

NEW SERIES. No. 76.

THE FIRST OF MAY, 1919.

WAGE SLAVES, DEMAND YOUR FREEDOM!

Break Down The Bastilles! A Call By Countess Markievicz, T.D.E.

There is one distinguished Prelate who does not mind what the Countess Marckievicz says,

Perhaps this article will remind him of One Who came to Nazareth, where He was brought up and entered the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and read from the Scriptures that He was sent to proclaim release to the captives and to set at liberty them that are bruised.

Would that all who have received mission from Him would fulfil it1-Editor.

BREAK DOWN THE BASTILLES.

"I'm a lidy, woman yourself."

Thus retorted a cross and overheated woman borne along in a queue towards the pit door of a London theatre. I was puzzled; I could not see where she found provocation. My companion had apolog sed for crushing me, and had said "I can't help pushing you; the woman behind is pushing me, and the woman be-hind her is pushing her, and so on; and we can't help ourselves."

I never forgot this incident, slight as it was, because it puzzled me, and year by year I wondered more where the sting had lain. When I got to jail I found out. "Woman" is the jail slang for prisoner or convict: the governess and wardress allude to you as "woman," and when a wardress escorts you from one part of the jail to another she leaves you in charge of another wardress with the formula: "One Woman, Miss." This phrase is repeated by her who takes over the responsibility of making your life a misery for the time being. To distinguish their high social position from that of the mere women, the wardresses are styled officers and young ladies; they call each other Miss, and actually expect you to do the same.

Another thing that used to puzzle me was, why so many girls hated wearing caps and aprons; for caps are pretty and becoming and aprons neat. The reason for this, too, lies in jail. The "women" in local and convict prisons all wear them. The Cruelty and the Stupidity not only of Ireland, but of the other the stripes, who, in their turn, consider countries, how long are we going to tole-themselves far above the old jail-birds. rate prisons? It is their business to Or course this classing is a farce. N break up the Bastilles of the world, for is it not the workers who suffer behind those twenty-foot walls?

It is a rare thing for a rich and edu-cated woman to get to jail. She must be very stupid if she does so. If she is trunk or drugged she has a luxurious home to stay in and a car to drive in. and need never be found out and caught y the police on the streets in that conlition.

A rich woman has no temptation to steal, shop-lift or pick pockets-it would oore her to have to do so. A butcher's hop disgusts her; she draws her skirt iside from a bag of coal; her dainty fingers shrink from an uncooked fish; she would consider it beneath her dignity to arry a parcelled dress through the streets.

Fire, food, drink, clothes are hers by right-I had almost said by night. The sight of the ordinary necessities of life are no temptation to her; her little children are not hungry and cold, so she is never driven to desperate acts; she never .isks jail, and she remains

An Honest Woman.

I worked with a gang of murderesses in Aylesbury. Some were bad, but the most were foolish, working girls who had got into trouble, and had killed their little babies because life with them was impossible; because they had no way of earning a living, nowhere to go, and nothing to eat.

The education and resources of a rich girl with an illegitimate child were not theirs; they could not pay someone to mind it: they could not hide their shame. Each moment life became harder, and the child a greater burden, till poverty --that great devil's accomplice-finished the work of dogradation, and they found themselves in the dock charged with child and ordinary offenders. First offenders of it; and I would like to ask the workers, are usually stars, and they look down on

Of course this classing is a farce. No matter how you class or label the pri-soners it must be so. In each class you find some of the degenerates who are like a plague spot spreading infecton. Under the foolish "Silence" rule, by which open conversation is not allowed, pri-soners grow very 'cute. The weary war dress never ceases to reiterate

"Stop that Talking."

It does not stop; it becomes secret and underhand, and then the 'cutest and worst take the lead. Loose jokes, filthy stories, and the eternal discussions o crimes is the rule. Each criminal learn from her companions. Thus, the thieve: learn how to kill a child without being caught, and how to procure abortion, while the others learn how to steal.

There is great physical cruelty, too, in jail. In Aylesbury the governor, a wo-man called Dr. Fox, started "speeding up" the women sewing mail bags. Speed-ing up is always cruel. It is inhuman under jail conditions. The prisoners' nerves were strained to breaking point trying to finish their daily task; if they did not do so their marks were stored did not do so, their marks were stopped and their remission curtailed. The women's eyes were injured trying to sew in a badly-lit cell.

A jail is a veritable sweater's den where the poor prisoners unwillingly help to keep down the rate of wages. They are packed together in unsanitary, ill-ventilated cells. The food is insufficient and of bad quality, and the limit to work is ten hours per day.

Day by day you get weaker and thinner till on the monthly weighing day you re-gister so light a weight that you alarm the doctor, who then sends you to hospital, and gives you a more nourishing diet till you have put on a few pounds. Then back you go to

Starvation and Overwork.

you die, there

THREE PENCE.

bealtaine. By MAUD CONNE MacBRIDE.

The storm and orgy of blood is past; blasted earth, mnumerable graves, little heaps of stone that once were villages, remain to mark mon's folly.

The peoples waking from the nightinare dream stand aghast, and ask chem-selves why they fought? And the rulers who ordered that dance of death say each of them: "It was not I who called the tune." Though their voices spoke the iatal words, and their hands signed the leath warrants of millions of men, not nuite five years ago, perhaps they are right in their denial, for it was a Greater Ine who loosed the whirlwind of destruction, that out of death life might be born. It needed that gigantic travail to bring to birth the New Order.

In the East, in Russia of the Czars, it was conceived in Holy Russia of the Soviets it was cradled, and the stirring of its giant baby limbs have shaken all the thrones and set crowns rolling. In the West, through Ireland of the hains, its quivering life is felt like fire, and Holy Ireland of the People holds out ner arms in welcome to the new hope.

It is the Easter resurrection of Christ's doctrine of love; the money-changers driven from the temple; the brotherhood of men a fact; the reign of the Holy Ghost, which adds understanding to the revelation of love.

It is fitting that the peoples of all countries have dedicated the first day of the month of Mary, who transcended sorrow, to the celebration of the new Hope, for Nature joins in the festival, and throws tarlands everywhere, and in our land of spring flowers raises the green, white and gold Republican colours in such profusion that no government could tear them down.

In the far past our Celtic ancestors, in whom prophetic vision often preceded revelation, made May Day the feast of Beltene, the greatest of their four yearly estivals. Its name was derived from Beltene, God of Death, who yet brought life from death, as the sun brings life rom the cold earth. On that doy, at Usnach, which was counted the centre of the five provinces of Ireland, the sacred fre was lighted from the sun with a brass burning-glass and from this sacred fire the fire on all the hearths of Ireland was kindled murder.

In Aylesbury Jail all the wardresses wear them, and some of those in local prisons do so too. All sorts and fashions of caps and aprons are to be found in jails; so I soon came to the conclusion that the dislike of being called a "woman" and the contempt for one wearing a cap were emotions that come straight from the sub-conscious soul of the workers in their rebellion against one of the worst tyrannies of feudalism and capitalism--jail.

I have been in three of England's prisons, and the more I understood the system the more I wondered at some to a varying term of years according to the temper of the judge, and to whether the culprit repels or attracts him.

Some are Sentenced to Death;

Divorce costs money; therefore it is only the poor and foolish who risk bigamy. Soliciting is never the occupa-tion of the rich. There are other women, too, in for horrible crimes in their futile efforts to make money.

In jail they divide you into classes. I do not know what is the principle of gained by the prison system. selection. Convicts are "stars," "stripes" CONSTANCE DE MARI jail governors don't like inquests; so when you get beyond a certain point you are thrown out to die. If you hang on to life through a long sentence, you have little chance of ever being more than a moral and physical wreck. And what is Who gains or is the point of it all? better for all this misery? How is civilisation helped? One is tempted to accuse the governing classes of having usurped the authority of Almighty God. "Vengeance is Mine; I will repay," saith the Lord, and surely vengeance is all that is

CONSTANCE DE MARKIEVICZ.

The divine fire of the sun, not being ashamed to heat the humblest iron cooking-not, or warm the tiniest child or feeblest old woman, symbolised the equal rights of all, the unity of life and labour.

In communion with the reorles who recognise this unity, Ireland, the ancient nation and the young Republic, will celebrato Beltene.

An Answer.

"What is a man to do who is starving and cannot find work?"

"God knows."-W. H. Taft, Ex-President.

X. In Davitt's Days.

XI. Connolly in the Schools of Labour.

XIII. Larkin's Youth in the

XIV. The Rise of "Larkinism"

XV. Up from Slavery in Ul-

XVI. The Struggle of 1913.

XVII. The Ultimate Sacrifice.

XVIII. Towards the Commonwealth.

XII. Connolly's Teaching.

Depths.

ster.

THE

::

Book for Irish Workers DUBLIN : TALBOT PRESS, Limited.

The Irish Labour Movement

FROM THE TWENTIES TO OUR OWN DAY.

By W. P. RYAN,

ASSISTANT EDITOR OF "THE DAILY HERALD."

THIS is the first survey of the growth of organised labour in Ireland. It explains in detail the development of a movement whose broad outline was sketched by Connolly, and marshals the terrible facts upon which that leader based his passionate analysis of Irish History. The author sets the graphic story of Larkin and Connolly in the perspective of the movement of which they represent a definite epoch.

Special Popular Crown Octavo. In Handsome Cloth Binding 🕖 Edition. Paper Covers 🚄 🕅 🖤 HIS summary of the contents shows the scope of this pioneer work by a pioneer of Irish freedom.

- I. Labour and the Gael.
- II. Land Workers' Ordeals and Deeds.
- III. William Thompson and Robert Owen.
- IV. Early Trade Unionism.
- V. The Guilds and the Unions.
- VI. Illusive Emancipation.
- VII. O'Connell and Tragi-Comedy.
- VIII. Weavers and " Lock-
- ups.'
  - IX. Lalor and Lean Years.
    - ALL BOOKSELLERS. OF TALBOT PRESS, LTD. THE DUBLIN

the

to

Irish National Union of Vintners', Grocers' and Allied Trades' Assistants

ESTABLISHED 1917

HEAD OFFICE: 20 PARNELL SQUARE, DUBLIN.

AN EXCLUSIVELY IRISH UNION with Branches all over Ireland.

about Eighteen Months it has gained for its mem-All kinds of people new of mean with their heads are not a canal. A union of workers has the only been in Existence for bers more than in increases of Wages.

£50,000

Prospectus, Forms, etc., free on application to > P. HUGHES, General Secretary.

Cumannace na néineann. (SOCIALIST PARTY OF IRELAND.)

"For our demands most moderate are We only want the Earth." :: ::

SO SANG James Connolly of the Party which he founded in the year eighteen ninety-six as the Irish Socialist Republican Party. To-day that Party appeals to you wherever you are in Ireland to help the building of the WORKERS' REPUBLIC You can join the Party as member large or get your comrades together and form a branch. You can subscribe to its funds, and, better still, sell its literature. Here are some sellers:

By George Russell, Editor When I was a boy I had a friend who ganised first just as Irish rural workers saw some of my attempts at painting. have done to fix wages. He became so enthusiastic about art as went on to purchase requirements co-a profession that without any previous operatively. After that they began to a profession that without any previous operatively. After that they began to lessons in drawing or the use of colours fit themselves for creative and produc-he started at once to paint the culminat-ing event in the universe. That picture perts in road making, bridge building, of the Last Judgment which he showed railway and canal construction, reclama-tion of waste lands, etc. One railway mest any sentence inflicted on him by was built by a union of co-operators. It the Ruler of the universe. We have to has since been run by a co-operative learn to draw before we can paint piclearn to draw before we can paint pictures, and we must have practical experience in the democratic organisation of industry and agriculture in order to bring about in any shapely form a Co-operative Commonwealth of our desires. If we attempted social revolution in If we attempted social revolution in Ireland to-day in order to hurry up the Commonwealth I am afraid that society would lapse back into its old form like stretched rubber, because so few recple with democratic sympathies have the ex-perience in control of industry or the right places, but their heads are not equal to it. All kinds of people now are speaking of the Co-operative Comomnwealth as their heart's desire. But how are they going to get it? They leave us in doubt. Conceivably it might be brought about by social revolution, but it could not be maintained unless large numbers of people who accepted the idea were edu-cated to take over the direction of in-dustry from its present captains. The alternative is an evolution within so-ciety urged on as rapidly as is consistent with safety in which all along the im-co-operative enterprises are started dustry from its present captains. The alternative is an evolution within so-ciety urged on as rapidly as is consistent with safety in which all along the fin-co-operative enterprises are started wherever there is a chance of success. wherever there is a chance of success. Our farmers have their claws deep in Our farmers have their claws deep in the earth. They have economic inde-pendence, and they are through co-operative enterprises getting gradually out of their individualism, and are evolv ing the communal spirit. They have got so far that in some societies industrial workers and farmers unite to help each other other. In Lisburn, for example, the urban workers, having managed well a cooperative society, invited the farmers to come in along with them, and they built at a cost of three thousand pounds two agricultural stores and purchased a motor lorry to bring the farmers pro duce into town, and have sold their produce for them.

