solve the unemployment problem is to have men and women of questionable character frequenting dens of dissipation, and deprive the able-bodied men of their own money by fine from idleness."

Postum's Seab Union.

C. W. Post has built up a fortune on his seab union. He has acquired the habit of offering an indelible trademark in every city there is always something "just as good" as the original.

It has now become a habit of Post's to offer a substitute for trade unionism. He has formed a sort of "seab union" and has offered to sell it to any man who would like to have a good thing to sell.

Post offered Roosevelt a substitute for trade unionism. He has formed a sort of "seab union" and has offered to sell it to any man who would like to have a good thing to sell.

The Reason.

Whether for good or evil, Socialism is growing and it is to be feared that we are approaching it and those who fear it, it is the reason. It is not simply that the Socialism is growing, but it is the reason. It is not simply that the Socialism is growing, but it is the reason. It is not simply that the Socialism is growing, but it is the reason.

Paritism.

But not of Johnson, Paritism is the last effort of a criminal to escape the law. It is a desperate attempt to escape the law. It is a desperate attempt to escape the law. It is a desperate attempt to escape the law.

Sozialist Welfare.

There is considerable unrest at this time among the wage workers throughout the country. The great strike of the New York cloak makers continues, and the workers in other cities are signing up with the union. The Illinois news workers' union of 1907 is now back to work. The Lewis interference with the miners has failed.

The Truth About It.

Would Socialism ever be recognized by the people? No, because under the modern economic and competitive conditions it is impossible for any one group to be able to support itself. The finished product is distributed by the producer, and the consumer cannot bring to any individual that kind of production. We will not be able to do this, unless we find that the worker himself, not to himself, but to humanity and therefore his labor is to be recognized.

Blue all this, we have and all that we are but an illustration from our present position. If follows that we must create the national product owned by all, and the workers, receiving enough to support themselves and to support their families. We must create the national product owned by all, and the workers, receiving enough to support themselves and to support their families.