PATHS

In Enniscorthy the farmers after hav-ing built up a big agricultural society. have offered its advantages as a store to the workers union, and a joint ar-rangement has just been concluded. In united in a co-operative enterprise. 1 union of railwaymen to public satisfac-

CO-OPERATIVE

COMMONWEALTH

"Irish Homestead."

union of railwaymen to public satisfac-tion. The co-operative management of all State railways in Italy is reported within me..surable distance. The Co-operative Guild of Seamen, which has everybody from captain to cabin boy in it, is now running ships for the Italian Government. The alterna-tives were trust management expensive to the Italian people, or bureaucratic management expensive both to State and people; and as the union had all techni-

The rural labourers have adventured upon the land, renting and farming cooperatively many thousands of acres, beating out by the excellence of their methods the old individualist farmer. Odon Por in the "New Age" reports that in the Emilia region alone there are eighty large farms with the a mem-bership of 19,000 and an acreage of 30,000. The co-operative builders under-take contracts for large buildings. take contracts for large builders under-take contracts for large buildings. The workers skilled in road, canal, bridge and railway construction who used to be exploited by capitalists now exploit their own skill, and have got so far that lately 150,000,000 lire were advanced to enable the workers' union to undertake enable the workers' union to undertake reparation work in the districts de-vasted by the war in Italy, Bel-gium and France.

This seems to me the wisest and most inspiring policy. Every enterprise creates among the workers technical competence in the higher as well as the lower grades of their industry. The question for Irish workers to ask themthe Camus society in Strabane farmers, question for Irish workers to ask them-industrial workers and railwaymen have selves is whether they have equal capacity, endurance and enthusiasm. I have myself profound belief in Irish brains. If Irish people will only use their brains I believe the most brilliant economic developments could take place here. I suggest that the Irish unions should make it their policy to fit themselves for production under leadership of men of their own. Our new political chieftains profess a belief not only in political, but in econo-mic democracy. They should be educated so that when they come to exercise power in the Irish state they will be ready to give contracts to unions for the co-operative store. That is the or-public works, and the unions will be ganisation of the commisariat. When ready and equipped with technical skill the army is recruited and the com- to undertake such work. It ought to nisariat in order then the campaign can be possible through international labour begin. The object of the campaign is to channels to get all details of rules, establish a democratic control over in- methods of management and finance of the Italian unions.

2

| Socialism Made Easy (Connolly)           | 2d. |
|--|-----|
| Economic Discontent (Fr. Haggerty)       |     |
| Socialism and the Catholic Faith (Bland) | 2d. |
| New Russia (Arnold)                      | 3d. |
| Bolshevik Revolution (Litvinoff)         | 7d. |

Postage 1d. extra.

42 NORTH GREAT CEORGE'S ST., DUBLIN.

8 CAMDEN QUAY, CORK. 109 DONEGALL STREET, BELFAST.

ASSURANCE AGENTS RIGHT TO PICKET Draw.

The Prize Drawing in aid of the above has been unavoidably postponed to MAY 17th. 1919, and winning numbers will be published wise general will study the ti in the "Voice of Labour" for issue of May most famous predecessors. 24th, 1919. Holders of Duplicates will please democrat will not charge wi forward same to the Secretary not later than May 12th, 1919.

"THE IRISH HOMESTEAD." A Weekly Journal founded by Sir Horace Plunkett, keeps you in touch with Modern Agricultural Economics. It is obtainable only by Subscription, 10s. a year, 5s. halt year (post free), from the Manager, 18 South Frederick Street, Dublin.

EDITED BY "Æ."

IRISH FUND FOR THE FAMINE. STRICKEN.

First Irish Consignment has gone to a Maternity Hospital in Central Europe. Help to send further supplies quickly to the Starving Mothers and Babies.

Contributions received by Treasurer, Irishwomen's International League, 29 South Anne Street, Dublin.

Irish Offers sound and attractive money proposition to energetic Irishmen National who can influence Insurance with this purely Irish and First-Class Ssurance Society Prospectus and Agency post free on request. Society HEAD OFFICE 2 St. Andrew St, Dublin believe that this tendency will become stronger.

But we need not deal with farmers in the "Voice of Labour." They can look after themselves, and their evolution as co-operators will finally bring them into unison with the proletarians. How are the latter to begin their campaign?

The Trade Union Comes First.

When the unions have a monopoly of labour they control the most important asset in the country. That is the or-ganisation of the army. Second comes the co-operative store. That is the ordustry, in fact to make Irleand safe for democracy, and in my opinion democracy in Ireland cannot be made safe while autocracy prevails in industry.

How can the campaign be begun? The wise general will study the tactics of his The wise democrat will not charge with his head down like a mad bull, but will use his brains. The plan of campaign adopted by the workers in Italy appears to me to be most worthy of close study. True democracy began there with trade unions, which in Italy are called "co-opera-tives," with peoples banks and co-operative stores. Then the unions be-gan to educate themselves for produc-tion. They aimed at technical competence, and at having the brains of industry with them as well as the muscles of industry.

The Glass Workers' Union since the beginning of the century have come to control their trade, a most important one in Italy. The union made levies on its members for months to enable the first furnace to be erected. Before the war six factories controlled by the union were working, and now practically the entire glass bottle trade is in the hands of the union. The workers made sacrifices to attain this just as soldiers do and it is more worth while making sacrifices in this than in most battles. The popular banks also helped in the fin-ance, and the stores helped to feed the members and tide them over critical food and better houses join this national, reriods. The agricultural workers or democratic, live Union Now.

I do not myself believe the workers will get anything out of Parliaments before they have got the best out of themselves,

The contrary belief is a pathetic fal lacy which to their detriment has been held by labour unions across the Channel for many years. A body with a monopoly of labour is really, if it knows its strength and how to use it, more powerful than any Parliament. For the organised workers in a country to fix their hopes on Parliamentary action is like a lion looking to a mouse to get it out of the trap. The mouse as a rule prefers the lion in the trap. It is only in fable it is otherwise.

Æ.

CUMANN LUCHT CEAPACH NA H-EIREANN.

(Irish Plotholders' General Union), Objects embrace permanency of the allotment system, co-operation, repre-sentation on bodies dealing with the con-trol and purchase of land, reconciliation of housing with plotholding interests. Minimum Branch membership, 10s.; Subscription 6d. per member per annum. Two-thirds of this subscription, i.e., 4d. per member to be forwarded as affiliation fee to the Hon. Sec., Sean Colbert. 169 Botanic Avenue, Dublin. If you want Plots and more Plots, cheaper

The Tailoring Specialist. Huge Stock of Irish Manufacture to select from. Style, Fit and Finish Guaranteed. Only Address:-

JOHN PURCELL,

LIMITED.

WINTER SUIT OR COSTUME

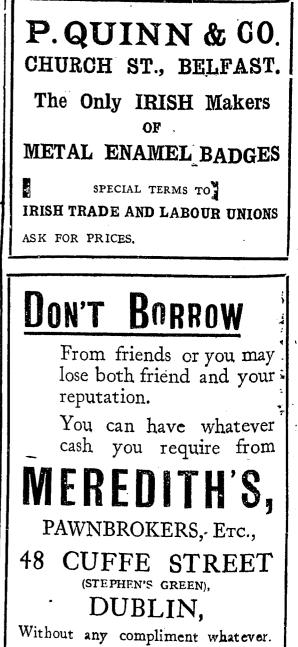

THOS. J. LITTLE,

From

SEE_

FOR YOUR

38 DRURY STREET, DUBLIN (One Door from Exchequer Street).

THE SECRET OF CONNOLLY "THEY FORGET I AM AN IRISHMAN."

By DESMOND RYAN, B.A., Dublin Correspondent of THE DAILY HERALD

the greater includes the less, the Inter-national, the nation the nation, the class, the class a subject sex. He which declares the right of the Irish national, the nation the nation, the class, the class a subject sex. He knew, none better, how most effectively to manipulate the forces of political, social and intellectual unrest. In his day he was misunderstood by Nationalist and Socialist critics alike, a misunder-standing which seems to have deepened since his death. His dying ony to the since his death. His dying cry to the Socialists of Europe that they would never understand his last adventure, and would all forget he was an Irishman has proved prophetic indeed, with increasing and striking exceptions. But it is not and striking exceptions. But it is not alone the Socialists who have misunder-stood. We hear Republicans calmly claiming that Connolly went into insurrection entirely forgetful of his So-cialist and internationalist teachings. This obliviousness is, of course, clearly proven by the notorious absence from the Republican proclamation of any rethe Republican proclamation of any re-ference to social issues! We hear ardent pacifists assuring all and sundry that the sorrowful gaze of Caitlin Ni- h-Ullachain won Connolly from the smiling counten-ance of Human Freedom. Mr. Stephen Gwynn swells the chorus with the in-evitable gag that Connolly was prim-arily a Socialist and secondarily a Naarily a Socialist, and secondarily a Na-tionalist. In short, they would have us believe that the war swept James Connolly off his feet. that the last episode came from despair rather than conviction, that he was a guileful trades unionist who eventually bit off more than he could chew. Assuredly his available writings, the main facts of his life, his methods point the way to a more just Irish Socialists from national moveand balanced estimate of one of the greatest figures in the modern Labour movement.

James Connolly developed, but his main ideals never underwent an essential change. The "Workers' Republic " of 1916 preaches a more mature version of the "Workers' Republic" of 1897. If we accept his own definition of a philo sopher as one who sees both sides of a question so well that he hesitates to translate his ideals into deeds, we must deny him the title. We can trace through his writings and speeches a burning and tenacious desire to apply the gospel of St. Marx to the peculiar conditions of Ireland, a very living Marxism and a very successful attempt. Warxism and a very successful attempt. We come into contact also with a deep understanding and affection for Ireland, her people, her traditions none the less profound and sincere for the man's de-votion to human struggles for freedom in every clime and age. His propaganda, his guiding formula of peaceful measures if possible sterner ones if need be this if possible, sterner ones if need be, his if possible, sterner ones if need be, his attitude on the religious, marriage and national questions are a useful model to the Labour movement everywhere, and would certainly save much sterile dis-cussion, not to mention waste paper. "Labour in Irish History" is among the great and impelling books of our time, but its success has perhaps helped to obscure aspects of the author none the less important than his scorn for merely political nationalism, his insistence upon the social factor, his confidence in the salvation of the workers by their own efforts. We are inclined to overlook Connolly the Labour leader and Con-nolly the revolutionary, above all Con-nolly the revolutionary, above all Con-nolly the revolutionary, above all Con-nolly the revolutionary above all Con-nolly the revolutionary is a remarkable article in the current "Socialist" has practically revealed James Cennolly's secret in the statement that Connolly was the first Socialist he had ever met who actually worked for revolution and weighed every public crisis in the light of that possibility. The fact grows clearer and clearer all through early pro-nouncements and later activities—al-ways remembering his own definition of revolution as "such an organic change in any sphere of human thought and action as shall destroy an outworn or effect system or method, and replace them by a better system or method, founded upon entirely new principles and producing more satisfactory results." Insurrectionism for insurrection's sake was no more & principle for Connolly than the principal of non-resistance. He disliked them both cordially and equally. Nor, while holding the British people responsible for their Government's actions, did he ever countenance a mere anti-English propaganda. To the end he repudiated that position. In October, 1914, he declares the working class of Ireland is the anchor and foundation for any real nationalism this country can show, that, broadly speaking, it remains the hope of those who hold fast to the attitude on the religious, marriage and national questions are a useful model to any real nationalism this country can show, that, broadly speaking, it remains the hope of those who hold fast to the separatist ideal, but that it must al-ways refuse to believe true patriotism spells enmity to the toiling masses of Great Britain. Significantly enough Pearse and he proclaimed on the eve of people to the ownership of Ireland and the unfettered control of Irish destinies to be sovereign and indefeasible is one of the tersest and truest summaries of the spirit of modern Irish nationalism ever penned. If we were asked to quote some passage from Connolly's writings some passage from Connolly's writings to explain the final episode, the only difficulty would be to choose from an innumerable mass of material. The early "Workers' Republic," "Labour, Na-tionality and Religion," the Rossa Souvenir or the final "Workers' Re-public" leave no doubt that the writer was determined upon the reconquest of the lands, the wealth, the liberties of Ireland for the mass of the Irish people willy-nilly, peacefully or otherwise. Always and ever he remained Marxian, Republican, Separatist, close to realities, militant, human and fully alert to the difficulties of the tremendous task in which he was to play more and more a leading part.

Connolly's recognition of nationality was generous, full but discerning. He recognised its strength in Irishmen and Irishwomen, everywhere as a force which perpetually reasserts itself amidst the most varied circumstances, scenes and vicissitudes of all their lives. No man has flayed Irish Jingoism so thor-oughly, but Irish patriotism be under oughly; but Irish patriotism he under stood even more thoroughly. In the "Harp" he declares war upon the Socialist attitude which would divorce ments. He has been criticised for his lack of idealism, but if lip-service to the things of the spirit be the hall-mark of idealism then James Connolly is an idealist a thousand times over. truth he was none of your enervated idealists, but a forceful and concentrated idealist who believed that in the kingdom of the spirit cant should have no mansions. An essential sanity reveals itself in Connolly's pronouncements on men and things. His general forcecast of the Labour movement's probable action in a European crisis, his judgments on men and movements at home and abroad sound frequently weird and un-Let one suffice: his erring to-day. Let one suffice: his comments on the French and German views of anti-militarism which clashed dramatically at the Stuttgart Interna-tional Socialist Congress in 1908. Writing in the "Harp" he genially asks his readers whether they have followed the American critics of the controversy, and proceeds characteristically: "I read the other day where some American Socialist Policy-holders in Foreign Societies or Companies desiring to transfer will receive special said that the military question was one

The secret of James Connolly's great- the rising that there is no other national-ness was that he knew his mind, his is than that which seeks to enthrone spirit of France and Germany-the one, country, his class. He never forgot that a sovereign people. Pearse and Con- ardent and ready to fight the world for ardent and ready to fight the world for a truth at stake, the other cold, cautious, tenacious and resolved to fight only in its own chosen manner and season. Connolly concludes that both are earnest and necessary while nothing is to be gained by a pharisaical thanking God American Labour is not even as these backward European tribes.

It would take too long just at pre-sent to do justice to Connolly, the Labour Leader, the intellectual captain of Irish Labours' forces in its economic battles from 1910 until the end. Al-though he cried repeatedly "less battles from 1910 until the end. Al-though he cried repeatedly "less philosophising and more fighting" he had not forgotten or grown indifferent to his earlier and militant working-class gospel. He was only more sober, less academic and irrevocably determined. His influence on the Labour movement grew more marked after his return from America in 1910. His experience as S.L.P. and S.P. organiser there, the cosmopolitan atmosphere of the United States, a deeper knowledge of political campaigning somewhat disillusioned him and his subsequent history is more that of the realist and persuasive trades unionist than the rigid propagandist. Connolly from 1910 onwards knew his earlier teachings had taken root, gained a stronger grip upon Nationalist and Labour organisations alike, knew how to get things done and set his listeners aflamo. Larkin and the I.T.W.U., the awakening of the democratic elements in Sinn Fein, the middle-class, the Church, even the Irish Parliamentary Party, to social issues, the spread of inquiry into wages and housing conditions characterised the year of his return, and Con-nolly turned to build up slowly, steadily, but passionately, the army? Labour upon which he believed the salva tion of Ireland depended. If Larkin was the voice and arm of the Irish workers, James Connolly stood out as its brain and soul, while the I.T.W.U. was the promising beginning of that indus-trial action he had striven for when the idea appealed to small cotories only, and roused no response in the popular con-sciousness. From 1910 onwards the deeds of Connolly's thought have marched on conquering.

marched on conquering. "Things are desperate indeed," said a well-known Irish-Ireland poet, as '1" watched James Connolly marshall bis shot-gun army behind sand-bags during Easter, 1916. "Things are desperate indeed when this lover of peace, this humanitarian, this anti-militarist leads us into this." It was true things were desperate indeed. It was also the first desperate indeed. It was also the first ---expression of a widespread and common misconception of Connolly's anti-militarism,

Yes. when you consider the question Connolly's secret was that he knew his mind, his country, his class, and that the greater includes the less. He came before his time, but Ireland is nearer to his dream than when he lived and died. Peace and justice to that indemitable spirit! May 1st, 1919, shall be one fitting salute to his incomparable shade. For the rest, when we realise his genius was concrete and militant, gain an in-sight into his achievements salute the pioneer equally with the working-class philosopher we shall have done all that is in our power to do. Ireland's May Day message to the world's workers is a monument that James Connolly would deem more noble and appropriate than any in bronze or marble alone.

If my soldiers were to begin to reflect, not one of them would remain in the ranks.-Frederick the Great of Prussia.

"I am pleased to learn that the New Ireland Assurance Society has on its Committee of Management men whose worth is well-known to me, and I terms. Apply to our Local Agent, or direct to our Chief Office, of those which we consider settled in America, and could not come up for discussion in our locals, the inference being that we are so much ahead of ing that we are so much ahead of Europe in that question. But are we?" He grows sceptical as to Socialists, in the event of war between U.S.A. and Japan, rising to the heights they ap-plauded in the anti-militarists of France

56 LR. O'CONNELL STREET, DUBLIN. Workers! keep Your Money at Home and help to build up Irish Industries.

THIS SOCIETY IS CONTROLLED BY THE MEMBERS.

MAY. THE FIRST OF

It is usual to mark the annual fes- that has been made. tirals of the civil calendar as they occur by moralising on the period ended by the feast, and to indulge in forecasts of the coming year. The opportunities a calendar offers and the topics it suggests are too inviting to be neglected their power, they took the first steps to except by the exceptionally strong put that power into action by aligning minded Ireland last year deprived it themselves with the militant industrially minded. Ireland last year deprived itself of the advantages of May Day as a convenient talking point for demonstration orators, by anticipating the calendar and making its silent assertion of the common people's will on April 23rd.

There were many circumstances that made easy the universal down-tools that marked the occasion. People who do not usually associate themselves with common persons, gladly welcomed the aid of labour to avert the scourge of consoription. Many of them have since regretted their acquiesence in the strike policy. They have forgotten its success policy. They have forgotten its success in the immediate issue. That peril they regard as past, and now they are filled with anxiety because Irish Labour's first general strike taught its lesson to the most inattentive and casually indifferent among the working class.

Sundays and holidays the workers had known as days of rest for most of them. These were inherited traditions, and These were inherited traditions, and common man or woman is generated at abstention from servile work was a duty the place where they do society's work learned from that day of voluntary rest that wealth was made by them, and make the workers of Ireland One Big without them was not any wealth made Union.

One day's rest told the workers of Ireland they had nothing to lose but their chains.

organised forces of labour. Results some of them have gained in better pay and shorter hours of work.

Now comes the period of the First of May. Again Irish Labour has resolved to claim and have, if for one day only, the control of its own productive powers. It will be a day of retreat, of thought, and of reflection, in which to think calmly and dispassionately of the world and its rulers. The silent meditation of the vast mass of labour is terrible in its potentialities.

"Power discovers the man," said a heathen sage, and the people's medita-tion on their power has discovered them to themselves as men. What we need now is a practical means of harnessing our power and directing all its energy to the overthrow of the personal slavery of the apparently free, vote-possessing citizen. Let that he the subject of our May Day meditations.

Now we we know that the power of the abstention from service work was a such in field, factory and worksnop. we may mposed by august authority. Such in field, factory and worksnop, we must cessation from toil had no lesson for the use that power to obtain control there. Unity of aim and purpose must be ar-Unity of aim and purpose must be ar-April 23rd and its idleness resulted rived at immediately, and to ensure the from the declaration of the sovereign will victorious attainment of the aim unity of

Begin then on the First of May to

Karl Marx and Young People. By EUGENE V. DEBS.

The day and the year that Karl Marx was | meant to the cause of oppressed humanity, born-May 5th, 1818-appear in red letters in the calendar of the social revolution. For on that day the eyes of the revolution's prophet and pioneer opened upon the world. In fancy we can see the baby Marx engaged in his first struggle, doing his best and he was more than that, he was in the worst in baby fashion to give evidence that supremest sense a Man! He had the exalted he was alive and to have his arrival duly We can next see a little toddler noted. nosing about for suitable opening for his prying activities, little dreaming of the prodigious task awaiting him on the stage of how to be hypocritical. He was a stranger lile.

especially the enslaved and exploited workers of the world.

Karl Marx, the founder of modern social ism and of the international socialist movement, was indeed an intellectual titan, but moral character to match his commanding genius. He was as firm as an oak, yet tender as a babe. He was absolutely honest. He could not dissimulate. He knew not to the ways of darkness. What he saw with his keen eye and thought with his clear brain and felt with his warm heart, he also had the courage to utter with his honest tongue and to stand or fall by, without equivocation or compromise. The crowned despots of Europe who hounded Marx and his loved ones into poverty and exile would have vied with each other in opening wide their palace doors to him and showering him with wealth and honours had he but known how to trim and compromise for the sake of harmony and peace. But Marx did not know how to make traffic of his talents or how to barter his principles; he scorned to deny the truths he had launched that made thrones tremble, or to betray the trust of the downtrodden who looked to him for counsel and leadership, and this at once sealed his doom and gave his name to glory. In the harrowing exile and pitiful poverty that followed, the moral heroism of Marx was monumental, and it was during these tragic days and years that his beloved wife. the beautiful and charming Jenny of West. phalen, rose to the supreme height of her noble womanhood and sustained the cause for which they were banished with a courage and fortitude that defy fitting characterisation. Jenny Marx, his beloved wife, shared equally with Karl Marx the bitterest poverty and the most relentless persecution for the sake of the cause we love to-day, and on this anniversary we hail them both with

The Workers' Republic. The great only appear great because we are JI (ur knees: LET US RISE.

Are we in Earnest?

The great struggles of nations seeking freedom, and of empires trying to make freedom impossible, cannot fail to divert attention from the thing that lies nearest and is therefore most easily accom-plished. Usually it is the thing that most needs attention. The Local Government Elections offer no strong attraction to those whose minds are grappling with the problems that perplex the world-politicians at Paris. Nor do the vexed questions of road-making secure much consideration from the revolutionaries who want an immediate and profound social change.

That is what we want, but we have a feeling that there is an ominous hint hidden in the Scripture, which suggests that he that is faithful in little will be faithful in much. In the minor world that has the parish pump for its axis there are opportunities ready to our hand. If we mean to rule the earth, can we not administer a rural district? Organisation Wanted, Elections are not won without work and planning and the exertion of some ability. Trade unions are not (happily constructed to take political action in areas which are territorially nor indus-trially delimited and if the unions are to be victorious at the polls nothing will bring victory but zealous and sustained hard work. The Labour Party has pro-claimed its intention to secure adequate claimed its intention to secure adequate representation at the coming elections. We shall not be too sorry if the most ardent hopes are disappointed—but it would be a catastrophe if the high pres-tige won by organised labour on the in-dustrial field were to be shattered by fail-ure at an election of guardians. Electoral Work Needed.

How many trade union branches know how many of their members and members' wives and sisters and brothers and sons are on the voters' roll? Have any unions evolved plans for ensuring that their members will poll on election day and vote for the right candidates? A case in point is the I.C.W.U. in Dublin. It has nominated four candidates for the Guardians' Elections, but it has not the information or the plans required to make victory sure. The same may be said of the Dublin branches of the Trans. port Union and what is true of these may he safely assumed of other unions.

New Pledge-bounders,

An attempt is going to be made by a political party to obtain victory at the coming Local Government Elections by reviving the old fetish of a pledge-bound party, and the nature of the pledge is to e something very remote from questions. like direct employment of labour, the wages of council employees or the provision of decent housing for the people. The pledge will be so designed that almost anyone who is not a devoted adherent of the Royal House of Windsor will be able to take it—and probably like the old pledge bound party, to swallow it. Once the pledge is taken, any person or party that dare oppose the new pledge-bounder will be labelled an enemy of Ireland, a West-Briton, a Westminsterialist, and an anti-Republican. "We can't trust Labour," is the un-spoken thought of the new pledgebounders, and in local government they will prefer to trust the penny-hunting little bourgeoisie, the respectable merchants. the tri-colour publicans, and the latest out-pouring of the National (save the mark !) Universities.

greater Serbia. Serbia, like Italy, will be a member of the League and bound by its rules, yet Italy cannot trust its fellow-Leaguers' pacificism unless an Italian Albania cuts-the new Serbia off from the Mediterranean, and an Italian Dalmatia throws it back from the Adriatic and Italian Illyrian islands provide naval police stations to guard the rocky coasts. Such is the great League. A Society of Peoples.

When before the League is established its advocates quarrel about the very diffi. culties the League proposes to overcome, we feel that the instinct of the workers who have distrusted leagues of capitalist states, has justified itself. There can be states, has justified itself. There can be no community between nations except that which is based on a community of economic interest. That is to say there can be no League of Capitalist States because inevitably they are in economic conflict with each other seeking their place in the sun, markets for their products. A society of peoples alone is possible, for peoples who organise production for common good, for use and not for profit. Abolish capitalism and you abolish war.

Queries. If England has right in Dublin, why has Italy none in Fiume?

Or if Italy is wrong in Fiume, is Eng-land right in Ireland.

Turkish Delight.

The outbreak of a new revolution in Turkey and the establishment of Soviets at Constantinople means the disappear. ance of one more tempting slice of war conquest from the Paris dinner-table.

Turkey, like Russia, was largely a police empire imposed on village commun-ities which preserved ways of life in which the heroes of Troy could they re-turn would find but little that was unfamiliar.

Mohammedanism has this to its credit that it offered more serious barriers to the inroads of capitalism than could the refined fancy religions of the West.

WAGES AND PRICES.

How can facts be reconciled with the theory that wages don't affect prices? Here are two cases coming within the experience of the I.W.W.U. within the past few weeks, which speak for themselves.

Increases were secured for the laundry employes: prices were raised the same week as the wages, and the employers made no secret that this was their method of paying the new wage bill.

A large tobacco manufacturer put forward as an excuse for refusing an in-crease in wages the fact that at the moment he may not increase prices; but Government restrictions will be removed as soon as the Tobacco Trade Board is established, and wages and prices can rise simultaneously. (This fact s and illuminating as to the power of control over the workers' position which the Co over the workers' position which the Go-

And now it appears the boy, the youth upon the scene, and sober facts begin to jostle rosy dreams in his dawning mentality and imagination.

Marx, the boy, was healthy, handsome and natural, full of the sap and song and sweetness of life. Like all normal boys, he loved to play pranks, and for the same reason he was also serious and studious, and quite early he began to realise that life meant struggle and service and that he must in grave earnest prepare himself to act nobly his part in the great drama that spread out before his awakening vision.

The boy, Marx, in the light of his subsequent phenomenal career, and of the social revolution now thundering at the doors of the capitalist world, presents a vivid theme and a fascinating study for the young people of to-day who are reaping in knowledge and strength, in inspiration and high resolve. where he sowed in poverty and pain, in suffering and exile, to the very end of his days

It is peculiarly appropriate that the birth of Marl Marx should be celebrated by the young people. The programme of appreciation would be sadly incomplete without the participation of the young people who have been quickened into new life and have had their eyes opened upon a new word, by the magic of his awakening philosophy, and directed toward the shining goal of international freedom and fellowship under his masterly and inspiring leadership.

The heart of every young Socialist throbs faster and keener with the zest of life as he pride and joy as the inspired prophets of contemplates the lofty figure of Karl Marx internationalism and the thrice-honoured in the perspective, and what his coming has leaders of the social revolution.

BUNNING RUNS AWAY FROM BERNE DECISIONS,

In a letter to C. P. Kelly, Secretary able Stuarts, was one of the English of the Dublin Branch of the Postmen's Federation, G. H. Stuart-Bunning says with regard to May Day: It would be interesting to learn by

"We feel we must regard the Post Office as a necessary service, and therefore neither in England or Ire land are we agreeing to a cessation of work on that day."

scended from the Royal, but not respect- ganised labour?

It would be interesting to learn by what process of casuistry (modern English-Twisting) he reconciles the Berne Max-day resolution with the decision given above.

Is it another instance of the Civil Ser Mr. G. H. Stuart-Bunning, who is de- vice Unions playing the parasite on or-

Real Democracy,

The greatest good of the greatest numher is the alleged aim of all democracies. The greatest number is the working class, which comprehends more than the classes that soil their hands. None are so comeptent to express their needs in small or great matters as fellow-workers. Therefore the non-working-class candidates, whatever his temporary pledge or his party, must be firmly rejected by Labour.

We have had enough of representatives pledged to find jobs for their partisans. Recent events in Cork seem to show that the old spirit can dwell in new bottles. If Labour is to triumph at the polls it must announce at once that it rejects totally any pledge that non-working-class parties seek to impose.

And looking to the composition of An Dail we should think the only party which that institution can speak for has reason to regret the too sweeping nature of its victories.

The Peace-makers,

The barriers raised by the New England Puritan Professor, to the satisfaction of Italian sacred egoism, have rebut perhaps never-to-be-realised League of Big Nations. Italy is willing to enter the League provided her imperial ambi-tions are gratified no matter at whose Her capitalist class aim at concost. trolling every outlet of the vast wealth of the fields of Hungary and all the lands tively to strangle the international trade of the Socialist communities of German Austria and the Hungarian Soviets. The Last War.

The inefficacy of the Paris League to prevent future wars is strikingly emphascan exert).

Would it not be wiser to concentrate effort on making the workers realise that they must combine co-operative with trade union activities if they are to secure release from poverty-that they must win the power to control prices as well as wages?

And in this connection the question arises-will a co-operative movement which merely transfers the power of capitalism from a bourgeois to a working class group, ultimately benefiting the rank and file of the community? If the co-operative movement aims at dividends instead of lower prices, what does the man in the street stand to grin from it? What have the farm labourers gained for the agricultural co-operative movement? What have the industrial populations in Eng-land and Scotland gained from the Have the paltry urban co-ops? dividends compensated for the unabated prices? Now that the Irish Transport Union has embarked on the co-operative store policy, trade unionists read

LOUIE BENNETT.

THE APRIL "COMMONWEALTH"

Were we to enumerate the good things in the second number and to criticise the provocative articles in detail, we could easily fill the "Voice." Of particular interest to advocates of the Workers' Republic is the description of the Indian village community from within by P. H. Gupta, B.A. Now that India is "disturbed" its internal economy, vealed the true nature of the projected the guild organisation of labour and the rule of mutual dependance within the commune cannot fail to interest our own disturbed nation.

The conclusion of Prof. Rahilly's article in the March "Commonwealth" appears in the new number, and our conthat were the Austrian Empire. They ism are justified by Mr. Rahilly's state-wish above all to be in a position effec- ment that "theological and other contributor's strictures of his little vetheltroversies about Socialism are for Irish workers a divagation of useful energy."

Ernest A. Boyd rings the changes on the Wilsonian phrase and speaks of making the drama safe from democracy, prevent future wars is strikingly emphas. Was he anticipating the suppression of ised by Italy's fears of the new and "The Dawn Mist"?

Trades Council Officers Report Progress THE PREMIER COUNCIL'S MESSAGE | CLONMEL AND FOREIGN UNIONS.

"Steadily the cause is moving, new bodies are daily taking refuge under our banner, new and powerful fortresses are being daily assailed." This is the message which the Dublin Headquarters may well proclaim to the workers of Ireland. Many years of hard work and sacrifice will soon yield luxuriant fruit and our gallant army of workers may well be re-lied on to throw their last ounce into the scale that long since has begun to turn in our favour.

While progress is everywhere to be recorded, there is need for further vigorous strides. The ground now won must be consolidated and fresh attacks directed. consolidated and fresh attacks directed. As we move forward every step must be carefully chosen. The strength of the chain will be determined by its links. Let the test be applied. There can be no overlapping in the Trade Union affairs of to-day. Identical interests must find a common home. Clumsy machinery makes not for progress or smooth run-ping. On every worker the necessity for carefully chosen. The strength of the chain will be determined by its links. Let the test be applied. There can be no overlapping in the Trade Union affairs of to-day. Identical interests must find a common home. Clumsy machinery makes not for progress or smooth run-ning. On every worker the necessity for clear thinking must be impressed. The worker makes the movement. Let every thought and word, idea and ideal, be carefully sifted, and when the final test of strength arrives the workers' army will present a front of steel. MULLINGAR TRADES COUNCIL. Mullingar Trades Council, formed March, 1918, has affiliated to it the fol-lowing trades:—Teachers, Shop Assis-tants, Asylum Workers, Railway Men. Carpenters and Allied Trades, Postmen and Telegraph Clerks, and several bran-ches of the Transport Union, including Mullingar and Killucan; aggregate membership about 1,500. Since its inception the Shop Assis-tants have got a half-holiday and in-creases in wages up to ...£40 per year in some cases. The Tailors have gained a 60 per cent increase in wages and shor-

E. O'OARROLL, President.

BALLINASLOE'S TURF MINES.

Two years ago Ballinasloe had three affiliated branches; to-day it can boast of sixteen, with a real live Trades Council. Working hours have been reduced to fifty for all skilled trades. Members of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union work fifty-one. The Asylum staff have obtained a fifty-six-hour week. Wages have risen from eighteen to thirtyseven shillings for unskiled workers, while the Urban Council employees get two pounds a week. State ownership has been adopted on a small scale, the local Dail having purchased turf mines for its members. A co-operative store is in sight for this western town. Arrangements are being made for a monster procession on Labour Day.

THOMAS CRAUGHWELL, President.

TRADES UNIONISM IN CO. KILDARE.

The year has ben one of marked progress in the county. Active organising propaganda has resulted in largely-in-creased membership, and a few unorganised workers now remain. Week by week successful negotiations have taken place, resulting in greatly-improved con-place, resulting in greatly-improved con-ditions for the worker. The County Kildare Trades Council was established in September. 1918, and includes representatives from the Na-tional Teachers, Shop Assistants, Carpen-ters, Painters, Farriers, Railway Men, Agricultural Workers' Union and Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. Since that date the Farriers, Shop Assis-Since that date the Farriers, Shop Assis-tants and Agricultural Workers have joined the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union.

Meetings of the Council are held regularly in Newbridge, Kildare and Naas, at which arrangements have been made for putting forward candidates for the Local Government Board elections. A fine hall and adjoining dwelling, cen-trally situated in the town of Newbridge, has been purchased A formal opening of the hall will take place on Labour Day. which will witness a great hosting of the workers of the county. Prominent speakers have promised to attend, and a ball will be held on the night of 1st May.

Clonmel and District Trade and Labour Council has been in existence only about Council has been in existence only about eight months, and has fourteen bodies affiliated to same. Now that the Trans-port Union has established a branch here there will be something doing. The only black clouds in the way of Trade Unions are those held in check by English exe-cutives. The motto for all Irish workers should be "Irish Trades Unions for Irish Workers." However, Clonmel, the capi-tal of the Premier County, will be second to none in the ranks of Trades Unionism. to none in the ranks of Trades Unionism. We are out to beat the federation of sweaters now established here.

MULLINGAR TRADES COUNCIL.

60 per cent increase in wages and shor-ter hours. The Asylum Workers gained a substantial increase and shorter hours. The Carpenters are at present on strike for 1/3 per hour and a 48-hour week. The bosses refuse to recognise the Union (Please note).

ATHLONE TRADES COUNCIL.

There are 18,000 workers in the organisations affiliated to the council. The president and secretary are members of the U.D.C., and by their efforts have have secured the completion of a housing. scheme which provides 400 new homes. This is one of the first schemes to be fully realised in brick and mortar.

The Trades Council actively promotes the organisation of labour in town and district arranging frequent mass de-monstrations and addressed by the officials of the council, speaking for all grades and sections. The Council has proved itself a great boon to the workers of the tows.

J. F. MARTIN, Secretary.

EDENDERRY AND DISTRICT TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL.

Labour here has awakened. It has exuded the dope of ages. It has wiped the blinding film from its eves, and has sprung from its bed of repose. It has inhaled a giant's breath which has invigorated and purified the life-blood of its existence. It shakes its growing mane and the shears are slipping from the trembling hand of Delilah. What of its future? Shackle it again. and it shall pull down the edifice. It shall suffer death at its own hands before it ever bodmates again with the harpies, want, poverty and degradation.

TOMAS MAC AN FHRANNCAIGH, Chairman.

Irish Transport and General Workers' Union.

THE UNION'S PIONEER BRANCH

was founded in the year nineteen hundred and nine, and to-day musters more than eleven thousand members. Number One Branch Irish Transport and General Workers' Union is organised like an army. The members are grouped scientifically in their industrial sections. Each section regulates its peculiar interests, its members plan their own campaigns, and choose their own officers.

The Branch Committee is representative of all sections. Thus members in every branch of production and distribution share the benefit of massed power of eleven thousand workers while retaining expert direction by men of their own trade and their own choice.

IT IS A UNION OF SMALL UNIONS.

Number One Branch has attracted to itself several local trade unions, which, under prevailing conditions, were powerless, in their isolation-miscalled independence-to improve social conditions. Behind the banner of Number One they have preserved all that was vital in their old traditions, retained full freedom of action, and have raised the standard of living for every one of their members.

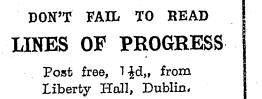

There is no need to talk theory or discuss rival policies of working class organisation. The enormous change for the better in the life and work and wages achieved by the One Big Union is an unanswerable argument.

SUCCESS IS OUR BEST ADVOCATE.

If your Union remains isolated, weak and helpless, confronting hopelessly the well-knit organisation of the master class, don't let the interests of persons, the bondage of alien and narrow craftunionism, or the fetish of funeral benefits, keep you apart from us.

Act now. Lead your fellow-workers to see their future assurin the One Big Union. Number One Branch will send its delegates . any meeting of Dublin workers to explain the principles and practice of the industrial union.

Liberty Hall is open daily for the enrollment of members from ten a.m. to eight p.m.

FOR CLEAR NOTIONS, STUDY TRADE-UNIONISM

From I iberty Hall, three half-pence, post free,

Steps are being taken for the formation of a co-operative society in connection with the new Trades Hall.

WM. CUMMINS, Chairman, Co. Kildare Trades Council.

IRISH AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS AND MECHANICS' UNION.

At the last meeting of the Manage-ment Committee of the above Union it was unanimously decided to grant £100 to the Limerick Branch to help the members involved in the Limerick strike, and to open a special fund to be subscribed to by members of other branches. It was also decided to notify all members to observe Labour Day (1st May) as a holiday, and that branches make arrangements for their members to attend the Branch Rooms on that day and sign the roll between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

FINE BOOK, PROGRAM, CATALOG AND POSTER WORK, COLOR PRINTING BY LITHOGRAPHY AND PHOTO PROCESS

Telephone No,

941.

STATIONERY .. FANCY GOODS . LAPPING PAPERS ROPES, TWINES, ETC. · ENQUIRIES WELCOMED

O'Loughlin, Murphy & Boland, Ltd. 111 & 112 UPPER DORSET ST., DUBLIN

Romance.

The old idea of romance: The country boy goes to the city marries his em-ployer's daughter, enslaves hundreds of his fellow humans, gets rich, and leaves a public library to his home town.

The new idea of romance: To undo some of the mischief done by the old idea of romance.-Seymour Deming.

The only way to save our empires from the encroachment of the people is to engage in war, and thus substitute na-tional passions for social aspirations.-Empress Catherine II. of Russia.

The freest government cannot long endure when the tendency of the law is to create a rapid accumulation of property in the hands of a few, and to render the masses poor and dependent.-- Daniel Webster.

"Have you ever made a just man?" "Oh, I have made three," answered God. "But two of them are dead, And the third, Liscen, Listen,

And you will hear the thud of his de-

Number One Branch has successfully organised and won substantial benefits for women and men employed in the following trades. The same methods can serve your interests:

Foundries. Poulterers. Mail Drivers. Rope Workers. Brewers. Distillers, Chemical Trades. Mineral Water Operatives. Drug Workers. Artificial Limb Makers. French-Polishers. Fish Market Men. Tobacco. Pipe Makers. Bank Porters.

Window Cleaners. Account Collectors. Music Trade Employees. Grocery and Wine Trade Workers. Corporation and Public Board Staffs. Bottle Makers, Confectioners. Marble Polishers. Stonecutters. Printers' Assistants. Soap Makers. Laundry Workers.

YOU CAN JOIN

Builders' Providers. Engineering and Shipbuilding. Railwaymen. Oil Trades, Millers. Gardeners. Potato Factors. Grain Trades. Carters. Gas Workers. Dockers. Coal Workers.

THE WIDER RANGE OF NUMBER ONE BRANCH'S ACTIVITIES IS INDICATED BY THESE EXAMPLES :

CO.OPERATION. A Grocery, Provision and Bakery Shop will be opened shortly to increase the spending power of our members.

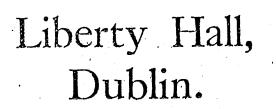

CAFE AND RESTAURANT, opened lately for the Hotel strikers, will be continued as a permanent factor in our social life at 31 Eden Quay.

- TONTINE. Our club provides a supplement to the Union's funeral benefits and divides its funds annually at Christmas.
- CONCERTS are provided in Liberty Hall every Sunday evening during the winter months, and numerous Ceilidhe among the sections.
- DRAMATIC CLASS stages plays fre. quently at the Concerts, and has toured the districts with much success. Two new plays are being published shortly.
- ATHLETIC CLUB. The Liberty Boys have acquired fame in various tourna. ments, and scope is being found for them in many directions.

BRASS AND REED BAND in formation.

John O'Neill,

Secretar

THETRAVAIL OF LABOUR W. P. RYAN'S GREAT BOOK.

restraint of trade. Those combinations of workers, main-tained thus in defiance of law, have left but little in the way of written records, but in most cases their traditions are from time immemorial. Some unions of journeymen indeed arose out of the mediaeval guilds. Plainly the spirit of community was inherent in the Irish worker, and the names of Fergus O'Con-nor, Bronterro O'Brien, Hugh Doherty, and many another since in English trade unionism show the indebtedness of the modern labour movement to the legacy of it is realised. The increasing misery of the poor in consequence of England's war against the French Republic, the introduction of nam power in the English factories and free competition of cheap factory-made products with Irish manufacture, that first the Volunteers and then the Won made possible is graphically illus-thated by the case of the Drogheda hand-loom weavers

In 1812 they received 16s. for weaving 78 vards of cloth. In 1820 they wore 83 yards for 10s. In 1828 the price for 88 yards was 7s. 6d. By 1834 the competition of human hands against the soul-less steam driven loom had lengthened the piece to 93 yards, and reduced the price to 7s.

Kerr's adventure in Derry. Kerr was a Labour; this record of the growth in Belfast cabinetmaker, who visited Derry in 1833 to help the local craftsmen to remove the stigma of poverty and op-pression from the Maiden City. Wages had been reduced by as much as 30, 40 and in some cases 60 per cent. A branch of the Friendly Society of Cabinetmakers was formed, and the prospect of improved conditions was bright. The Mayor of Derry took alarm. Two Derry cabinetmakers were arrested and lin. Cloth 4s. 6d.; paper, 2s. 6d.; postthreatened with transportation if they age 6d. extra.

W. P. RYAN'S GREAT BOOK. The history of the nameless workers who made the frish Labour movement" is, for the vorkers, the most important book since Connolly's "Labour in frish History." Mr. Ryan carries on the beginning of the inineteenth century. He masses from forgotten periodicals and Parlia wantary papers the facts behind which " tragedy of a nation's run and the " trage of the lage of the close of the size Dorelast against the trans-portation of the Six Dorehester Lab-ourses'. A fine instance, that, of the about intime the not and solid for the explorism and spolation." His enunciation of trade unionism in Dub-ing Irish Parliament handed to the West missiter institution. All combinations tragent in shift the trage of the acts." These combinations of workers, main the mode thus in defance of law, have left to cold facts that belied his bust titing of the comm failed to report, presumably because the facts elicited would not support the case O'Connell and his Manchester allies detained thus in defance of law, have left but little in the way of written records, but in most cases their traditions are from time immemorial. Some unions of journeymon indeed arose out of the mediaval guilds. Plainly the spirit of community was inherent in the Irish worker, and the names of Fergus O'Connell and his Manchester allies de-sired to make. It would be futile to attempt in this space to incicate the full range of Mr. Ryan's -volume. It links the modern habour movement with the Gaelic tradi-tion; and presents its development as a continuous evolution. He records the grinding poverty with a wealth of detail, the cumulative force of which has been the unchang-ing from 2s. to 4s. a day, that in Bel-fast weavers earned from 3s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. a week, the need for combination and the tvrnany of the law that denied it is realised. The increasing misery of the poor in consequence of England's war against the French Republic, the introduction of theap fast weavers. In 1812 thev received 16s. for weaving Twards of cloth. In 1820 they work 8s yards was 7s. 6d. By 1834 the competi-tion of human hands against the soul hes stoam driven loom had lengthoned the piece to 93 yards, and reduced the syncker. What more can be said than for resurrecting the story of George Belfast cubinetmaker, who visited Derry in 1882 to help the local cartisment to a long the growth in the local cartisment to a constant the soul the size that will be indebted to Mr. Ryan for resurrecting the story of George Belfast cubinetmaker, who visited Derry in 1882 to help the local cartisment to a laft of the prove of the growth in the local cartisment to the local cartisment to the local cartisment to the local cartisment to the training of Ireland's Socelist martyr. Larkin, too, spent his youth in pre-mature toil and wandering, knowing and worker. What more can be said than that every Irish worker must possess and master this martyrology of Irish Labour. Ireland of the revolt of the masses that is the sole hope of the world's social emancipation? Get the book-better-sell the book. Every trade union official should be an agent pushing its sales. The Talbot Press is to be congratulated on having given to Ireland a gift of great price.

JOIN

THE

ICWU

Full particulars from D. LOGUE.

GEN. SEC.,

1 COLLEGE ST., DUBLIN:

SLIGO "P.R. 77 ELECTION

A Pamphlet containing a brief technical explanation of the above can now be obtained from

> The Proportional Representation Society of Ireland, 65 Middle Abbey Street, Dublin.

> Price 1/= Post Free. Or from any Bookseller or Newsagent

Specially low prices will be charged for quantities to Trades Unions and Labour Organisations.

)OLLARDS

Irish Clerical Workers' Union

THE Clerk, too long a slave, has now arisen, and conscious of his power, takes his place in the Labour Movement, and demands Just Conditions and a Living Wage.

CLERKS ARISE!

Your long night of Slavery is over.

Government is not reason, it is not Far better to have the front of one's eloquence—it is force! Like fire, it is a face pushed in by the fist of an honest dangerous servant and a fearful master; prize fighter than to have the lining of never for a moment should it be left to your stomach corrolled by the embalmed irresponsible action,-George Washing- beef of a dishonest merchant.-Jack London.

Printinghouse, Dublin Ltd.,

Cater for the varied requirements of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, and supply to the Head Office :----

> ACCOUNT BOOKS REGISTERS and RECORD BOOKS STATIONERY OF ALL KINDS POSTERS, PAMPHLETS And High-grade Printing of all kinds in large or small orders.

There are many other Trade Unions obtaining all their supplies from Dollards.

Union Executives and Branch Secretaries who have not yet experienced Dollards good and quick service, care in minute details, and moderate prices for quality work, should place a trial order.

Estimates are gladly given free of all expense.

DOLLARDS Printinghouse, Dublin

THE VOICE OF LABOUR.

Ап сана па гелса. rean easain "eine os,"

vo reniob.

1nnir oom, a leistedin 'choide ircis. bruil 'fior agat cao 'r coinri ann ? 116 an amlaro πάη αιηιζής μιαώ σμάσε an an στοταί τοιη? Seato, πί ταπταιό mé le τιαστιά σ'τάιι μαιτ, παηι cartim mo ττέμι σ'ιπητίητ, pé olc mait lear é, pé réivin nác réivin lear mo ceire vo ηέιότελό.

1 Saranaib 00 céao-cáinis na compice an an raol, asur 1 ocorac ir beas oune 50 naib de dánaideace ann pocal mait To cup ipread an a ron. In obis liom αποιη 50 5cuminizim αιμ 50 μο maiż. ταιτπίζεασαμ liom rein, καυ ό, 50 h-άμιζτε, παμ bi na h-όσιαοις ασαιηη Δηγο cun ceáno raizouina oo múinoao σύιπη αξυρ δ'έθισιη πάς δμέας το μάσ 50 jiaib ponn chooa an peanaib on inn.

Δ5ur b'réioin usineants, 50 haib an ronn roin ohm réin. Ac má bí, ré ré noean 50 μαιύ πά 5αη μιορ σ'ά malaine beit asam. An ouine ceiseann che choro no ustbar, ré tazann eolar cuize eolar nác reioiji oo rolataji i n-aon rlizo eile. moatlaotar agur metodar oo bi an na compite, סאו liom, כעוקות ו m'Aigne Anoir חבה טלוסה סטוו או בעגווווש סס טו אבאו כאו bliana o foin. Azup ip vóca ná ciuzpinn 50 006 Διζιπο Δη coinpi muna mbéao Sun tuzan an curo in mó de blain 1 n-áic 50 paib communde ap feap aca .1. An CANCAN ACA AS NA SAPANAIS 1 SCATAIN Uncoln.

Οι coingí pa ρμίσρύη ροιη, ponnen Diockway. Π΄ τάζαπη ροιη πά μαιδ coingite Peile náč 6 iptig aca. Β΄, leat-ceao σίοδ ann, bobcaí, ac pé paon bi aca an an brean mío-áomanac uo nó, cait reirean puineac απη σε τίση, τη cuma cé αιτοποσταοι. Οά βμίς τιπ, cimceall σειμε τος παιη απυμαιό σο δ'έ δριος kway an c-aon countí amáin a bí pé slap pa paint pin ve Saranaib. Dioman ann le cúpla mí ran ainizeaman an cháce sin, ac annroin cu mniz ré an reire cliree azur ruan-aman reéala uaio. 11 ceane vo náo anro conur man o'oibnizeav é, ac vo veineav azur ní beaz roin. Ní h-é amain ná pazao ré ηττελέ ι n-λητη Saran'. Όίος Συη Saranač é, ač ní μαιδ ré rárta le h-exemption το ξίλασο. Δζυρ τά πβάι ιοιη ταθαιμε γυαη θί καοιγεαώ le κάιl αισε δαι τμιοθίοιο παη θί κάικεαη αισε Sup cuzao exemption oa léitero ac τλούμ le opeam an cozaro. Ac bi neirneac ra brean ro azur ba beaz leir oul 50 oci phiorun nuain a cuinead buize é.

Όα minic pinn 45 τμάστ Διμ τοιμ. Cioca οα έμιατόθ αμ απ συιπθ τροιό αμ τοπ ειμεληπ πό τμοιο ι 5coinnib An cozaio,-50 rpepialza choio i 5cóinnib an cozaro οτίμ 50 μαιό 5ac mac mátan 50 οιαθαίτας απυαρ απ ιυςτ πα ριοτζάπα. Sin coirt biog o'a ploide conteanta azainn. An lá ba meara, bí na mílce n án ocaoib azainn i néininn. níon réan tan cúpla mile vaoine i Saranaib αμ όυι ιρτολό μαιο σμημ. Δ5υρ παμ δαμμ αμ 3ας πίσ, δί comprise σ'λοητική pul ran n.C.C. (σίσμπλί σ'οιδμιζ σο'n azur man Apim ac zan apimai boit aca) azur compite eile ná oéanrao oaoa cun cabhuiste leir an ahm. An rcoile rin 'reao mill

All FAT IAT. ASup 'na diaid pin bi cupla Céao ná cuippero culait raisoiúna onta, ba cuma cao bainpoard 0010. ឋរ Dpockway ap an opeam ro.

Tá oliste as baint leir an uppiorún. 1r beas ouine i n-Cipinn ná cuiseann an méro pin na lautoanta po. 11 μαιο υιτο ná mažail opta náp bur an Saranac út. πί πιζτασό τό ό τότη τη τη τη τη τη τη τοσημα, πί δόαπταῦ τό 5πό πά οδαιμ. τό μιοπότ τη πό δίου τό, ac ταμότη cúpla mí man rín vo, venns an Riasaltair conta de azur níon curpeadan aon thorcad ann ac é comead irtis 'na reomna i zcomnurve san out smac ac snorp ip spup cun a tolcao. Sin map a tus pé pé mí, san Leaban, Jan Licin, Jan vuine ná veonaí o'reircinc.

Sorbimir reeals usid o h-am 50 h-am ASup ip mait ip cuimin Liom an nuo oubaine τό ταμ ειτ απ τοχα πόιμ " Ιμοίαπο η τhe οπο υμιζητ γροτ αζαιπ." Ο'τιομ τό παμ сигнело пильбело селис ли висс раосли 1 Sapanaib. 17 minic cuala cháce an πιγπολό λο πί καιο γιοη αξαπ όλο Vaincann to mirnoac Sup buarloar toir Δη υγθλη ύυ.

Όμιπο rimplioo, σιαόα δ'οαό έ, σμέιμ οθαί μαι τ. Πί τθαςα μιατί ό αξυρ πί Ιάτό και τη τατά το ματί το ματική το rcéala cun cun a coilo.

Ο'τόισιη le Oia 50 breicoamaio a céile lá éizin. Cá ró raon anoir azur munu bruit bripto an a plainte ni red ac a υθαηγαιό τό αμ του αυ είπιο σαουα.

miceal L. o Lonain.

THE METHODIES WORRIED.

It is no wonder that our opponents constantly refer to Bolshevism as an "insideous menace." The Methodist Church is in a fair way to be split wide on the question, if we are to believe the newspapers. Dr. Harry Ward, professor of Christian ethics in a Methodist University, it appears, has refused to slam the Bolsheviki and his reverend col-leagues are out for his blood, metaphorically speaking of course.

We may shortly expect to see the formation of the Bolshevik Methodists and the anti-Bolshevik Methodists and perhaps even the charge that Lenin is a Methodist.

The last would be hitting below the intellect

E.K.

Sean J. West suggests an Ernest Kavanagh Freedom Club to perpetuate his memory and carry on his work.

Education, agitation is the royal road to Industrial Freedom.

Remember, every day you work eight or ten hours a day you donate to your master six or eight hours every day. Let's get the six-hour workday and give the other fellow a chance to earn his living.

The Auto-cracy.

Liam Slattery has been appointed or-ganiser of the Irish Automen's Union. His experience in Thompson's will stand him in good stead among the drivers and mechanics.

LABOUR AND THE EX-SOLDIER.

Disagreeing with the warmongers and not believing in assisting the capitalists of any country-even though a "Gallant Belgium " or a " Downtrodden Ireland " forms the veneer of plausability to gull the wage slaves—I can approach Spartacist's problem with an open mind. I think he is unduly pessimistic regard-ing the future of the ex-soldier. I thoroughly appreciate Spartacist's endeavour to sound the tocsin of alarm; but my estimation of the spirit of my fellow-workers is not so low that I could conceive of their allowing their soldier comrades to bog in such a capitalist cesspool as what Spartacist depicts.

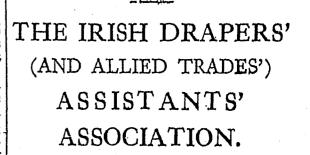

As one who decried the war and con-scription for anyone, I have no hatred for those who innocently imagined that Ireland's or democracy's freedom depended on their offering themselves as holocausts to the Moloch of militarism; but to despise anyone simply because that one will not unquestionably swallow Marxian Socialism or the principles of Pacifism is nothing short of bigoted lunacy. I cannot think that the ex-soldier is going to be so credulous as many imagine. Southern Irishmen have shown the world how the conscriptionist de-signs of a British Parliament can be successfully thwarted; and I have no doubt whatever, that any sinister schemes of either orange or green demoniacal capitalists, supported by a melodramatic press, can also be frustrated if Irishmen to themselves remain true. Why should the Irish workers allow political or theological differences to bolster up a system which degrades humanity and perpetuates the aggravated evils which all shades of Irish working class opinion wish to abolish? The more I consider the ex-soldier's position the more I'm convinced that his future is wrapt up with organised lab-our's. Craft Unionism is passing, and it behaves those who believe in Industrial Democracy to see that the door is thrown open to every toiler. Too long have we underestimated the forces against us; too long have artificial bar-riers and snobocracy allowed capitalism to keep the wage slaves manacled. Every ex-soldier must be brought into our ranks, not because he fought for capitalism (bygone sentiment), but because he belongs to the exploited class; and any soi-disant comrades' or "demooratic" party, that thrives on ignorant passion, must be unmercifully fought with the very weapons which it forges.

I feel disgusted with the notorious bosh which is constantly being flung at soldiers. I have spoken to men and officers whose fighting qualities were not displayed at Whitehall, and their ardour for a complete revolution in the conditions of the workers generally far excels the endeavours of those whose chief expression of hatred of capitalism con-sists in the vulgar waving of a flag. The army and navy are instruments used by capitalism to smash militant labour movements, because the workers being politically and industrially silent or collish, sanction it. The Irish trade unionists must stand sponsor for their comrades who unwisely, but heroically, went forth "to make the world safe for democracy," but, alas! on returning home find that democracy at home is still in chains. We must not allow another chain to be forged out of the ex-soldiers: we cannot afford to swell the reactionary forces in Ireland. Let us avail ourselves of every opportunity to effectively impress the Irish workers that religious animosity must cease, that they must bury the past, live in the present, and work for the future. The realisation of the highest aspira. tions of Irish democrats will be completely frustrated if they parley with capitalism; the class war must be con-tinued until the last vestige of thraldom We demand the fullest disappears. economic and political freedom, the discontinuance of the internecine conflicts within the movement, the present unrepresentative Parliament to be constitu-tionally or otherwise deposed, in short. the International in its truest sense to be firmly established; these can only be accomplished by a realisation of our dormant power and by the concentration of our energy towards the complete emancipation of our class. Agitate! Educate! Organise! then we need not /dread the reactionary politicians or unscrupulous capitalists in their latest debut at reinvigorating the "Ulster" impasse. Let them flog their dead horse; obstinacy cannot always be regarded as strength. Irish labour is. leaving its swaddling clothes, and despite the great difficulties, the gauntlet will be defiantly thrown down.

"UNITY AND BELT-BELIANCH."

HEAD OFFICES: Cavendish House, Cavendish Row, Dublin,

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE.

Open to all Assistants and Clerks engaged at the Drapery and Allied Trades in Ireland.

The Allied Trades include Ironmongery, Boot and Shoe Outfitting, Stationery and Fancy Goods.

Over £45,000 paid to members in Sickness and Unemployment benefits.

Present Reserve (Trades' Union Section) £7,000.

Over £150,000 secured in increases of Salaries during the past twelve months.

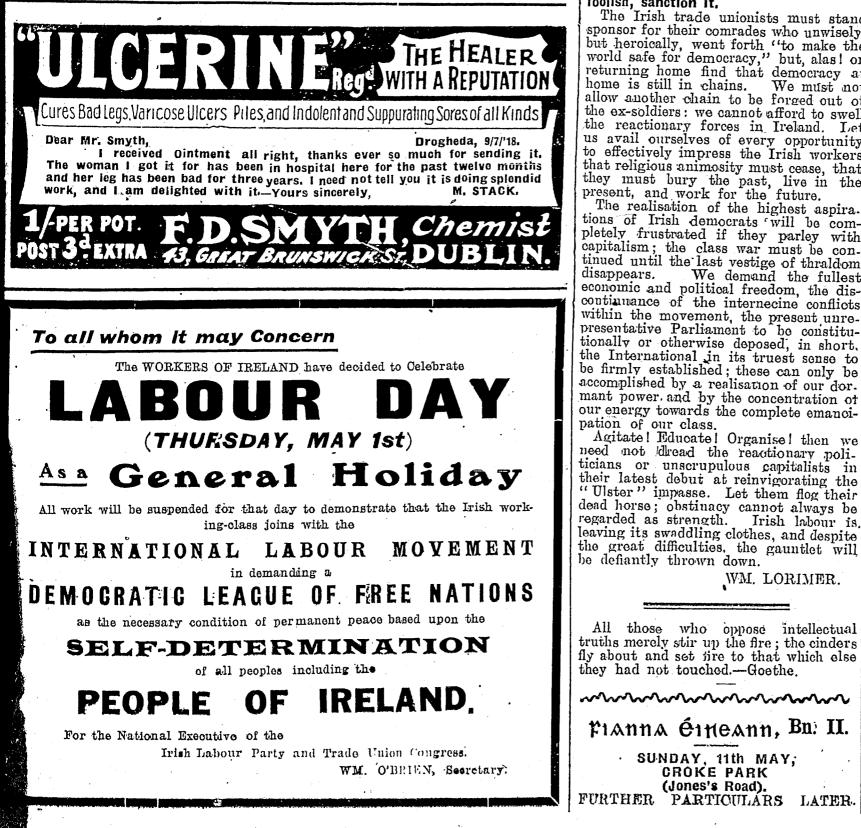

£60,000 secured in bonuses during the same period.

In addition to substantial benefits during Sickness, Unemployment, and at death, Benevolent Grants are also given, as well as Strike pay. Free Legal Aid and other numerous benefits which accrue from the Activities of A Real Live Trades Union.

Full particulars from Branches or Head Office,

新注於二

WM. LORIMER.

SUNDAY, 11th MAY, CROKE PARK

(Jones's Road).

Pioneers of Profit-Sharing in Ireland. Wan Collections and Deliveries every week in City and Suburbs Irish Materials Prompt Despatch Telegrams: " Watt, Dublin." Telephone 4366 Dublin. WATT !! Ltd.. GEORGE MILLWRIGHTS, AND SOHO WORKS, BRIDGEFOOT STREET, DUBLIN. Estimates given for Repair and Supply for all elasses of Machinery. SURGERY ENTAL NEW SETS EITH FITTED LOUBLES TO A # REATED T 11 " HOBOUGHLY PEACE & GOOD HEALTH You cannot enjoy good health if you have a mouthful of Bad. Testh, been you cannot masticate your food pro-perly, and because stomach trouble and indigestion are sure to fellow. Then you do not know the minute when they will start to sole and rob you of your slace, giving you no peace. Re at enes to All those who oppose intellectual MR. M. MALAMED, 16 HENRY ST. For Trestment and Advice. MODERATE M. TREMA MALAMED, 16 HENRY ST ADJOINING ARNOTTA

THE VOICE OF LABOUR.

"THE NTRET OF MAY, 1919. THE FIRST OF MAY, 191J.

THETRAVAIL OF LABOUR W. P. RYAN'S GREAT BOOK.

W. P. RYAN'S GREAT BOOK. The listory of the nameless workers, who made the Irish Labour movement, which W P. Ryan has given us in his book, "The Irish Labour movement" is, for the workers, the most important book since Connolly's "Labour in Irish History." Mr. Ryan carries on the tale of the toiling masses from the beginning of the ninetteenth century. He masses from forgotten periodicals and Parlia-"uentary papers the facts behind which had lost, or were lossing, in his period, their land and their clan-the commune of the Gael, their language and their native culture, but his pen refrains from the brutal realism of truth in the nude. The workers of Ireland have no cause to regret the passing of that Colonial Parliament which is sthe subject of Dr Sigerson's almosts lyricil ecstary of eulogy, and which is seriously defended from for notes the heritage of the Ryan motes the heritage of the Ryan motes the heritage of master institution. All combinations were legably banned, but in practice only the workers were punished for acts in master institution. All combinations were legably banned, but in practice only the workers were punished for acts in master institution. All combinations were legably banned, but in practice only the workers were punished for acts in the red thus in defence of law, have left the in the rocol facts that belied his blustoring speeches. The Committee the case to regret the passing of that colonial combinations of workers, 'main, the detus in defence of law, have left the workers were punished for acts in the tradiction of trade unionism in Dub-blustoring speeches. The Committee the tales of the tradiction workers were punished for acts in the tast blue the worker a punce the committee the tastory restraint of trade. Those combinations of workers, main-tained thus in defiance of law, have left but little in the way of written records, but in most cases their traditions are from time immemorial. Some unions of journeymen indeed arose out of the mediacval guilds. Plainly the spirit of community was inherent in the Irish worker, and the names of Fergus O'Con-nor, Bronterro O'Brien, Hugh Doherty, and many another since in English trade unionism show the indebtedness of the modern labour movement to the legacy of the Irish clan system.

Modern labour movement to the legacy of the Irish clan system. When we learn from Mr. Ryan's pages that craftsmen in Dublin, the dearest town in Ireland, were paid wages rang-ing from 2s. to 4s. a day, that in Bel-fast weavers earned from 3s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. a week, the need for combination and the tyranny of the law that denied it is realised it is realised.

The increasing misery of the poor in consequence of England's war against the French Republic, the introduction of cam power in the English factories and free compatition of chart and power in the English factories and free competition of cheap factory-made products with Irish manufacture, that first the Volunteers and then the ton made possible is praphically illus-t. ated by the case of the Drogheda handloom weavers.

In 1812 they received 16s. for weaving 78 vards of cloth. In 1820 they wove 83 yards for 10s. In 1828 the price for 88 yards was 7s: 6d. By 1834 the competi-tion of human hands against the soul-less steam driven loom had lengthened the piece to 93 yards, and reduced the price to 7s. price to 7s.

dustrial despotism and spoliation." His denunciation of trade unionism in Dub-lin led to his libelling grossly the work-ers of Ireland on the floor of the House, but when he secured from his allies, the base, bloody and brutal Whigs, a Select Committee the tales of terrorism he had announced as truth could not be supported by evidence. Dan did not make an impressive figure at the sitting of the committee, when he had to listen to cold facts that belied his blustering speeches. The Committee failed to report, presumably because the facts elicited would not support the case O'Connell and his Manchester allies de-sired to make. sired to make.

sired to make. It would be futile to attempt in this space to indicate the full range of Mr. Ryan's volume. It links the modern. labour movement with the Gaelic tradi-tion; and presents its development as a continuous evolution. He records the grinding poverty with a wealth of detail, the cumulative force of which makes the reader marvel that human kind sur-vived the ordeals of hunger and semi-starvation which has been the unchang-ing lot of the Irish worker. Ralahine's story is re-told, and Wil-liam Thompson accorded his place in the Nation's evolution. Lalor's creed is quoted, and his commentary on the Great quoted, and his commentary on the Great Hunger. There is a candid estimate of Michael Davitt's failure. Of Connolly Michael Davitt's failure. Of Connolly and Larkin there is much, not only about their public work, but intimate personal history. We see Connolly in the dusty printing office of the "Edinburgh Evening News" standing on a stool to lead the factory inspector to think that the child of eleven was of the legal age for labour. The little game was dis-covered, and the tiny bread-winner sacked. Baker, tiler, tramp, navvy, pedlar, scholar at his own expense in leisure hours stolen from sleep or in periods of enforced idleness, such was the training of Ireland's Socalist martyr. Larkin, too, spent his youth in pre-mature toil and wandering, knowing and suffering the worst that can befall a worker. What more can be said than that every Irish worker must possess Belfast will be indebted to Mr. Ryan that every Irish worker must possess Labour; this record of the growth in Get the book-better-sell the book. Every trade union official should be an and in some cases of per cent. A agent pushing its sales. The failor branch of the Friendly Society of Cabi-netmakers was formed, and the prospect of improved conditions was bright. The Mayor of Derry took alarm. Two Derry cabinetmakers were arrested and the prospect arrested and threatened with transportation if they are 6d arts. agent pushing its sales. The Talbot

SLIGO "P.R. ELECTION

A Pamphlet containing a brief technical explanation of the above can now be obtained from

The Proportional Representation Society of Ireland, 65 Middle Abbey Street, Dublin.

Price I/- Post Free.

Or from any Bookseller or Newsagent

Specially low prices will be charged for quantities to Trades Unions and Labour Organisations.

for resurrecting the story of George and master this martyrology of Irish Kerr's adventure in Derry. Kerr was a Labour; this record of the growth in Belfast cabinetmaker, who visited Derry in 1833 to help the local craftsmen to remove the stigma of poverty and op-pression from the Maiden City. Wages had here reduced by as much as 20 40 Events trade union of the book. had been reduced by as much as 30, 40 and in some cases 60 per cent. A branch of the Friendly Society of Cabi-threatened with transportation if they age 6d. extra.

THE Clerk, too long a slave, has now arisen, and conscious of his power, takes his place in the Labour Movement, and demands Just Conditions and a Living Wage.

GLERKS ARISE!

Your long night of Slavery is over.

JOIN THE ICWU UIJ

Full particulars from D. LOGUE, GEN. SEC., 1 COLLEGE ST., DUBLIN:

Government is not reason, it is not Far better to have the front of one's eloquence-it is force! Like fire, it is a face pushed in by the fist of an honest dangerous servant and a fearful master; prize fighter than to have the lining of never for a moment should it be left to your stomach corrolled by the embalmed irresponsible action. George Washing beef of a dishouest merchant. Jack London.

Printinghouse, Ltd., Dublin

Cater for the varied requirements of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, and supply to the Head Office ;—

ACCOUNT BOOKS REGISTERS and RECORD BOOKS STATIONERY OF ALL KINDS POSTERS, PAMPHLETS And High-grade Printing of all kinds in large or small orders.

There are many other Trade Unions obtaining all their supplies from Dollards.

Union Executives and Branch Secretaries who have not yet experienced Dollards good and quick service, care in minute details, and moderate prices for quality work, should place a trial order.

Estimates are gladly given free of all expense.

DOLLARDS Printinghouse, Dublin

Δη сана па гелса.

rean easain "eine of,"

το τεπίοδ.

innip oom, A léisteóin 'chorde iptis, bruil 'piop ASAC CAO 'p coinrí ann ' 116 an amlaid nán ainisír plam cháct an an Sead, ni panparo me le brocal poin ? τιιολ5ηλ 0' τάι uait, man caitim mo τοένι σ'πητιης, pé ole mait lear é, pé réivin nác réivin lear mo corre vo néroteac.

1 Sapanaib 00 céao-cáinis na coinpite All an raol, agur 1 ocorac ir beas ouine 50 ทุลาb oe อัลกลาอeace ann pocal mait oo cun inceac an a ron. ní oois liom anoip 50 scuiminisim alli 50 no mait. taitniseatali liom pein, rato 6, 50 h-ánisto, man bi na h-ósladic asainn Δηρο cun ceáno raizouina oo múineao σύιπη αξυρ δ'ρέισιη πάς δμέας σο μάσ 50 paib ponn choos an pospaib on inn.

Δ5υρ δ'ρέισιη υλιμελητλ, 50 μαιδ Δη ronn roin ohm péin. Ac má bí, ré ré noeah 50 paib ná 5an piop o'á malaine boie Azam. An oume teizeann the thoro no uatbar, ré tazann eolar cuize eolar nác réioin oo rolatan i n-aon plize eile. mostlaodar agur metodar oo bi an na compice, oan liom, cuisim i m'aisne anoir nán bríon vom an cuainim vo bí azam chí bliana o foin. Δ5μγ 17 σόζα πά τιυ 5 μη 50 σοό αι 51116 απ ζοί την πυμα πρόασ Jun tuzan an curo ip mó oo blain 1 n-áic 50 haib commutoe an fean aca .1. an capcap atá as na Saranais i Scatain lincoln.

Βί compí pa φμίσρύη ροιη, ponnen Βμοςκωαγ. Πί φάσαηη ροιη πά μαιθ compice eile nác é ipriz ACA. Όί, leat-cearo roiob ann, bobcaí, ac pé paop bí aca ap an brean mio-άσπαμιας πο nó, cait reirean ruineac ann oe ríon, ir cuma có aircheoctaoi. Οά βηίς μιη, timceall σειμο μος παιμ απυματό το δ'έ Όμος κωαν απ τ-αοη compi amáin a bí pé slap pa paint pin oc sapanaib. Víoman ann le cúpla mí pan αιμιζεαπαμ απ τμάζτ αιμ, ας απηγοιη έυ mniz re αμ γοικτ είμτο αξυρ μυαμαιπαι rcéala μαιό. Τι ceanc το μάσ απο conur man σ'οιδμιξεαό έ, ας το τοιπεαό αξυν πί beas roin. Τι h-é amain ná μαξαό γέ ιγτελέ ι η-ληιπ Saran'. Όίου Συμ Saranač é, ač ní μαιο γέ γάγτα le h-exemption 00 slacao. Asur oá mbáil loir ταθαίμε ruar bí raoiream le ráil aise ταιι σπιοβίδιο παιι δί ράιρέαμ Δισθ αξυρ τυξαό exemption σα leitero ΔČ sc bi τλούή le σμολή λη έσχαιό. meirneac ra brean ro asur ba beas leir oul 50 στί phiorún nuain a cuinead ċuize é.

Όα πιπις γιπη Δ5 τμάςτ Διη τοιμ. Cioca ba έμυλιόθ Δμ Δη συιπο τησιο Δμ γοη Cilieann nó choro i Scoinnib an cosaró,-50 rperialca choio i Scoinnib an cosaio ι στήη 50 μαιδ 526 mac mátan 50 οιαδαίτας απυαρ αμ ιμέτ πα ριοτέάπα. Sin corre biot σ'ά ριοισο cortecanta azainn. An lá ba meara, bí na mílte an an oraoib azainn i neipinn. níon living. γέαη ταν εύρια πίιο σαοιπο ι Σαγαπαιδ an oul incese ran anm. Agur man The Auto-cracy. Bann an Jac nio, bi coinnice o'aoncuis Liam Slattery oul pan 11.C.C. (σίσμπαι σ'οιδμις σο'η αμπ ας 5αη αμπαί θεις αςα) ασυρ σοιηριςε terr an apm. An rcoite rin 'read mill mechanics.

AR FAN IAN. ABUP 'NA DIAID PIN DI CUPLA céao ná cuinread culait raisoiúna opita, ba cuma cao bainpoad doiv. bnockway an an oneam ro.

Tá olisto as baine leir an bphiorún. ir beas ouine i n-Cijunn ná cuiseann an méro rin na laecoanca ro. 11 μαιό οίιτο ná piasail onta náp Upip an Sapanae úr. πά μαξάτο όροα παρ όμη απ δαγαπάς πό. πί πιξτοαύ τό ό κόπι 'πί 5Ιαπκαύ τό απ reompta, πί δόαπκαυ τό 5πό πά οδαιμ. τό pionor ir mó bioù τό, ας ταμότη cúpta mi maji pin vo, veijus an Riasaltair ουμέα σο αξυμ πίσι έυιμοασαμ αση τμαξατεαμ αιμ αέ 6 έσιποασ ιτειξ 'πα řeomμα 1 5com-πυιόο 5an συι απαέ αέ αποιρ ιρ αμιρ έυπ a colcad. Sin may a cus re re mi, san leauan, 3an licin, 3an vuine ná veopaí o'reircinc.

Soibimíp peóata uard ó h-am 50 h-am ASUP IP MAIC IP CUIMIN LIOM AN 1100 OUBAINC τό ταμ οις an τοża πόιμ " ηθίαπο η τhe οπο buzht γροτ αξαιπ." D'rion το man cuineso jusizeso ceane an luce paotain 1 Sapanaib. 1p minic cuala τράστ αμ mipnoac ac ní μαιθ τιορ αταπ cao baineann to mirneac Juli buailear teir an υρολη ύο.

Ouino rimplioe, οιαόα δ'οαό é, ομέιμ οeallhaim. Πί jeaca μιαώ é azur ní lámóčann a páo conup man puanaman rcéala cun cun a coilo.

Ο' τόισιμ Le Ola 30 Breicoamaio A coile lá éizin. Cá ró raon anoir azur munu bruit buirto an a rlainto ní reo ac a τό καταιό τό αμ του αυ άιπιο σαουα.

miceal L. o Lonain.

THE METHODIES WORRIED.

It is no wonder that our opponents constantly refer to Bolshevism as an "insideous menace." The Methodist Church is in a fair way to be split wide on the question, if we are to believe the newspapers. Dr. Harry Ward professor of Christian ethics in a Methodist University, it appears, has refused to slam the Bolsheviki and his reverend col-leagues are out for his blood, metaphorically speaking of course.

We may shortly expect to see the formation of the Bolshevik Methodists and the anti-Bolshevik Methodists and perhaps even the charge that Lenin is a Methodist.

The last would be hitting below the intellect!

E. K.

Sean J. West suggests an Ernest Kavanagh Freedom Club to perpetuate his memory and carry on his work.

Education. agitation is the royal road to Industrial Freedom.

Remember, every day you work eight or ten hours a day you donate to your master six or eight hours every day. Let's get the six-hour workday and give the other fellow a chance to earn his

Liam Slattery has been appointed organiser of the Irish Automen's Union His experience in Thompson's will stand eile ná véanpav vava cun cabpuiste him in good stead among the drivers and

LABOUR AND THE EX-SOLDIER.

Disagreeing with the warmongers and not believing in assisting the capitalists of any country-even though a "Gallant Belgium" or a "Downtrodden Ireland" forms the veneer of plausability to gull the wage slaves-I can approach Spartacist's problem with an open mind. I think he is unduly pessimistic regard-ing the future of the ex-soldier. I thoroughly appreciate Spartacist's en-deavour to sound the tocsin of alarm; but my estimation of the spirit of my fellow-workers is not so low that I could conceive of their allowing their soldier comrades to bog in such a capitalist cosspool as what Spartacist depicts. As one who decried the war and con-scription for anyone, I have no hatred for those who innocently imagined that ireland's or democrator's freedom de-

Ireland's or democracy's freedom depended on their offering themselves as holocausts to the Moloch of militarism; but to despise anyone simply because that one will not unquestionably swallow Marxian Socialism or the principles of Pacifism is nothing short of bigoted lunacy. I cannot think that the exsoldier is going to be so credulous as many imagine.

Southern Irishmen have shown the world how the conscriptionist de-British Parliament signs of a can be successfully thwarted; and I have no doubt whatever, that any sinister schemes of either orange or green demoniacal capitalists, supported by a melodramatic press, can also be frustrated if Irishmen to themselves remain true. Why should the Irish workers allow political or theological differences to bolster up a system which degrades humanity and perpetuates the aggravated evils which all shades of Irish working observations which all shades of Irish working class opinion wish to abolish?

The more I consider the ex-soldier's position the more I'm convinced that his position the more 1 m convinced that his future is wrapt up with organised lab-our's. Craft Unionism is passing, and it behaves those who believe in Industrial Democracy to see that the door is thrown open to every toiler. Too long have we underestimated the forces against us; too long have artificial barriers and snobocracy allowed capitalism to keep the wage slaves manacled. Every ex-soldier must be brought into our ranks, not because he fought for capi-talism (bygone sentiment), but because he belongs to the exploited class; and any soi-disant comrades' or "demo-cratic" party, that thrives on ignorant passion, must be unmercifully fought with the very weapons which it forges.

I feel disgusted with the notorious bosh which is constantly being flung at soldiers. I have spoken to men and officers whose fighting qualities were not displayed at Whitehall, and their ardour for a complete revolution in the conditions of the workers generally far excels the endeavours of those whose chief expression of hatred of capitalism consists in the vulgar waving of a flag. The army and navy are instruments used by capitalism to smash militant labour movements, because the workers being politically and industrially silent or foolish, sanction it.

The Irish trade unionists must stand sponsor for their comrades who unwisely, but heroically, went forth "to make the world safe for democracy," but, alas! on

THE IRISH DRAPERS' (AND ALLIED TRADES') ASSISTANTS' ASSOCIATION.

HEAD OFFICES: Cavendish House, Cavendish Row, Dublin.

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE.

Open to all Assistants and Clerks engaged at the Drapery and Allied Trades in Ireland.

The Allied Trades include Ironmongery, Boot and Shoe Outfitting, Stationery and Fancy Goods.

Over £45,000 paid to members in Sickness and Unemployment benefits.

Present Reserve (Trades' Union Section) an the second second £7,000,

Over £150,000 secured in increases of Salaries during the past twelve months.

£60,000 secured in bonuses during the same period.

In addition to substantial benefits during Sickness, Unemployment, and at death, Benevolent Grants are also given, as well as Strike pay. Free Legal Aid and other numerous benefits which accrue from the Activities of A Real Live Trades Union.

|   | om Branches or HeadOffice,   |
|---|--|
| Good Work                                   | Trade Union Wages  |
| Court                                       | LaundryST., DUBLIN   |
| Pioneers ofIreland. WaDeliveries ev | Linen Washing.Profit-Sharing inIn Collections andery week in CitySuburbs |

Cures Bad Legs Varicose Ulcers Piles, and Indolent and Suppurating Sores of all Kinds

Dear Mr. Smyth,

Drogheda, 9/7/'18.

I received Ointment all right, thanks ever so much for sending it. The woman I got it for has been in hospital here for the past twelve months and her leg has been bad for three years. I need not tell you it is doing splendid M. STACK. work, and I am delighted with it.-Yours sincerely,

PER POT. Chemist

returning home find that democracy at home is still in chains. We must not allow another chain to be forged out of the ex-soldiers: we cannot afford to swell the reactionary forces in Ireland. Let us avail ourselves of every opportunity to effectively impress the Irish workers that religious animosity must cease, that they must bury the past, live in the present, and work for the future.

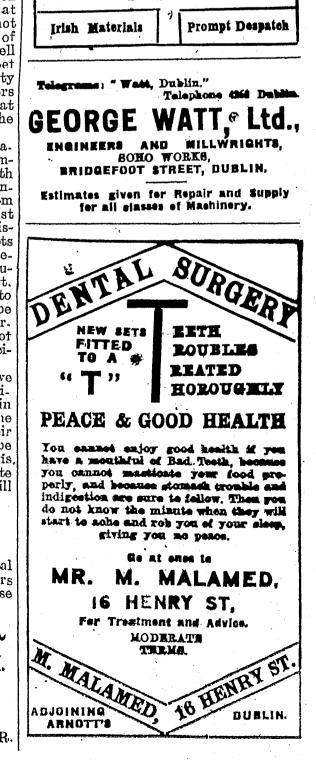

The realisation of the highest aspira. tions of Irish democrats will be com-pletely frustrated if they parley with capitalism; the class war must be continued until the last vestige of thraldom disappears. We demand the fullest economic and political freedom, the discontinuance of the internecine conflicts within the movement, the present unrepresentative Parliament to be constitutionally or otherwise deposed, in short, the International in its truest sense to be firmly established; these can only be accomplished by a realisation of our dor. mant power, and by the concentration of our energy towards the complete emancipation of our class.

Agitate! Educate! Organise! then we need not /dread the reactionary politicians or unscrupulous capitalists in their latest debut at reinvigorating the "Ulster" impasse. Let them flog their dead horse; obstinacy cannot always be regarded as strength. Irish labour is. leaving its swaddling clothes, and despite the great difficulties, the gauntlet will be defiantly thrown down.

WM. LORIMER.

All those who oppose intellectual truths merely stir up the fire; the cinders fly about and set fire to that which else they had not touched.-Goethe.

rianna Éineann, Bn. II. SUNDAY, 11th MAY, CROKE PARK (Jones's Road). FURTHER PARTICULARS LATER.

So far for progress made. Space does not permit me to enlarge on methods which may ensure better conditions. I would say if we are to gather the masses of unskilled labour into the fold of Trades Unionism, the workers must be properly housed; they must do their own thinking and must be educated and taught to rely on themselves and their own class. Labour must be represented on all governing bodies. This accomplished, we may say, "Our claims are only moderate; we only want the earth." WM. BLAND.

Key C.

|   | With the                              | en – gin                      | ies neath us         | throb-      | bing,   | and the            | wind      | up -       | on our              |          |
|---|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------|----------------------|-------------|---------|--------------------|-----------|------------|---------------------|----------|
|   | •                                     |                               | •                    | 1           |         | t .         | 1.        |            |                     | 14 - |
|   | 4                              | r :-                          | :t.d                 | r'          | :d      | l:t.f              | 1.s       | : -        | fe.s                |          |
|   | •                                     | stern,                        |                      |             |         |                    |           |            |                     | L        |
| ¢ |                                       |                               |                      | •           |         |                    |           |            |                     |          |
|   | •                                     |                               | •                    | Х.          |         |                    | 1 -       |            |                     |          |
|   |                                       | t :                           | · · · · · ·          |             |         |                    |           |            | i ife . S           |          |
|   |                                       | ides u                        | now from             | Erin        | •.      | For we             | hear      | hø         | r voices            |          |
|   | ,                                     | 1                             |                      | 1           |         |                    | 1         |            | •                   | 1        |
|   |                                       | 1.s : -                       | .m.s                 | ml          | • a     | l•c m              | r         | •          | :t.d                | ľ        |
|   |                                       | call-ing                      |                      | •           |         |                    | 1         |            |                     |          |
|   |                                       |                               | рисор-ц              | R Dase      | LID     | on the             | WCBV      | •          | Ownome              | •        |
|   |                                       | 1                             |                      |             |         |                    | 1         |            |                     | 1        |
|   |                                       | r! :                          | d':t.f               | 1. s | :   | fe.s               | t         | 1          | l:f.r               | Ì.       |
|   | ,                                     | home to                       |                      |             |         |                    | •         |            |                     | •        |
|   | •                                     | ••                        |                      |             |         |                    |           |            |                     |          |
|   |                                       | 1                             | Chorus.              | 1           | •       |                    | `1    |            | •                   | 1        |
| • |                                       | a                             | : d.m         | s           | 1       | s:fe.s             | 1.5       | • •        | • m . g             |          |
|   |                                       | 1 1                           | She is               | 1           |         |                    | 1 .       |            |                     |          |
|   | · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · |                               | N110 15              | •••••       | 6       | ,                  |           | 5          | .,                  |          |
|   |                                       | · ·                           |                      | }           |         |                    | 1         |            |                     | 1        |
|   |                                       | mi :                          | d':s.m               | r           | ; *   | :t.d               | r         | : ċ | l':t.f              |          |
|   | • •                                   | wind a                        | nd o'er the          | tide        |         | We, he             | r child   | – ren      | hear her            | •        |
|   | • •                                   | • .                           | •                    |             |         | • * *              |           | ,          |                     |          |
|   | -                                     |                               |                      |             |         |                    |           | •          |                     |          |
|   | ₹.                                    | •                             | fe.s                 | T           |         |                    | b         | : -        | •                   |          |
|   | ,                                     | voigen                        | call us              | ev          | - ei    | to her             | side.     |            |                     | •        |
|   | Oh I ye wat                           | ters bear us                  | onward               |             | (4)aria | us is the          | lond v    | vatua 1    | agning              | :        |
|   | And ye w                              | inds your ta                  | sk fulfil.           |             | And     | l its prid         | e shall g | row th     | rough ye            |          |
|   | Irish vale                            | h eyes we feand Irish h   | ill:                 |             |         | he landbut sha |           |            | homewar tears : | rds      |
|   | See their                             | d our Irish (glory and th | Dities,eir shame |             | Yet o   | ur heart           | her ca    | ll obo     | ying,ion crave  |          |
|   | And our eye                           | es like skies                 | o'or Erin.           |             | Turne   | th home            | to sha    | re her     | sorrow,             |          |
|   | THOURD                                | heir smiles sh                | on tears of I        | pain.       | Wh      | ere she            | weeps b   | eside      | the wave            | ),       |

Cuonus.

Ononus.

AN AUTO MAN?

YOU

:-.d::s.m

M.S

m'.

IF you are an Automobile Driver, an Automobile Mechanic, Improver, or Apprentice, the Trades Union for you is the

which has increased the wages, shortened the hours, and improved the working conditions of its Members.

It provides Mortality, Sickness, and Dispute Pay.

Entrance fee and contributions moderate.

Affiliated to the Irish Labour Party and Trades Union Congress and to Irish Trades Councils.

Branches throughout Ireland.

Apply to nearest Branch or Entrance Form or to the

W 7 . - C

بة المحد

HEAD OFFICE: 22 Dawson St., Dublin

As this issue has gone to press earlier than usual, several contributions and advertisements are omitted.

DEAFNESS

AND NOISES IN THE HEAD. Scores of apparently "hopeless" cases have been completely cured by the well-known "French Orlene." NOTHING EQUALS THIS SIMPLE REMEDY. Price 2/9 per Box. Booklet Free.

'ORLENE' CO., Station Rd., Croydon, ENG. Any good class Druggist can obtain this remedy to your order, or it can be obtained direct from us upon receipt of cost.

500 SECOND-HAND BICYCLES, Ladies' and Gent's; Price £4 10s. 8d., £5 10s. 8d., £5 10s. 8d., £5 10s. 6d.; carriage paid. Also 500 stove-enamelled frames, all sizes, ladies' and gent's; Trade supplied. New Covers from 5/-, 6/6, 9/-, 12/-, 15/-. Tubes from 2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 6/-, carriage paid. New Machines from 11 to 15 gns.; Dunlop Tyres and Brooks' Saddles. No, shortage of any-thing.

DWYER, 4 (V) ARRAN QUAY, DUBLIN.

| SUBSCRIPTION RATES:Ireland & Britain. Abroad.8. 8. 6. d. |
|--|
| 13 Weeks Post Free 1 8   |

Printed for the "Irish Labour Press," 27 Dawson St., by Messrs. Cahill and Co., Ltd., Ormond Quay, Publin. Registered as a Newspaper.